Fight May Delay U.S. Aid

By RUSS PULLIAM
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A partisan political fight over a plan to impose nearly $1 billion in new taxes to improve the finances of the state and New York City could delay a possible agreement between the governor and the Ford administration to rescue the city from default.

Gov. Hugh Carey and state legislative leaders were to meet with White House officials today in Washington in efforts to get President Ford to back Carey's latest plan to save New York City and the state from financial disaster and win Ford's agreement for federal help.

Democrat Carey, Republican state Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson and Democratic Assembly Speaker Stanley Sleingut were to meet with Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns, presidential economic adviser William Schmidtman, Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and aides to Treasury Secretary William Simon. Simon himself was out of town.

The meeting was scheduled Thursday as the President's press secretary hinted broadly that Ford may soon endorse some form of federal involvement in the plan. "The situation we are talking about has changed," said White House spokesman Ron Nessen. "Obviously there has been finally, at long last, some serious action by New York City and New York State to solve their own problems."

Simon said in Salt Lake City late Thursday he hopes Carey's plan will be approved by the legislature, but that he believes the President's policy against a federal bail-out will not change.

He said Carey's plan was "lacking in a lot of detail," adding that he was anxious to hear the answers to several questions. Simon made the comments following a speech in which he did not mention New York.

In response to a question from the audience, however, he said of New York officials, "They are finally on the right track, finally taking the tough steps — yes, they are tough steps — that they have been saying for the past eight months realistically could not be taken."

But he added, "This is not going to change the decision as to the federal government's role as far as a bail out, per se, of New York City...."

Carey outlined his tax proposals in a private meeting with legislative leaders Thursday, suggesting hefty increases in state taxes on income, liquor, gasoline, corporations and banks, as well as a one-cent sales tax hike for the state and a one-cent hike for New York City that would push the total in the city to 10 cents on the dollar. The current state sales tax is 4 cents on the dollar.

Some of those present at the meeting said they were astounded by the size of the tax package, reports before the meeting had suggested tax increases of from $300 million to $500 million.

Carey reportedly backed off a bit when faced with criticism from the Republicans present, and indicated he was willing to negotiate.

But the Republicans are expected to block approval of many of the tax increases, particularly a proposed boost in the surcharge on the personal income tax from the present 2 1/2 per cent to 5 per cent.

In Albany today, the legislature was expected to start approving the parts of the Carey plan designed to head off default by the state's fourth largest city, Yonkers, and the state's Housing Finance Agency.

U.S. Banks Have Heavy NYC Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 546 American banks, from coast to coast, have more than 20 per cent of their total capital invested in New York City or state securities, according to a Federal Reserve Board study.

The Fed said 179 of these banks have more than half their capital tied up in New York bonds, including state and city securities and paper from such agencies as the state's Urban Development Corp.

The report, released Thursday, revealed that 93 banks in New York state have more than 20 per cent of their capital tied up in city and state paper, and that Illinois and Florida both have a high number of states with significant holdings.

New York City's 11 largest banks collectively own New York paper amounting to 28.7 per cent of their capital, said the report. A bank's capital is just a fraction of deposits and assets.

Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns, who has softened his opposition to federal loan guarantees for the city, has said the Fed will see to it that no bank goes broke if the city is forced to default. In a letter accompanying the report, Burns said, "The fact that 179 banks reported holdings exceeded 50 per cent of capital should not be taken to mean, practically speaking, that anything like half or more of capital is at risk in these investments."

Even if the city or state defaults, the banks' securities are expected to retain some value.

Banks in 26 states were included in the list of 546 banks with a big stake in New York's solvency. None of the banks were identified specifically. Altogether, there are about 14,000 banks in the nation.

SMIETANKA AT SEMINAR

Prosecutor's Car Stolen In Detroit

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Auto theft was one of the topics Berrien County Prosecutor John Smietanka discussed with members of the Wayne county prosecutor's office on Wednesday in Detroit.

When he left the meeting, Smietanka discovered his personal car had been stolen.

"It was parked only one block from the Detroit police department's first precinct station house, and one block away from the Hall of Justice," Smietanka said. He said the 1972 Mercury Montego was locked and no keys were in the car when it was stolen between noon and 2 p.m. in downtown Detroit. One of the items that was in the car was a police radio and monitor, which Smietanka said was valued at "a couple of thousand dollars."

But the thing that really crushed Smietanka was the $350 he paid a couple of weeks ago to have the car re-painted and repaired. "There wasn't even any rust on it anymore," Smietanka said.

Bank Manager's Wife Ransomed For $100,000

GROSSE POINTE FARMS, Mich. (AP) — The wife of a Detroit bank manager was taken by a gunman from her home Thursday and held until her husband paid a ransom reported at $100,000.

Mary V. Zedan, wife of Manufacturers National Bank manager George Zedan, was held about an hour but released unharmed, police said.

It was the second extortion attempt involving a Manufacturers National Bank manager in three weeks, and the second abduction in the Detroit suburbs in the last four days.

Officials said a gunman in his early 20s broke into the Zedan home in this posh suburb northeast of Detroit about noon. Zedan was working at the bank and Mrs. Zedan was alone at the time.

The man telephoned Zedan and told him he was holding his wife captive. The intruder demanded $1 million in ransom, officials said.

The abductor told Zedan to leave the money in his car and park it in front of a church about two blocks from the bank.

Zedan left the car containing the money at 12:25 p.m. and walked away as instructed, he later told authorities. Soon after, the car was driven away. Mrs. Zedan was released unharmed about 10 blocks from the bank a few minutes later, officials said.

Zedan's car was found abandoned, without the money, in an alley here; police said the man actually walked past undercover surveillance officers near the church when he went to pick up the money. He was not apprehended because of fear for Mrs. Zedan's life, officers said.

But authorities said a police artist was able to draw a composite sketch of the man based on information from the under-

Scanner Spots Ship Wreckage

CLEVELAND (AP) — U.S. Coast Guard officials here say a Navy plane has located what may be the wreckage of the ore-carrier Edmund Fitzgerald.

The 729-foot freighter sank Monday in the stormy waters of Lake Superior with 29 men aboard.

The find was made about 6:30 p.m. Thursday by a P-3 plane about 1.8 miles from the last reported position of the Fitzgerald about 13 miles west of Coppermine Point.

Thomas Bentsen, 23, son of Mrs. Florence Bentsen, 1823 Hawthorne avenue, St. Joseph, worked in the engine room of the Fitzgerald and was aboard the ship when it disappeared.

A Coast Guard spokesman here said confirmation will be attempted Friday through the use of sonar equipment.

The spokesman said the aircraft crew also spotted a slight oil slick where the ill-fated vessel may lie in about 370 feet of water.

In Sault Ste. Marie, some 65 miles southeast of where the freighter was last seen, a Coast Guard spokesman emphasized the indefinite nature of the sighting.

"There's no firm data yet. It's just possible. We'll try to pinpoint it tomorrow (Friday)," he said.

"There's another wreck there that was never plotted and that's what it could possibly be."

He said the wreckage was not spotted visually, but by a magnetic scanner carried in the Navy craft.

"There's nothing assured," the Coast Guardsman said. "We'll have to locate it for sure." He said there are no definite plans to send a diver down to the wreckage, which is resting on the bottom.

But he indicated if it is reasonably certain the wreckage is the Fitzgerald, chances are good a diver would

Woman? No Way, Prof Says

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — There's no chance President Ford will name a woman to the U.S. Supreme Court, says a Michigan State University professor.

"There is not a sufficiently credible conservative woman," said Harold Spaeth, an MSU political science professor and an acknowledged expert at predicting high court actions.

Spaeth said he thinks since Ford is almost assured of reelection and doesn't especially need to cultivate the support of women, he'll appoint an avowed conservative like Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan or Solicitor General Robert Bork.

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Lyn Miles is finishing her doctoral studies in anthropology with a dissertation on her efforts to get Ally, Lucy and others to "talk." They're chimpanzees, and the conversations were in sign language.

Ms. Miles taught the chimps the sign language of the deaf while at the Institute for Primate Research at the University of Oklahoma as part of her doctoral studies for the University of Connecticut. "She thinks her research with the chimps can yield clues to the evolution of human language, help children with speech disabilities and give people a greater appreciation of the value of animals."

"The first time she conversed in sign language with a chimp, Lucy, 'I was really blown away,' she says. 'And Lucy look it as a matter of fact. She signed, 'What are you excited about.' I didn't know how to tell her I was excited about communicating with an animal."

Ms. Miles, who prefers that designation, said the best way to teach chimps a sign is by molding their hands in its shape. Chimps combine signs, on their own, into complete thoughts and use them to express feelings, she said.

Ms. Miles, who has taught signs to five or six chimps, says one chimp she worked with, Washoe, knows 150 to 200 signs and "we haven't reached the limit yet."

She said chimps sometimes do unexpected things.

Ally, a 5-year-old male chimp, detected a pungent odor from the pipe of one of her trainers. Ally turned to another trainer and signed, "George smell Roger," she said.

That showed that a chimp was aware of the sensations of others and could comment about an event and transmit information, she added.

Sometimes, Ms. Miles said, chimps can be devious and "lie by using signs" they learned from humans.

She said a trainer told her of Bruno, a chimp who wanted to gain possession of a hose used to wash down his cage. But Bruno, a 6-year-old male chimp, had it.

So Bruno went to the cage door and let out a chimp sound of alarm to signal danger, which he had picked up from humans, she says. Bruno left the hose and rushed to see what the danger was. There was no danger, but Bruno had his hose, she said.

Ms. Miles still marvels at what she says is the incredible experience of actually having a conversation with an ape.

"I don't think it will get any grunts, but there's certainly a lot of fun experiencing it," she added.

Jerusalem Bombing Kills Six Teenagers

JERUSALEM (AP) — Police questioned Arab suspects today about a bomb that killed six Israeli teenagers outside an ice cream shop in Jerusalem.

Armed police patrolled the city and security forces checked cars at roadblocks following the explosion Thursday night that also wounded 42 persons.

including an American and a Dutch tourist.

Police said three boys and three girls 15 to 17 years old were killed.

Two Arab guerrilla groups in neighboring Lebanon claimed their agents planted the bomb, which exploded on the anniversary of Palestine guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat's appearance at the United Nations General Assembly.

Previous Arab bombings in Israel have prompted raids by Israeli troops against guerrilla targets in southern Lebanon, but by noon there was no report of an Israeli strike across the border.

The bomb was hidden in a pushcart and exploded a few feet from a pastry and ice cream counter near crowded Zion Square, where a booby-trapped refrigerator blew up in July, killing 15 persons and wounding 70. Security sources reported that about 200 Arabs were rounded up for questioning, but the police said today the number was exaggerated.

The General Command of the Palestinian guerrilla forces in Beirut said the bombing was in retaliation for shooting by Israeli police at Arab demonstrators in Jerusalem. There have been no recent Arab demonstrations in Jerusalem, but security forces say they fired in the air to disperse protests elsewhere in occupied West Jordan, where rock-throwing Arab students have been celebrating the U.N. General Assembly's votes against Zionism and in support

Fight May Delay U.S. Aid

By RUSS PULLIAM
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A partisan political fight over a plan to impose nearly $1 billion in new taxes to improve the finances of the state and New York City could delay a possible agreement between the governor and the Ford administration to rescue the city from default.

Gov. Hugh Carey and state legislative leaders were to meet with White House officials today in Washington in efforts to get President Ford to back Carey's latest plan to save New York City and the state from financial disaster and win Ford's agreement for federal help.

Democrat Carey, Republican state Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson and Democratic Assembly Speaker Stanley Steingut were to meet with Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns; presidential economic adviser William Seidman; Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; and aides to Treasury Secretary William Simon. Simon himself was out of town.

The meeting was scheduled Thursday as the President's press secretary hinted broadly that Ford may soon endorse some form of federal involvement in the plan.

"The situation we are talking about has changed," said White House spokesman Ron Nessen. "Obviously there has been finally, at long last, some serious action by New York City and New York State to solve their own problems."

Simon said in Salt Lake City late Thursday he hopes Carey's plan will be approved by the legislature, but that he believes the President's policy against a federal bail-out will not change.

He said Carey's plan was "lacking in a lot of detail," adding that he was anxious to hear the answers to several questions. Simon made the comments following a speech in which he did not mention New York.

In response to a question from the audience, however, he said of New York officials, "They are finally on the right track, finally taking the tough steps — yes, they are tough steps — that they have been saying for the past eight months realistically could not be taken."

But he added, "This is not going to change the decision as to the federal government's role as far as a bail out, per se, of New York City...."

Carey outlined his tax proposals in a private meeting with legislative leaders Thursday, suggesting hefty increases in state taxes on income, liquor, gasoline, corporations and banks, as well as a one-cent sales tax hike for the state and a one-cent hike for New York City that would push the total in the city to 10 cents on the dollar. The current state sales tax is 4 cents on the dollar.

Some of those present at the meeting said they were astounded by the size of the tax package; reports before the meeting had suggested tax increases of from $300 million to $500 million.

Carey reportedly backed off a bit when faced with criticism from the Republicans present, and indicated he was willing to negotiate.

But the Republicans are expected to block approval of many of the tax increases, particularly a proposed boost in the surcharge on the personal income tax from the present 2½ per cent to 5 per cent.

In Albany today, the legislature was expected to start approving the parts of the Carey plan designed to head off default by the state's fourth largest city, Yonkers, and the state's Housing Finance Agency.

U.S. Banks Have Heavy NYC Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 546 American banks, from coast to coast, have more than 20 per cent of their total capital invested in New York City or state securities, according to a Federal Reserve Board study.

The Fed said 179 of these banks have more than half their capital tied up in New York bonds, including state and city securities and paper from such agencies as the state's Urban Development Corp.

The report, released Thursday, revealed that 93 banks in New York state have more than 20 per cent of their capital tied up in city and state paper, and that Illinois and Florida both have a high number of states with significant holdings.

New York City's 11 largest banks collectively own New York paper amounting to 28.7 per cent of their capital, said the report. A bank's capital is just a fraction of deposits and assets.

Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns, who has softened his opposition to federal loan guarantees for the city, has said the Fed will see to it that no bank goes broke if the city is forced to default. In a letter accompanying the report, Burns said, "The fact that 179 banks reported holdings exceeded 50 per cent of capital should not be taken to mean, practically speaking, that anything like half or more of capital is at risk in these investments."

Even if the city or state defaults, the banks' securities are expected to retain some value.

Banks in 26 states were included in the list of 546 banks with a big stake in New York's solvency. None of the banks were identified specifically. Altogether, there are about 14,000 banks in the nation.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Oldest Liberal Leaves Supreme Court

Even before a severe stroke accelerated an already declining health condition, William Orville Douglas repeatedly said he would never resign from the Supreme Court if it would give Richard Nixon or Jerry Ford the opportunity to appoint a conservative successor in his stead.

Two days ago Douglas forwarded a letter of resignation to Ford citing his condition as the reason for no longer permitting his impaired physical ability to hamper the Court's work.

Ford, who led an unsuccessful effort to impeach Douglas in 1966, accepted the resignation and praised his unprecedented 39-year tenure on the bench.

The 1966 impeachment demand arose from a revelation that Douglas was accepting a $12,000 yearly expense account allowance from the Parvin Foundation. The side payment enabled Douglas to lecture extensively. The Foundation had considerable assets invested in Las Vegas gambling casinos and other sections of the portfolio were widely rumored to be crime syndicate oriented.

A House subcommittee refused to accept the recommendation from the then minority leader, but Douglas parted company with the Foundation.

Three years earlier Douglas easily survived an impeachment resolution introduced by Cong. William M. Wheeler of Georgia. Wheeler was outraged for Douglas granting a stay of execution to the convicted atom spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

In 1970 Douglas published one of many books treating with social and political questions entitled "Points of Rebellion." Conservatives in and out of Congress accused him of advocating overthrowing the government.

These incidents, together with three divorces and four marriages, characterize the man from his first national prominence in 1936 when FDR appointed him to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Douglas, already a noted lecturer and teacher in the law, wrote most of the SEC's original regulations designed to purge Wall Street and the national exchanges of the hairier practices which helped to bring on the great stock market collapse in 1929.

FDR appointed Douglas to the Supreme Court in 1939 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Louis Brandeis, another celebrated liberal in jurisprudence.

Though neither the first nor the only libertarian to sit on the high court, Douglas became the most voluble and highest visible in that coterie. His opinions on civil rights, personal freedom and expression, and labor-management quarrels were far advanced beyond his contemporaries and much of the time based on his personal views rather than on precedents established in earlier judicial rulings.

He delighted, in his words, "in getting government off the back of the average man."

His approach reminds one of driving an automotive vehicle. A farmer plowing with a tractor need not signal a turn or a stop. Driving an automobile down a highway in the same fashion spells disaster. Douglas, though, saw little distinction between the two exercises.

His departure immediately creates a guessing game as to whom Ford will nominate as a replacement and when.

One speculation is he will accede to his wife, Betty, who espouses a woman for the post.

Michigan's Senator Griffin's name has been in the rumor mill since Douglas's stroke created the obvious deficiency on the bench.

Although the vacancy should be covered quickly, the White House probably will take its time in naming a successor whom a hostile Senate cannot crucify as it did with rejections of two Nixon nominations and this week's refusal to confirm Ben Blackburn, a former Georgia congressman, to chair the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Blackburn is the first Congressional alumnus to be given the back hand for another job. The Senate's Judiciary Committee almost unanimously declared his views on racial relations to be incompatible with a job which involves large scale financing of government assisted housing.

Historically, appointments to the Supreme Court have never taken into any noticeable consideration the nominee's record as a practicing lawyer. Former governors, law professors, members of Congress or its graduates, lower court judges, a variety of long time officialdom of one kind or another, have filled the bench for the most part.

By way of something different, it would be helpful to the Court and the public if Ford would nominate a lawyer with solid trial experience under his belt; somebody, if you please, who knows where the courthouse is.

Originality Is Maturity

In international trade relations, it might be said that a nation crosses the threshold of industrial maturity when it ceases to copy the products of other countries and begins to design its own. Before reaching this point, however, fledgling industrial empires have been notoriously lax on the subject of patent rights, particularly when they are of foreign origin.

Japan, prior to World War II, was the recognized pirate of American goods. Cheap imitations were made of a variety of items, including pens, watches, clocks, cigarette lighters and cameras. Inferior in quality and often crudely made, Japanese copies flooded markets at a fraction of the cost of American originals.

With the rebuilding of Japanese industrial facilities after the war, under the watchful eye of MacArthur's occupation forces, Japanese designed products began to make a strong impression in world markets. Its industries and commerce matured.

Other underdeveloped countries now are using the route to industrial strength once taken by Japan. They are stealing designs of inexpensive, fast selling items, imitating the products as cheaply as possible, and turning the junk loose in trade channels under the guise of better quality merchandise from other lands.

Communist block countries pay no regard to patent rights, and there are other nations which have not progressed to the point of offering products not found in abundance elsewhere. If they wish to travel the disreputable path of piracy to achieve a measure of industrial success, there is little the remainder of the world can do except ban their products.

Several weeks ago I attended the high school band rating competition held at Dickinson stadium in St. Joseph. Each band's performances were tremendous. Not only are they splendid musicians but rhythm experts and dancers as well.

The thing that impressed me the most, however, was as each band performed and then returned to their seats, the other band members gave that band cheers and standing ovations. To me, that was the greatest show of good sportsmanship I have seen in a long time. This seems to be sadly lacking at all football, basketball games and other school activities.

WRITES ABOUT SCHOOL BUS TAX

Editor,

When is safety put to a vote? Twice this past year we were asked to vote an increase in millage to continue bus service to 400 students. Both times it was defeated. I do not blame those who voted against it for whatever reasons. After all who wants to pay an increased tax to send someone else's child to school on a bus?

I do blame the St. Joseph school board for their choice of an issue. A more universal item should have been chosen. How can they allow the majority to decide whether or not a minority (those within 1.5 miles of the school) will have equal busing privileges?

If we lived in an area of sidewalks, 25 mph speed limits, traffic lights and crossing guards none of us would be complaining. But out here in the boonies these things don't exist.

The board's argument is that they only get reimbursed by the state for those children that they transport from beyond the 1.5 mile limit. My argument is that it is my tax money they're being reimbursed with. We are paying the State of Michigan to reimburse our school board to transport someone else's children while ours walk?

It seems to me the school board has put a small wedge in this community. We should all be working for the good of all the children. But it is pretty hard to maintain a spirit of co-operation when you feel you've been cheated out of something which you have a right to. I know that the millage vote was technically legal but is it morally fair?

Jack Kemp Has Time To Wait

WASHINGTON — When President Ford's election campaign staff was assembled last spring it immediately began to compile a list of potential successors to the unwanted vice president, Nelson Rockefeller. Largely, the list was an accumulation of Ford cronies, party hacks and weary warriors from old wars. One exception, though, was the name of Jack Kemp, age 40, three-term workhorse congressman from Buffalo, and clearly one of the truly interesting, even appealing, young conservatives in the shaky Republican establishment.

Mostly dismissed as a novelty when he came to Washington in 1971, a professional football player (Buffalo Bills) who could read, Kemp has, in a remarkably short time, developed into a legislative note, a representative who represents, and a corner in a party that desperately needs attractive faces.

He won't be Jerry Ford's vice presidential choice next year and he knows it, but there are decades of time to contemplate. "I don't want to be like (Bob) Mathias or (Vinegar Bend) Mizell," he says, referring to other jocks who come and go in politics; his philosophy, "absolutely" is one of upward mobility.

His philosophy is also outdated, in some respects, or at least according to conventional political wisdoms and tendencies. A one-time Californian of the Richard Nixon persuasion, once describing himself as "to the right of Attila the Hun," he has moderated his ideology in Congress, but only somewhat. Of Nixon he now says, as do so many, "I was deceived," and he has voted at times for trimming the military budget, for consumer protection legislation, and against direct corporate campaign funding. Still, he's considered stodgy.

Now he is out of his chair, warming to the subject, his finger poking his visitor for attention. What needs to be done, he says, in more words than is necessary, is "to reduce the confiscatory burden on the productive sector of the nation."

Though not an economist, Kemp has introduced lucid legislation to bring about the renaissance. Called the Jobs Creation Act, his bill's intent is to create the conditions whereby in just one year the nation would realize $74 billion in unanticipated capital investment, 7 million new jobs, $151 billion in additional productivity and $5 billion in increased tax revenues.

Kemp's house seat is safe, he is warmly accepted by party elders, he is in the Jerry Ford tradition — a chap who rises alongside his friends rather than over his enemies — good credentials for advancement. He is energetic, enthusiastic, bright and ambitious. Slightly naive, no doubt, and perhaps somewhat out of touch, it could mean White House regulars would not have to break him in.

Library At Mercy Of Bloated House

WASHINGTON — Our National Library — the second largest in the world — is in serious trouble, and the enemy is the House of Representatives. It hasn't quite come to book-burning, but the effect may be similar.

The House of Representatives now appears to be on the verge of taking over at least part of the splendid new marble annex to the Library of Congress, an act of piracy plotted for several years but thus far resisted by the Senate.

The annex is being built, at a cost of $80 million thus far, because the Library is so overcrowded that books are stacked helter-skelter in the corridors, and the librarians are having difficulty finding things. "There are now only four changes in 10 of finding a book you want in the Library. If it has been published in the last 10 years," a discouraged employee said, "At this rate, there won't be space to house even one copy of every book."

The House of Representatives is also overcrowded, due in part to the fact that Congress voted itself additional staff last spring, and also to the fact that most Representatives confuse quantity with quality. It's a battle of bodies versus books, and the bodies are noisier in complaining to their bosses.

The new Library, named after President James Madison, was approved by Congress in 1871, the same year a plan to build a fourth House Office Building was defeated because of heavy public criticism of the excessive costs of the third House Office Building, which had been completed only three years before. Congressmen have been selfishly coveting the Library building ever since.

The outer shell of the Library has now been completed as well as much of the books-stacks construction, which would have to be ripped out to create congressional office space at additional cost. But construction costs have outstripped the original appropriations — as they always seem to do these days — and additional funds will have to be cleared by Congress soon to complete the structure.

And that's where the House has the Library by the throat. House leaders, who have formally endorsed the plan to take over the Library, can simply refuse the authorization until the Senate agrees to go along with them. The Library, which is controlled by Congress, is powerless to object. And the Senate, its big defender, is in an awkward position.

The Senate is also planning an expensive expansion, for which it will need House approval. And it is involved in a financial squabble with the House about the deteriorating west front of the Capitol, which the Senate would like to have restored and which the House would like to have extended to (you guessed it) make more room.

The Library of Congress houses a priceless national treasure; it is the nation's leading public reference resource; it is a major functioning learning arm for Congress, since it provides basic research on major issues. It is the librarian's library. So where are its friends in time of trouble?

Oldest Liberal Leaves Supreme Court

Even before a severe stroke accelerated an already declining health condition, William Orville Douglas repeatedly said he would never resign from the Supreme Court if it would give Richard Nixon or Jerry Ford the opportunity to appoint a conservative successor in his stead.

Two days ago Douglas forwarded a letter of resignation to Ford citing his condition as the reason for no longer permitting his impaired physical ability to hamper the Court's work.

Ford, who led an unsuccessful effort to impeach Douglas in 1966, accepted the resignation and praised his unprecedented 39-year tenure on the bench.

The 1966 impeachment demand arose from a revelation that Douglas was accepting a $12,000 yearly expense account allowance from the Parvin Foundation. The side payment enabled Douglas to lecture extensively. The Foundation had considerable assets invested in Las Vegas gambling casinos and other sections of the portfolio were widely rumored to be crime syndicate oriented.

A House subcommittee refused to accept the recommendation from the then minority leader, but Douglas parted company with the Foundation.

Three years earlier Douglas easily survived an impeachment resolution introduced by Cong. William M. Wheeler of Georgia. Wheeler was outraged for Douglas granting a stay of execution to the convicted atom spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

In 1970 Douglas published one of many books treating with social and political questions entitled "Points of Rebellion." Conservatives in and out of Congress accused him of advocating overthrowing the government.

These incidents, together with three divorces and four marriages, characterize the man from his first national prominence in 1936 when FDR appointed him to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Douglas, already a noted lecturer and teacher in the law, wrote most of the SEC's original regulations designed to purge Wall Street and the national exchanges of the hairier practices which helped to bring on the great stock market collapse in 1929.

FDR appointed Douglas to the Supreme Court in 1939 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Louis Brandeis, another celebrated liberal in jurisprudence.

Though neither the first nor the only libertarian to sit on the high court, Douglas became the most voluble and highest visible in that coterie. His opinions on civil rights, personal freedom and expression, and labor-management quarrels were far advanced beyond his contemporaries and much of the time based on his personal views rather than on precedents established in earlier judicial rulings.

He delighted, in his words, "in getting government off the back of the average man."

His approach reminds one of driving an automotive vehicle. A farmer plowing with a tractor need not signal a turn or a stop. Driving an automobile down a highway in the same fashion spells disaster. Douglas, though, saw little distinction between the two exercises.

His departure immediately creates a guessing game as to whom Ford will nominate as a replacement and when.

One speculation is he will accede to his wife, Betty, who espouses a woman for the post.

Michigan's Senator Griffin's name has been in the rumor mill since Douglas's stroke created the obvious deficiency on the bench.

Although the vacancy should be covered quickly, the White House probably will take its time in naming a successor whom a hostile Senate cannot crucify as it did with rejections of two Nixon nominations and this week's refusal to confirm Ben Blackburn, a former Georgia congressman, to chair the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Blackburn is the first Congressional alumnus to be given the back hand for another job. The Senate's Judiciary Committee almost unanimously declared his views on racial relations to be incompatible with a job which involves large scale financing of government assisted housing.

Historically, appointments to the Supreme Court have never taken into any noticeable consideration the nominee's record as a practicing lawyer. Former governors, law professors, members of Congress or its graduates, lower court judges, a variety of long time officialdom of one kind or another, have filled the bench for the most part.

By way of something different, it would be helpful to the Court and the public if Ford would nominate a lawyer with solid trial experience under his belt; somebody, if you please, who knows where the courthouse is.

Jack Kemp Has Time To Wait

WASHINGTON — When President Ford's election campaign staff was assembled last spring it immediately began to compile a list of potential successors to the unwanted vice president, Nelson Rockefeller. Largely, the list was an accumulation of Ford cronies, party hacks and weary warriors from old wars. A one-time Californian of the Richard Nixon persuasion, once describing himself as "to the right of Attila the Hun," he has moderated his ideology in Congress, but only somewhat. Of Nixon he now says, as do so many, "I was deceived," and he has voted at times for trimming the military budget, for consumer protection legislation, and against direct corporate campaign funding. Still, he's considered stodgy.

"He's got," explains one liberal, "the look of Ron Zeigler about him."

For his part, Kemp seems torn between images. The sign on his office door demands that Vietnam MIAs be accounted for, a leftover from his nearly unqualified support for that embarrassing war, but in his untidy office, under a huge picture of old adversary Ernie Ladd, Kemp insists he is a "constructive" conservative, that is, pro-people in a way that transcends rhetoric.

He voted against the emergency jobs legislation of last summer, he says, not because he is against jobs, "to the contrary," but because he is against deceitful jobs: "What we must do is create permanent jobs, not by handouts but with solid capital."

BH Dedicates New Police Station Sunday

DEDICATION SUNDAY: New F. Joseph Flaugh public safety wing of Benton Harbor city hall will be officially dedicated Sunday with ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Shown above is main entrance of the two-story, 10,000-square foot addition which was built at cost of about $530,000 with U.S. Department of Commerce providing $470,000 and city budgeting the rest. Original city hall was built in 1937 at cost of $160,000. Addition is named in honor of F. Joseph Flaugh, a city commissioner for more than 20 years and former mayor. Both old city hall and new addition were built by Pearson Construction Co. of Benton Harbor.

MAIN ENTRANCE LOBBY: Trim brick and glass, and tight security, are combined in entrance lobby at F. Joseph Flaugh public safety wing of Benton Harbor city hall. Records clerk Wanda Barnes is seated inside communications room. Ground floor of the public safety addition includes a garage, pistol range, classroom for officers and prisoner lockup. Other police department activities on second floor.

Ross Field Will Form Its Own Police Force

The Twin Cities Airport board Thursday established its own police force, under provision of a state act allowing political subdivisions to form their own police units.

The airport police unit will replace hired security guards to enforce Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) security regulations. The airport currently has one security officer, hired with Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds, and another deputy sheriff working part-time.

Atty. Arthur G. Preston, Jr., board counsel, informed the board that the state act permits the airport, as a political subdivision, to operate its own police force, with powers of arrest and law enforcement on airport property.

Under the new system two officers would be hired, each to work three and a half days a week, 12 hours per day. Pay for the officers would come from CETA funds and from North Central Airlines on the basis of 50 cents per departing passenger. Under the board's resolution, the officers would carry firearms, be empowered to arrest any person caught attempting to carry a weapon aboard an airliner and perform other security work around the airport.

In other action yesterday, the Twin Cities Airport board formally offered Ross field as a disposal site for sand and silt dredged from the local harbor by the U.S. Corps of Engineers. St. Joseph City Manager Gerald W. Hepler said the airport would be added to a list of sites being assembled by the Twin Cities Port commission to be submitted to the Corps of Engineers.

Hepler also noted that the airport offer fulfills two requirements many other sites do not — the airport land is publicly owned and it would be available to accept dredgings for 10 years.

The main drawback is that it is 2½ to 3 miles from the harbor, posing a transportation problem.

The Port commission has been working with the Corps of Engineers in an attempt to find a location where inner harbor dredgings can be dumped, Hepler explained. Because material from the inner harbor is considered polluted, it cannot be dumped into Lake Michigan. Land sites for dredged material must be so located that drainage cannot flow back into Lake Michigan or the St. Joseph river. The Ross field site would fulfill that requirement Hepler said.

Findling & Associates, a St. Joseph realty firm, offered the airport board an opportunity to purchase approximately two acres of land and business buildings that face Territorial road next to the airport access drive.

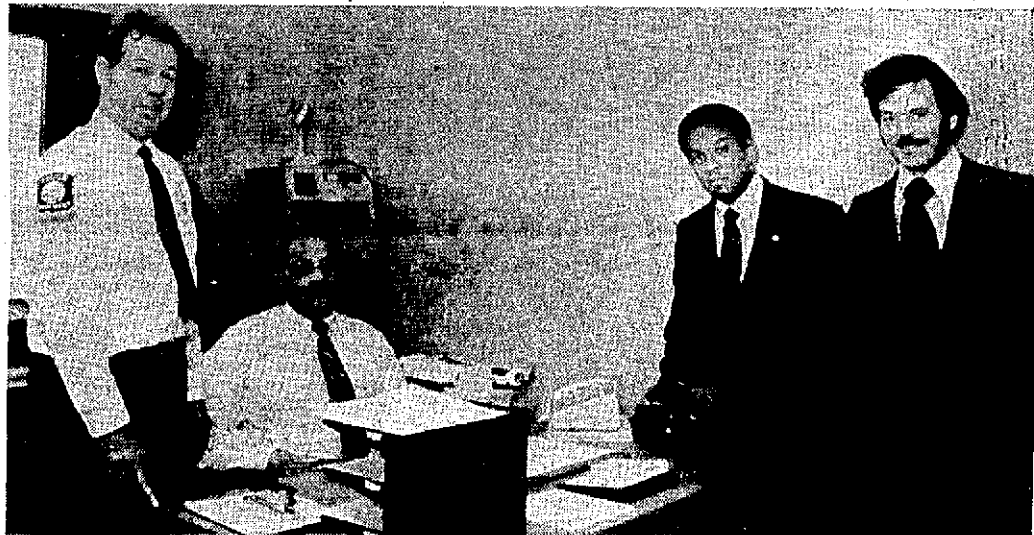

The property is owned by David S. and Barbara Scher of Coloma. It is priced at $155,000. Three purchase plans were offered. One would have the airport lease the property for $15,000 for 30 years at which time the airport board could buy the property for $1; buy the property on a land contract for $1,250 a month at nine per cent interest or buy it for cash. Rental from businesses on the property could be used to pay the principal, the proposal indicated.

The airport board said it would consider the three plans and have Airport Manager Edward Weisbruch report on board action.

Weisbruch told the board a meeting has been set for next Friday to finalize the updated master plan. Planning engineers from the firm of Landrum and Brown of Cincinnati and FAA district office representatives will submit recommendations. The master plan must be periodically updated in order for the airport to receive federal funds for expansion and improvement, Weisbruch explained.

Weisbruch reported one of the fixed base operators, Alpha Aviation, was to end operations today. That leaves only Agri-Air, a crop dusting firm, at the airport for maintenance. Board Member Clint Raines urged a study on the situation to see what would be necessary to re-establish a full service maintenance operation at the field.

Auto Looting Ring Warrants Sought

A three-week investigation by the Berrien Metro Crime Unit and a St. Joseph police officer has reportedly broken an auto burglary ring operating in the south St. Joseph-Stevensville area, metro officers said yesterday.

Metro Commander Don Jewell said about $1,400 worth of loot has been recovered and warrants are being sought for the arrest of eight suspects in connection with the break-ins of some 70 vehicles.

Jewell noted about $3,500 worth of citizens' band radios, stereo tape players, and auto parts were stolen from vehicles in the area where the burglary ring was operating.

He also said the eight suspects all reside in the Twin Cities area and that police expect to have arrest warrants by next week.

The investigation was conducted by St. Joseph Patrolman Joseph Garski and Metro personnel, Jewell stated.

St. Joseph Man Heads Negro College Fund Drive

Dennis W. Krueger of St. Joseph has been named Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chairman of the 1975 United Negro College Fund (UNCF) campaign, Gilbert F. Richards, general chairman of the Michigan campaign, announced.

Krueger, of 4374 Doble drive, Royalton township, is director of industrial and community relations for the laundry group of Whirlpool Corp.

Krueger said about 48,000 students are now being educated in 41 colleges and universities supported by the United Negro College fund, and 70 per cent of the students come from families with incomes under $5,000 per year.

Student aid has the first claim on funds contributed to UNCF, according to Krueger, followed by faculty salaries, equipment and library books. Since the founding of the fund in 1944, a total of $140 million has been raised for member schools.

Thomas A. Murphy of Bloomfield Hills, chairman of General Motors Corp., is this year's national campaign chairman of the fund, which seeks to raise $14 million nationally. The goal for the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph area is $11,000, unchanged from last year.

Further information on tax-exempt contributions can be obtained by contacting Krueger, Krueger, 33, and his wife, Judi, have five children.

Correspondents Meet

Australian Pen Pal

By MARYANNE BUTT
Staff Writer

After nine years of corresponding between St. Joseph, Michigan, and Sydney, Australia, pen pals Lisa Hightower and Jenny Eagle have met.

Jenny, 18, has been traveling throughout Europe and the United States since she left her home in Sydney in January.

She arrived in Los Angeles from London Sept. 27, and, alone, went to Disney Land, then on to Flagstaff, saw the Grand Canyon, spent a day in Albuquerque, to Denver, then St. Louis, and finally arrived in Evanston, where she met Lisa.

She stayed with Lisa, 18, a sophomore theatre major at Northwestern university, for about five days, getting to know her correspondent and meeting many of her friends.

Jenny says, about meeting her pen pal, "It's really amazing, you think you'll write to someone for a while, and stop — you never dream you'll actually meet them." She now knows Lisa more personally. Jenny says, even though she felt she knew her well through the correspondence.

Lisa says when she heard Jenny was coming she thought, "This isn't possible. It only happens in the movies." She felt she knew Jenny quite well through the letters and says Jenny is just like she expected.

After her stay at Northwestern, Jenny visited Lisa's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hightower of St. Joseph, for about two weeks.

She says the people in this country are friendly and have been "really great." She also says the United States in many ways is very similar to Australia.

Jenny's travels in Europe weren't always by herself. She traveled for a while with her mother, and with other young people at other times. She says there were times when funds were pretty short, and she and her friends ate just about anything. So, she's really enjoyed the meals at the Hightowers, including vegetables and fish, which she never used to eat.

Jenny has received a work permit from Canada and has left St. Joseph for Toronto, where she will work for a family; doing such things as driving children to and from school and helping with the housework.

JENNY EAGLE

She's also held other temporary jobs in various countries since she left Sydney.

Jenny says when she returns to Australia, she's going to save her money and return to her worldly travels. More realisticly, however, she says she'll probably return to work (she's a data processor) and try to get into a "uni" (university) where she'd like to study child psychology, or become a computer operator.

First Pumpkin Pie Was Actually Apple!

With today's casual and hectic mode of living, the huge everyday dinners at grandmothers or even mother's are just pleasant childhood memories.

The modern homemaker, though she can serve gourmet meals from her freezer and create festive foods in a wink, is preparing lighter dishes for her active and calorie-conscious family and friends.

Yet Thanksgiving dinner seems to be the exception. It is an occasion for the family to sit down to a sumptuous repast — with course after course of wonderful traditional fare.

Perhaps our heritage and the heritage of this holiday is still important to Americans who, after all, have so much for which to be thankful.

Today, a Thanksgiving dinner without pumpkin pie to complete it is like Christmas without a tree. And yet there was no pumpkin pie at that first Thanksgiving celebration at Plymouth 355 years ago. Though the Indians raised some pumpkins and might have offered a few to the Pilgrims, it's doubtful that they knew what to do with this formidable vegetable, besides giving them to the children to roll in pumpkin rices.

Why then has the pumpkin become so indigenous to Thanksgiving? Perhaps it awakens memories in the hearts of older persons as a symbolic link between yesterday and today... as Whittier wrote: "What calls back the past like the rich pumpkin pie?" And perhaps the huge golden melon also became a symbol of copious harvests and better times.

As colonial cooking became more sophisticated, later colonists began to use the pumpkin extensively in sauces, breads and finally in pies, which became THE Thanksgiving dessert. One early rhymster colonist wrote: "We have pumpkins at morning, pumpkins at noon/If it were not

Of course, the Pilgrims were not so adventuresome but there was wine at the first Thanksgiving, wine made from the juice of the red and white grapes that grew abundantly in New England.

Ninety Indians and 56 Pilgrims sat down to the three-day feast at tables set with five deer (contributed by the Indians), turkeys, geese, ducks, oysters, eels, clams and fish. Cranberries, strawberries, plums and cherries were dried and cooked in dough cases — the forerunners of famous New England pies. And the children must have loved the popcorn balls which the Indians taught them how to make — for popcorn was a true Indian invention!

The modern homemaker has an electric oven, but the Pilgrims cooked everything in the open. And if you think you're harried, there were only five Pilgrim women to cook for the men and their ravenous "savage" friends! Of course, there were no dishes to do afterward.

The modern pumpkin pie is a result of several centuries of evolution. Pompon, as it was called, was cultivated in England and the first "pumpkin pie" was actually apple pie in a pumpkin shell. The British housewife cut a hole in the side of the pumpkin, extracted the seeds and fibers and filled the cavity with apples. Then she baked it. Later, the pumpkin pie was made from a recipe for English apple pie. But eventually the modern, light and delicious pumpkin pie was born.

Here is a traditional recipe for pumpkin pie translated into tarts — perfect if your Thanksgiving includes several children.

PUMPKIN TARTS

Two cups mashed cooked pumpkin
One-half cup white sugar
One-half teaspoon ginger
One teaspoon salt
One and one-half cups cream
One cup light brown sugar
Two teaspoons cinnamon
One-half teaspoon nutmeg
Three eggs, beaten

Mix all ingredients, beating until smooth and frothy. Line patty pans with pastry shells. Prick bottom of pastry with lines of a fork and flute edges. Pour batter and bake in 350 degree oven until firm. Serve with Honey-Ginger Sauce. (Makes twelve tarts or one large pie.)

HONEY GINGER SAUCE

One cup sugar
One-fourth cup water
One-fourth cup Drabmble
Two tablespoons ginger
Two chopped finely

Two tablespoons honey
Boil ingredients (except for Drabmble) together for 10 minutes. Add Drabmble and boil two more minutes. Cool. Spoon over tarts or pie.

Top off with Jamaican Coffee, a pinch to prepare. Just pour a generous dollop of Tia Maria into hot black coffee and top with whipped cream.

First Pumpkin Pie Was Actually Apple!

With today's casual and hectic mode of living, the huge everyday dinners at grandmother's or even mother's are just pleasant childhood memories.

The modern homemaker, though she can serve gourmet meals from her freezer and create festive foods in a wink, is preparing lighter dishes for her active and calorie-conscious family and friends.

Yet Thanksgiving dinner seems to be the exception. It is an occasion for the family to sit down to a sumptuous repast — with course after course of wonderful traditional fare.

Perhaps our heritage and the heritage of this holiday is still important to Americans who, after all, have so much for which to be thankful.

Today, a Thanksgiving dinner without pumpkin pie to complete it is like Christmas without a tree. And yet there was no pumpkin pie at that first Thanksgiving celebration at Plymouth 355 years ago. Though the Indians raised some pumpkins and might have offered a few to the Pilgrims, it's doubtful that they knew what to do with this formidable vegetable, besides giving them to the children to roll in pumpkin races.

for pumpkins, we should be undone." And an old colonial drinking song began: "Oh we can make liquor to sweeten our lips/Of pumpkins, of parsnips, of walnut tree chips . . ."

Of course, the Pilgrims were not so adventuresome but there was wine at the first Thanksgiving, wine made from the juice of the red and white grapes that grew abundantly in New England.

Ninety Indians and 50 Pilgrims sat down to the three-day feast at tables set with five deer (contributed by the Indians), turkeys, geese, ducks, oysters, eels, clams and fish. Cranberries, strawberries, plums and cherries were dried and cooked in dough cases — the forerunners of famous New England pies. And the children must have loved the popcorn balls which the Indians taught them how to make — for popcorn was a true Indian invention!

The modern homemaker has an electric oven, but the Pilgrims cooked everything in the open. And if you think you're harried, there were only five Pilgrim women to cook for the men and their ravenous "savage" friends! Of course, there were no dishes to do afterward.

The modern pumpkin pie is a result of several centuries of evolution. Pompon, as it was called, was cultivated in England and the first "pumpkin pie" was actually apple pie in a pumpkin shell. The British housewife cut a hole in the side of the pumpkin, extracted the seeds and fibers and filled the cavity with apples. Then she baked it. Later, the pumpkin pie was made from a recipe for English apple pie. But eventually the modern, light and delicious pumpkin pie was born.

giving includes several children.

PUMPKIN TARTS
Two cups mashed cooked pumpkin
One-half cup white sugar
One-half teaspoon ginger
One teaspoon salt
One and one-half cups cream
One cup light brown sugar
Two teaspoons cinnamon
One-half teaspoon nutmeg
Three eggs, beaten

Mix all ingredients, beating until smooth and frothy. Line patty pans with pastry shells. Prick bottom of pastry with tines of a fork and flute edges. Pour batter and bake in 350 degree oven until firm. Serve with Honey-Ginger Sauce. (Makes twelve tarts or one large pie.)

HONEY GINGER SAUCE
One cup sugar
One-fourth cup water
One-fourth cup Drumbue
Two tablespoons ginger, chopped finely
Two tablespoons honey

Boil ingredients (except for Drumbue) together for 10 minutes. Add Drumbue and boil two more minutes. Cool. Spoon over tarts or pie.

Top off with Jamaican Coffee, a pinch to prepare. Just pour a generous dollop of Tia Maria into hot black coffee and top with whipped cream.

Correspondents Meet

Australian Pen Pal

By MARYANNE BUTT
Staff Writer

After nine years of corresponding between St. Joseph, Michigan, and Sydney, Australia, pen pals Lisa Hightower and Jenny Eagle have met.

Jenny, 18, has been traveling throughout Europe and the United States since she left her home in Sydney in January.

She arrived in Los Angeles from London Sept. 27, and, alone, went to Disney Land, then on to Flagstaff, saw the Grand Canyon, spent a day in Albuquerque, to Denver, then St. Louis, and finally arrived in Evanston, where she met Lisa.

She stayed with Lisa, 19, a sophomore theatre major at Northwestern university, for about five days, getting to know her correspondent and meeting many of her friends.

Jenny says, about meeting her pen pal, "It's really amazing, you think you'll write to someone for a while, and stop — you never dream you'll actually meet them." She now knows Lisa more personally. Jenny says, even though she felt she knew her well through the correspondence.

Lisa says when she heard Jenny was coming she thought, "This isn't possible. It only happens in the movies." She felt she knew Jenny quite well through the letters and says Jenny is just like she expected.

After her stay at Northwestern, Jenny visited Lisa's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hightower of St. Joseph, for about two weeks.

She says the people in this country are friendly and have been "really great." She also says the United States in many ways is very similar to Australia.

Jenny's travels in Europe weren't always by herself. She traveled for a while with her mother, and with other young people at other times. She says there were times when funds were pretty short, and she and her friends ate just about anything. So, she's really enjoyed the meals at the Hightowers, including vegetables and fish, which she never used to eat.

Jenny has received a work permit from Canada and has left St. Joseph for Toronto, where she will work for a family, doing such things as driving children to and from school and helping with the housework.

Eggnogs Ideal Holiday Drink

Eggnogs are an ideal holiday beverage to suit family members and friends of all ages.

For children, add a scoop of sherbet or ice cream to the custard base. A touch of "spirits" might be appealing to adults. Try adding a jigger of flavored liqueur instead of the usual brand of rum.

JENNY EAGLE

She's also held other temporary jobs in various countries since she left Sydney.

Jenny says when she returns to Australia, she's going to save her money and return to her worldly travels. More realistically, however, she says she'll probably return to work (she's a data processor) and try to get into a "uni" (university) where she'd like to study child psychology, or become a computer operator.

Fashion Gets A Real Boot

POPULAR: Health shoe styles (top) follow another natural boot trend for this season. "Four-wave" action sole appears in (left) high calf leather boot, (center) soft suede loafer, and (right) tie ankle in soft suede. All are by Joe Famolare. Also reflecting a back-to-nature mood in footwear (bottom) is the Charlie Boot by Earth. It has special support features for walking comfort.

NEW YORK (NEA) — When Oscar de la Renta showed the Frye boot with his fall '75 women's sportswear line, he blessed it with status.

Now, the pull-on, western-style workboot is in such demand the small New England company that makes it is having trouble filling orders.

"We sell every pair we make," reports Rudy Weeks, vice president in charge of marketing for the John A. Frye Co., Inc., of Marlboro, Mass., a shoe firm founded in 1863.

The naked grain leather boot, which retails from $50 to $65 for women, reaches to just below the knee. It's side-stitched, has an all-leather workboot heel, and comes in earth tone shades, the most popular of which is rust.

"Because we're a one-plant company, our line tends to be marketed through specialty shops, rather than huge chains," Weeks says. "We have 3,000 outlets nationally. I'd say the appeal of the boot reflects the interest of the ecology-minded, young alternate culture. The people who want a return to a natural product with an inherent value."

manufacturer at every price level is providing its own interpretation of the riding boot with variations in stitching.

SUEDE: Refined look remains in some boot styles. Joe Famolare designed this one in suede with fur top, stacked leather heel.

WORKBOOT: Women embrace western workboot by Frye as a fashion must. This is 14-inch boot in antiqued cowhide.

sole treatment and heel height. Last year's slouch boot that gathered at the ankle is still around, though modified, but the new look is a straighter silhouette with a narrower toe. To bring the boot closer to the leg, the zipper is back, and a slim stacked heel, roughly two and a half inches, provides a fresh, sleek look.

In more casual boots, walk-easy rubber soles abound. You can choose from a crepe-sole wedge, an undulating sole, or a low, flat sole.

For the activist, in skirts or pants, there are fleece-lined ankle boots, knee-highs, sturdy-hiking boots and apres-ski boots done in fur and leather combinations. They're all there in suedes, calfskin, patents and synthetics, in natural and heather tones, charcoal gray, chocolate and black.

If you ever wondered why fashion boots lack the traction sole treatment that prevents slipping on ice, the designers say it's because a purely leather sole is more refined. Still, in spite of this, the traction sole is showing up more and more. Truly water-proof boots, however, are still few and far between, especially for the seeker of the refined look in fashion.

'Our Heritage'

FEDERATION: Mrs. Harry Latty, center, was speaker at the October meeting of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Federation of Women's clubs held at the Josephine Morton Memorial Home, Benton Harbor. Her topic was "Our Heritage — Costumes." She wore a dress from the 1890's belonging to the Latty family. Mrs. Carolyn Luebke, left, wore a 1920's graduation dress owned by the Morton House, and Miss Carol Hemingway, right, wore an Indian dress owned by the Lattys. Past presidents were also honored at the club's 60th anniversary meeting. (Staff photo)

All fish are tender before they're cooked so remember, in fish cookery the key is not to overcook.

Cohabitation Without Sex?

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you expressed serious doubts that unmarried singles could live together without sex. Well, I'm one who is now involved in such an arrangement and it CAN work.

Jim and I were married four years. Our sex life was very unsatisfactory but we stayed together because we thought we loved each other. I was shocked when Jim told me he wanted a divorce to marry someone with whom he was completely compatible. I gave him his freedom at once.

Three months later, Jim's affair fell through and he asked me to move back with him. I did, although we were no longer married.

We agreed it would be a brother-sister relationship with each of us dating others, but no fair bringing a bed-partner to the house.

We plan to live this way until one of us decides to remarry. It may sound strange, Ann, but it works. And it certainly makes a lot of sense financially. Sign me — Content In Connecticut.

Dear Friend: So — contentment is living with an ex-husband in Connecticut. To each his own, dearie, but your testimony does nothing to alter my original stand.

The reason you and Jim enjoy a platonic relationship is because you both know you are sexually incompatible. How long do you think you could keep the brother-sister act going if you two had just met? See what I mean?

Common Sense

Dear Ann Landers: My handwriting is so bad, I'm ashamed of it. No matter how hard I try I can't improve. A few years ago I decided to type all personal letters and notes. Last month we had a death in the family. I received several letters and sympathy cards. I acknowledged them on the typewriter. A close friend told me I had violated a basic rule of etiquette. Yes or no? — Henscratcher In Helena

Dear Hen: In my opinion — no. I'd rather receive a typewritten note I can read than a handwritten one that is illegible. Etiquette is based on common sense.

Unwanted Child

Dear Ann Landers: Our 22-

ANN LANDERS

year-old daughter was married last year to a very bright young man she met at college. They are both working on their Ph.D.s and are extremely serious about their studies.

Two weeks ago our daughter told us she is in her fifth month of pregnancy. She and her husband have decided to put the baby up for adoption. My husband and I were horrified. It seems they have talked it over and decided they don't want a family — at least not now. The doctor told her she is too far along to have an abortion.

We offered to take the baby but they said no — if they saw the child they might want to keep it and their lives would be disrupted.

Ann, these two people SHOULD have children. They are both healthy and bright and would make wonderful parents. What can we do to persuade them not to do this awful thing? — Sad Mom And Dad

Dear M & D: Just because a couple is healthy and bright doesn't mean they would make wonderful parents. More important, they should WANT the child.

I agree they are making a big mistake and they'll probably regret it, but it's their decision to make, not yours. You've expressed your feelings — now drop it.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Can the family physician perform a neurological examination or must he always refer us to a specialist?

Mr. G.T., N.J.

Dear Mr. T: I was interested in the rest of your letter, which actually highlighted the real contribution that the family physician makes to the total health of a patient.

I should venture to speculate that 90 per cent of all neurological examinations are performed by the family physician and by the pediatrician.

It is only when they discover an unusual abnormality that they refer a patient to a specialist in neurology for more specific and intensive examination.

During every complete medical examination, the movement of the eyeballs, balance with the eyes open and closed, reflexes, vision and hearing are routinely checked.

This examination gives the doctor an excellent idea of the state of health of the so-called "12 cranial nerves." If any variation from normal occurs, then special studies by the nerve doctor, or neurologist, are needed to confirm any suspected neurological condition.

Is there a vaccine that can be used for people who have been exposed to tuberculosis?

Miss E.B., N.H.

Dear Miss B: A vaccine created by two scientists, Calmette and Guérin, is known as the BCG vaccine. It was created a long time ago, but there never has been complete agreement about its use. Waves of enthusiasm come and go.

Now, for the first time, the United States Public Health Service has taken a stand in the BCG controversy. They believe that, in special cases, it should be used.

If you have been exposed to someone with tuberculosis your doctor may get specific advice from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, and from the United States Public Health Service as to the advantage of the use of BCG in your particular case.

Is it dangerous for someone with a duodenal ulcer to travel to Europe in a jet plane?

Mr. J.E., Va.

Dear Mr. E: A jet flight does not exert any special bodily stress on those people who have duodenal or stomach ulcer.

Nevertheless, anyone who is in the midst of an acute attack should be wary of even this additional emotional burden.

One's physician, of course, is in the best position to relieve one's anxiety in such a situation.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

When you use an artificial two-club opening with the two-diamond response to show a very bad hand (no ace, no king, no two queens) and an artificial two-heart response to show some values, but no definite bid, then the responses of two spades, three hearts, three diamonds and three clubs become natural. Most players have decided that these suit responses should guarantee a suit of five cards or more, headed by at least two of the four top honors.

Today's North-South were playing this method in a match-point game.

Once North responded three clubs, South could count on five clubs and six spades. Give his partner an ace and seven would wrap up. He Blackwooded, found out ABOUT THAT ACE and bid seven notrump.

In rubber bridge he might well have bid seven spades to score the 150 honors. In duplicate bridge, where honors don't count, there were two reasons not to. The first was that notrump counted 10 points extra and 10 points could win a match point game. The second was that if some one held six trumps to the nine spot against him the spade grand slam would not make, but there would still be 13 notrump tricks.

Ask the Jacobys

A Kentucky reader wants to know how to bid against the Woodson two-way notrump.

Fortunately, this bid is like the whooping crane and is almost extinct. The opening notrump shows either 10-12 or 16-18 points. The best way to handle it is to let the user get into trouble on his own. He will do so.

WWII Filipino Soldiers Granted U.S. Citizenship

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

The United States must grant 61 aging Filipinos the citizenship promised them while fighting in the jungle for the Stars and Stripes in World War II, a federal judge has ordered.

The decision of U.S. District Court Judge Charles B. Roffey on Thursday cited the men for their "heroic sacrifices, their courage and valor at Corregidor, during the Bataan death march."

The jurist found the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service had failed to meet "its burden" of justifying the discriminatory executive conduct in denying the naturalization petitions of the men, who have been living in this country under threat of deportation.

INS District Director David Hebert said the service was considering an appeal. The INS has 90 days to appeal.

After the decision, an exultant former Col. Mostavo Felisimo, who comes under the judicial order, said, "At last we have a triumph. It was the height of unfairness.... Instead of being heroes we were thrown away."

Felisimo, 60, told of fighting "through thick and thin" under Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whom he described on the beach urging his beleaguered troops to "maintain the line. I shall return."

Finally, said the colonel, "We were annihilated... captured by the Japanese in the front line. A third of us died on the death march, another third in the prison camps."

The suit for citizenship was filed by 68 Filipinos claiming citizenship under the Second War Powers Act of 1942. The seven other plaintiffs, whose applications were denied, were told to provide proof of military service within 90 days.

The act, which expired in 1946, waived usual naturalization requirements for alien soldiers who fought in the U.S. armed forces overseas.

Ford Tape To Open 'Squeaky' Defense

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Fromme's attorney prepared to open her defense with the videotaped testimony of President Ford as her trial continues on a charge of attempting to kill the President.

Defense attorney John Virga said Thursday he would lead the defense presentation with the 20-minute Ford deposition, which was taped before the 27-year-old follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson went on trial last week.

The prosecution was expected to rest its case in time today for the defense to play the tape. U.S. deputy marshals rolled four large television sets into the courtroom Thursday afternoon so that the testimony could be seen by jurors, trial spectators and reporters.

Ford is the first president to be questioned as a witness in a criminal trial. Four other presidents — Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe, Ulysses S. Grant and Richard Nixon — gave written depositions or supplied documents for criminal proceedings.

Ford gave his testimony Nov. 1 in Washington. Its contents have not been revealed, but it was expected to deal with his observations of Miss Fromme as she pointed a gun at him on Sept. 5 and the question of whether he heard the gun click.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride, who ordered Ford's sworn testimony at the request of Virga and Miss Fromme, said he would not allow photographers into the courtroom to take pictures of the President on the screen.

Ford Reassuring His Campaign Chief

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford is winding up his season of Republican fund-raising missions, and GOP sources said he would take the occasion to give embattled campaign manager Howard H. Callaway a home-town plug to show that his job is not in jeopardy.

Ford was appearing tonight at a GOP fund-raising dinner in Atlanta, after speaking in Durham today at a convocation marking the 50th anniversary of North Carolina State University, the first state-supported liberal arts school for blacks in the United States.

Ford took the occasion to salute the contribution of American blacks and express his hope for an end to discrimination.

"I hope and work for the day when the human mind and spirit are no longer shackled by ignorance and prejudice," he said.

Citing the "great contributions of blacks to our society" in all branches of endeavor, the President said that "despite the burdens ... blacks have entered all types of American competition and come out national champions — indeed, national heroes."

Maintaining that "inequality, injustice, lack of competition are gradually being removed from the American scene," Ford said, "I support the Equal Rights Amendment just as I supported a new and broader extension of the Voting Rights Act.

"Much more remains to be done. I hope and work for the day when competition — opportunity — for all Americans will be equal and fair, without race or religion or sex ever a factor."

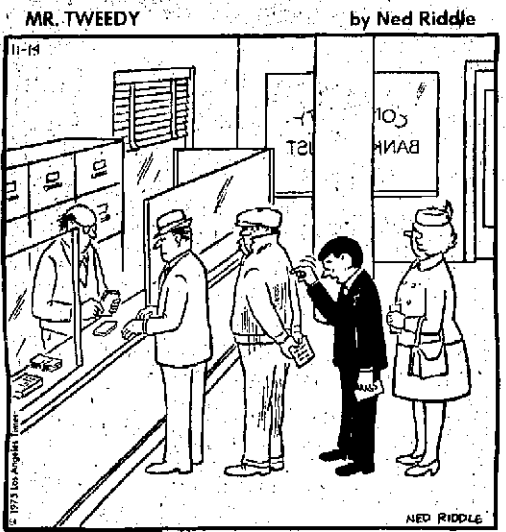

Ford's Atlanta stop is the last in his current series of party appearances. So far, according to the White House, the party's gross receipts total well over $4.5 million at affairs Ford has addressed.

Callaway was joining his boss on the southern swing. He is a former Georgia congressman who narrowly missed being elected Republican governor of the Democratic state 11 years ago. He later served as secretary of the Army.

South Haven Township Jobs Worth $30,050

SOUTH HAVEN — Eight permits for projects with an estimated cost of $30,050 were issued in South Haven township during October, according to Supervisor James Schinake.

Permits were issued to Ray Gunterberg, Monroe, new garage and remodel, $8,000; Joe Hiatt, 8th avenue, new house, $8,000; John Warden, 8th avenue, addition and garage, $2,500; Ed Burrows, 16th avenue, garage, $2,500; Ed Bus, Chambers street, remodel house, $1,500; Town and County Gas Inc., M-140, install 12,000 gallon propane storage tank, $3,000; and Thomas Olson, 16th avenue, fireplace, $1,550.

In the Ford campaign job, he has faced criticism on grounds that the organization was slow in getting started and was leaving the President open to trouble from former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Ford's No. 2 political man and the campaign finance chairman both quit with complaints about Callaway's political management. But Callaway said the criticism doesn't bother him. "That's just part of the game," he said.

There has been widespread speculation that Callaway could be on his way out as campaign manager, if not now then early next year. But Callaway said Thursday his relationship with Ford remains "first class ... couldn't be better." He said he wasn't worrying about his future.

A congressional Republican said there still are misgivings about Callaway on Capitol Hill.

"The organization just doesn't seem to have taken hold," a House GOP aide said. And since Ford's Cabinet shakeup, there has been speculation that outgoing Secretary of Commerce Rogers

SLAIN: Indian River (Fla.) county authorities have charged Jasper Mines, 31, with machete slaying of Marie L. Hartool, 20, above, of Satellite Beach, Fla. Mrs. Janie Nelson, a 30-year-old mother of three, was held captive for 15 hours before persuading Mines to surrender to police at Lake Wales, Fla. (AP Wirephoto)

C. B. Morton, a former GOP national chairman, might wind up succeeding Callaway.

An associate said Morton will, indeed, take a position in the Ford campaign next year. He also said Morton is not after Callaway's job.

A top White House official was said to have assured Callaway aides that the President would declare his support and confidence in his manager's performance during Ford's visit in Georgia.

In addition to the criticism of his campaign leadership, Callaway suffered what he acknowledged was a personal defeat when a Senate committee rejected Ford's nomination of former Georgia Rep. Ben Blackburn to be chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Callaway said he had advocated the nomination. "It was a defeat for me," he said. "He's a friend of mine. But it was not a political defeat."

Ford Reassuring His Campaign Chief

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — President Ford is winding up his season of Republican fund-raising missions, and GOP sources said he would take the occasion to give embattled campaign manager Howard H. Callaway a home-town plug to show that his job is not in jeopardy.

Ford was appearing tonight at a GOP fund-raising dinner in Atlanta, after speaking in Durham today at a convocation marking the 50th anniversary of North Carolina Central University, the first state-supported liberal arts school for blacks in the United States.

Ford took the occasion to salute the contribution of American blacks and express his hope for an end to discrimination.

"I hope and work for the day when the human mind and spirit are no longer shackled by ignorance and prejudice," he said.

Citing the "great contributions of blacks to our society" in all branches of endeavor, the President said that "despite the burdens ... despite the added difficulties ... blacks have entered all types of American competition and come out national champions — indeed, national heroes."

Maintaining that "inequality, injustice, lack of competition are gradually being removed from the American scene," Ford said, "I support the Equal Rights Amendment just as I supported a new and broader extension of the Voting Rights Act.

"Much more remains to be done. I hope and work for the day when competition — opportunity — for all Americans will be equal and fair, without race or religion or sex ever a factor."

Ford's Atlanta stop is the last in his current series of party appearances. So far, according to the White House, the party's gross receipts total well over $4.5 million at affairs Ford has addressed.

Callaway was joining his boss on the southern swing. He is a former Georgia congressman who narrowly missed being elected Republican governor of the Democratic state 11 years ago. He later served as secretary of the Army.

In the Ford campaign job, he has faced criticism on grounds that the organization was slow in getting started and was leaving the President open to trouble from former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Ford's No. 2 political man and the campaign finance chairman both quit with complaints about Callaway's political management. But Callaway said the criticism doesn't bother him. "That's just part of the game," he said.

There has been widespread speculation that Callaway could be on his way out as campaign manager, if not now then early next year. But Callaway said Thursday his relationship with Ford remains "first class ... couldn't be better." He said he wasn't worrying about his future.

A congressional Republican said there still are misgivings about Callaway on Capitol Hill.

"The organization just doesn't seem to have taken hold," a House GOP aide said. And since Ford's Cabinet shakeup, there has been speculation that outgoing Secretary of Commerce Rogers

C. B. Morton, a former GOP national chairman, might wind up succeeding Callaway.

An associate said Morton will, indeed, take a position in the Ford campaign next year. He also said Morton is not after Callaway's job.

A top White House official was said to have assured Callaway aides that the President would declare his support and confidence in his manager's performance during Ford's visit in Georgia.

In addition to the criticism of his campaign leadership, Callaway suffered what he acknowledged was a personal defeat when a Senate committee rejected Ford's nomination of former Georgia Rep. Ben Blackburn to be chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Callaway said he had advocated the nomination. "It was a defeat for me," he said. "He's a friend of mine. But it was not a political defeat."

ABA Screening Ford List Of High Court Nominees

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association is screening a list of fewer than 12 potential Supreme Court nominees submitted by the Ford administration and expects to report on their qualifications early next week, an administration official said.

Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent the list to the ABA on Thursday.

A high-ranking official called it "a very small list" of fewer than a dozen persons under consideration for President Ford's nomination to succeed retired Justice William O. Douglas.

Levi invited the ABA to suggest additional candidates, but an ABA official said the organization is not likely to do so.

The administration has made no formal commitment to be bound by the ABA report, which will rate the potential nominees as "not qualified," "not opposed" or "among the best available."

No one would say whether women were included, but First Lady Betty Ford said she will continue to urge her husband to become the first president to choose a woman for the highest court.

"As a matter of equal opportunity and equal rights this would be a very fine example," she told reporters.

Some new names surfaced as lawyers and government officials continued to speculate about the possible candidates. Those women figuring most prominently in the speculation included: Sola Mentschikoff, dean of the University of Miami (Fla.) law school; Betty Southard Murphy, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board; Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development; and U.S. Circuit Court Judge Shirley Hufstader.

Among the men considered leading candidates were Levi, Solicitor General Robert H. Bork, Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman and Assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert Griffin, R-Mich.

Labor, Management At Odds On Hikes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Management representatives on a committee which recommends pay increases for state employees are proposing quarterly cost-of-living COLA payments be phased out.

Their proposal contrasts sharply with a labor request for a 10 per cent pay increase for most employees and a 15 per cent hike for some, including the State Police.

Management's two-year proposal seeks a 4 per cent increase next year and a 6 per cent hike the following year.

John Doyle, executive secretary of the Michigan State Employees Association, said a 4 per cent increase really will be an increase of only four-tenths of one per cent in take-home pay.

Doyle, who is on the board, said this year's base pay has risen through quarterly COLA payments.

Management proposes to issue only two COLA payments next year, and one the following year.

Rumsfeld Winner, 16-0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three rejections of presidential nominees in two weeks indicate Senate committees are moving away from the routine approval that generally has been granted all but the most controversial appointees in recent years.

However, the three rejections for posts below Cabinet level contrast sharply with consideration of Secretary of Defense-designate Donald Rumsfeld, who won 16 to 0 approval from the Armed Services Committee on Thursday, just 10 days after his nomination by President Ford.

The latest nominee to be turned down was Isabel Burgess, denied a new term on the National Transportation Safety Board by the Senate Commerce Committee on a 10 to 7 vote.

The Banking Committee on Wednesday rejected the nomination of former Georgia Rep. Ben Blackburn as head of the Federal Home Loan Bank. And on Oct. 30, the Commerce Committee rejected the nomination of brewery executive Joseph Coors to the board of the Public Broadcasting Corp.

In all three cases, the reasons for rejecting the nominations differed.

Oil Prices May Hold Firm As Price Freeze Expires

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil companies will be free to raise prices on about 60 per cent of U.S.-produced oil if price controls expire Saturday as scheduled, but the companies are not expected to do so.

Unless Congress and President Ford act today to extend the controls, they will lapse Saturday night with no clear indication whether Ford is going to accept a compromise price-control program that would extend controls into 1979.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Ford raised no objections to any move to extend price controls for 30 days.

In a similar situation earlier this year, the oil companies did not move immediately to hike prices. They again are expected to hold off on any price hikes, while Congress and the Ford administration continue to spar over energy policy.

The compromise plan, if accepted by Ford, actually is expected to decrease oil prices for a number of months.

The latest turn in the 10-month stalemate between congressional Democrats and the Ford administration came Thursday night when Ford postponed any decision on the compromise plan, which Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb had recommended Ford accept.

Ford had been expected to indicate acceptance at a meeting Thursday night with Republican congressional leaders who have participated in the compromise efforts.

However, after the two-hour White House meeting, Nessen announced that Ford had put off any decision until after the plan is put in written form. Nessen said that is not expected until late next week.

Despite Zarb's recommendations, some conservatives have strongly attacked the measure for what they said was its failure to encourage U.S. oil production and its grant of new investigative powers to the energy administration.

Labor, Management At Odds On Hikes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Management representatives on a committee which recommends pay increases for state employees are proposing quarterly cost-of-living COLA payments be phased out.
Their proposal contrasts sharply with a labor request for a 10 per cent pay increase for most employees and a 15 per cent hike for some, including the State Police. Management's two-year proposal seeks a 4 per cent increase next year and a 6 per cent hike the following year.
The Compensation Board, which is comprised of both labor and management representatives, makes its recommendations to the Civil Service Commission, which sets pay rates for 57,000 state employees. Because of the divergence on the committee, the commission will hold a public hearing before deciding the issue Dec. 12.
John Doyle, executive secretary of the Michigan State Employees Association, said a 4 per cent increase really will be an increase of only four-tenths of one per cent in take-home pay.
Doyle, who is on the board, said this year's base pay has risen through quarterly COLA payments.
Management proposes to issue only two COLA payments next year, and one the following year.

Rumsfeld Winner, 16-0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three rejections of presidential nominees in two weeks indicate Senate committees are moving away from the routine approval that generally has been granted all but the most controversial appointees in recent years.
However, the three rejections for posts below Cabinet level contrast sharply with consideration of Secretary of Defense-designate Donald Rumsfeld, who won 16 to 0 approval from the Armed Services Committee on Thursday, just 10 days after his nomination by President Ford.
The latest nominee to be turned down was Isabel Burgess, denied a new term on the National Transportation Safety Board by the Senate Commerce Committee on a 10 to 7 vote.
The Banking Committee on Wednesday rejected the nomination of former Georgia Rep. Ben Blackburn as head of the Federal Home Loan Bank. And on Oct. 30, the Commerce Committee rejected the nomination of brewery executive Joseph Coors to the board of the Public Broadcasting Corp.
In all three cases, the reasons for rejecting the nominations differed.

Oil Prices May Hold Firm As Price Freeze Expires

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil companies will be free to raise prices on about 60 per cent of U.S.-produced oil if price controls expire Saturday as scheduled, but the companies are not expected to do so.
Unless Congress and President Ford act today to extend the controls, they will lapse Saturday night with no clear indication whether Ford is going to accept a compromise price-control program that would extend controls into 1979.
White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Ford raised no objections to any move to extend price controls for 30 days.
In a similar situation earlier this year, the oil companies did not move immediately to hike prices. They again are expected to hold off on any price hikes while Congress and the Ford administration continue to spar over energy policy.
The compromise plan, if accepted by Ford, actually is expected to decrease oil prices for a number of months.
The latest turn in the 10-month stalemate between congressional Democrats and the Ford administration came Thursday night when Ford postponed any decision on the compromise plan, which Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb had recommended Ford accept.
Ford had been expected to indicate acceptance at a meeting Thursday night with Republican congressional leaders who have participated in the compromise efforts.
However, after the two-hour White House meeting, Nessen announced that Ford had put off any decision until after the plan is put in written form. Nessen said that is not expected until late next week.
Despite Zarb's recommendations, some conservatives have strongly attacked the measure for what they said was its failure to encourage U.S. oil production and its grant of new investigative powers to the energy administration.

APPEALS TO FORD

Cost Of Stamps May Split 'Family'

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frieda Herrmann sends around 2,500 greeting cards every year, mostly to people she never met. But the 55-year-old restaurant organizer (currently unemployed) is worried that inflation in the form of higher postage will force her to trim the mailings which now average seven cards daily. She's asked President Ford to do what he can "to keep the price of stamps reasonable."

"I'm sure you will do the right thing," she wrote the White House in a letter that hasn't yet been answered. First class postage is scheduled to jump from its present dime to 13 cents after Christmas, and Miss Herrmann insists "it will be a hardship."

"Unemployment doesn't pay me enough," she says. "When the price goes up I'll have to cut my mailing list, which means some shut-ins won't be receiving a note every week and to some it's the only mail they receive."

Miss Herrmann, born in Trenton, N.J., is an only child who says the only known relative she has is a second cousin "somewhere in California."
Her family is the folks she sends cards to, all over the world.
"I have a lot of friends, and that is more important than family," she says. "You are stuck with your relatives, but friends you can pick."

And she keeps in touch, for birthdays, anniversaries, holidays.
"I love people, and I like to make them happy," she says.
Most of the names on Miss Herrmann's list she obtained when she worked during the past three decades as an organizer in various clubs and restaurants, pounding out organ music during and after dinner. She's handed out cards to the patrons, asking for names, addresses, birth and wedding dates.

"If anyone mentions an ill relative I get the name and send a card," she says.

Reform Law Court Test Eyed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Business, government and education lobbies may bring a joint suit to question the constitutionality of the state's new political reform law.

Representatives of the schools and organizations met this week at the Michigan State Bar offices in Lansing to discuss asking for a court ruling on some 50 questions raised about the law's validity. The State Bar may be a party to such a suit, said Jerry Coomes, State Bar lobbyist and temporary coordinator of the statewide effort.

"We are not seeking to overturn the law," Coomes said Thursday. "We want a quick resolution of the issues that are being raised so that you don't have 18 suits going in 18 different directions. If suits were filed on an individual basis, you may not have all the questions answered for years."

Among institutions represented at the State Bar confab were Michigan State University, Eastern Michigan University, Wayne State, Central Michigan, Western Michigan, Northern Michigan University, state associations of school boards and counties and the State Chamber of Commerce, said Harry Hall, state chamber president. Of the major schools, only the University of Michigan was absent from the meeting, Hall said.

Discussion centered around hiring a law firm to file the suit and paying for attorneys, at an estimated cost of $25,000, Hall said. Each delegate was to return to his organization's governing body and find out by Dec. 12 if the institution will participate in the suit and help pay for lawyers, Hall said. They will report back to Hall.

The suit would ask for a circuit court declaratory judgment on the constitutionality of certain portions of the 71-page campaign reform law, which covers lobbyists, campaign spending limits, conflict of interest and personal financial disclosure. Undoubtedly, such a suit eventually would wind up in the state Supreme Court for final determination.

Milliken, State Chamber Blast Jobless Pay Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken and the state Chamber of Commerce have blasted a bill that would permit unemployment compensation benefits for some workers who voluntarily quit their jobs.

The measure could cost Michigan business $200 million a year, Harry Hall, state chamber president, claimed Thursday. House action on the bill was postponed until early next week, said its sponsor, Rep. Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit.

Several Democratic representatives are leaning toward Milliken's position and think the bill should be tougher on workers who quit, said House Majority Floor Leader Joseph Forbes.

The measure would extend coverage to persons the law never intended to cover, Milliken said. It also would force business "into an even poorer competitive position when compared to their counterparts in other states" by reducing the likelihood of expansion or relocation into Michigan, Milliken said.

The governor noted a bill he signed last summer imposed a 13-week disqualification for workers who quit voluntarily or were fired for cause, and a total disqualification of a worker fired for theft or sabotage involving more than $25.

Hall claimed the legislature should just let last summer's bill go into effect Dec. 1 as scheduled and that Hertel's measure would result in "lost jobs and higher prices."

Current law says an employee who voluntarily quits work without good cause must complete a requalification period before being eligible for unemployment benefits. That period now is six weeks, but will be extended to 13 weeks in December.

Hertel's bill would allow benefits to a worker who quits voluntarily with good cause such as death or illness in the family. Other reasons include health, risk, safety, morals, physical fitness, training experience, prior wages and distance from residence to work.

Ford Gets Debt Lid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Ford a bill that would raise the national debt limit to a record $595 billion and keep the government out of fiscal difficulties in the months ahead.

The new record ceiling contained in the bill would be effective until March 15 and replaces a temporary $577-billion ceiling which expires Saturday night.

'New Math' Defended In Report

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "New Math" can't be blamed for the continuing decline in mathematical test scores, says a new report on the status of school mathematics.

In fact, the sweeping reforms in education known as "New Math" were never extensively implemented in the classrooms, says a study released today by the Conference Board of Mathematical Education.

Because of its limited use, "New Math" cannot be blamed for the decrease in standardized test scores and has not radically altered the teaching of mathematics in the classroom, the report says.

In addition, the study states, the decline in math scores has paralleled broad declines in all other areas of academic testing, making it difficult to link the cause with mathematical teaching methods.

The "New Math" has been the center of a heated controversy, with its critics contending it has been responsible for a decline in basic math skills. Many critics have urged a return to "old math" with emphasis on basic computations.

But the report stated from a 1975 perspective the principal thrust of the change in school mathematics remains fundamentally sound, though actual impact has been modest relative to expectations.

Shirley Hill, chairwoman of the advisory committee, said at a press conference Thursday "there is a danger of returning to obsolete systems of the past." Mathematical education must move forward on the gains of the past, she said.

According to the report, mathematics teachers and classrooms have changed far less than supposed over the last 15 years. In the "median" classroom, the study said, "teachers are essentially teaching the same way they were taught in school. Almost none of the concepts, methods, or big ideas of modern mathematics programs have appeared in this median classroom."

Hall claimed the legislature

should just let last summer's bill go into effect Dec. 1 as scheduled and that Hertel's measure would result in "lost jobs and higher prices."

Current law says an employee who voluntarily quits work without good cause must complete a requalification period before being eligible for unemployment benefits. That period now is six weeks, but will be extended to 13 weeks in December.

Hertel's bill would allow benefits to a worker who quits voluntarily with good cause such as death or illness in the family. Other reasons include health risk, safety, morals, physical fitness, training experience, prior wages and distance from residence to work.

Ford Gets Debt Lid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Ford a bill that would raise the national debt limit to a record $595 billion and keep the government out of fiscal difficulties in the months ahead.

The new record ceiling contained in the bill would be effective until March 15 and replaces a temporary $577-billion ceiling which expires Saturday night.

'New Math' Defended In Report

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — "New Math" can't be blamed for the continuing decline in mathematical test scores, says a new report on the status of school mathematics.

In fact, the sweeping reforms in education known as "New Math" were never extensively implemented in the classrooms, says a study released today by the Conference Board of Mathematical Education.

Because of its limited use, "New Math" cannot be blamed for the decrease in standardized test scores and has not radically altered the teaching of mathematics in the classroom, the report says.

In addition, the study states, the decline in math scores has paralleled broad declines in all other areas of academic testing, making it difficult to link the cause with mathematical teaching methods.

The "New Math" has been the center of a heated controversy, with its critics contending it has been responsible for a decline in basic math skills. Many critics have urged a return to "old math" with emphasis on basic computations.

Shirley Hill, chairwoman of the advisory committee, said at a press conference Thursday "there is a danger of returning to obsolete systems of the past." Mathematical education must move forward on the gains of the past, she said.

According to the report, mathematics teachers and classrooms have changed far less than supposed over the last 15 years. In the "median" classroom, the study said, "teachers are essentially teaching the same way they were taught in school. Almost none of the concepts, methods, or big ideas of modern mathematics programs have appeared in this median classroom."

Harvest Delayed Until This Week To Give Grapes Time To Rot

Although 22 brix (per cent of sugar) is considered very good for wine grapes, compared to about 17 brix for Concord grapes, Tabor Hill Vineyard & Wine Cellar picked some grapes this week that measured around 30 brix.

The workers held off picking a two-acre block of Vidal Blanc grapes until this week when the grapes were good and rotten.

While Botrytis cinerea, Grey rot, could be disastrous to a Concord grape grower, it is a blessing to growers of certain late maturing French hybrid grapes, according to Tim Cody, vice president and vineyard manager of the rural Buchanan corporation.

Grey rot, which affects only the outside of the fruit, shrinks the grape and reduces the amount of water inside, Cody said. But sugar content inside the grape remains the same, so when the grapes are crushed winemakers get less juice which is higher in sugar content.

This higher percentage of sugar is what is aimed for, said Cody.

He explained that wine grapes are usually harvested at 21 or 22 brix (per cent of sugar), while Concord grapes used for juice are generally picked at 16 or 17 brix.

Tabor Hill growers harvested rot-free Vidal Blanc grapes Oct. 17 that measured 22 brix. The Vidal Blanc which were picked Tuesday, Nov. 11, fell into two categories, Cody said. The grapes still free from rot measured 22 to 24 brix; the gain in sugar coming because a freeze had not occurred at the vineyard and the plants continued to produce a little sugar. The rot-infected grapes measured 28 to 30 brix, Cody said.

As the vineyard was picked this week, workers sorted rot-infected grapes from the others. Cody said that the normal grapes will yield about 175 gallons of juice from each ton of grapes. The shriveled fruit will yield only about 50 gallons of juice per ton of raw grapes.

The loss in yield will be partly regained because the wine made from the late-picked grapes will be better, Cody said. "Whatever sugar is left over after fermentation goes to sweetness," Cody said, explaining that the Vidal Blanc white wine made from Grey rot fruit should be very sweet.

Weather conditions will allow for this type of late picking only three years in 10, said Cody. With too much rain, grape skins will crack and the rot will be harmful. And most years a freeze will have occurred by late October, making immediate picking necessary. The disease shows up late in the season, he added.

While the vineyard at Tabor Hill has been struck a few times this season with a "light frost," a freeze hasn't yet come.

The windstorm early this week blew off most of the leaves in the vineyard, and also knocked down some of the bunches of grapes. Without foliage natural sugar production has stopped, Cody said.

Cody remarked that three rows of Vidal Blanc will be left

NOBLE ROT: Bunch of Vidal Blanc grapes at right shows signs of Botrytis cinerea, a fungus disease similar to the Black rot which strikes Concord grapes. German winemakers call the disease "Noble rot" because it causes concentration of sugar in the grapes and processes into a very good wine. By allowing grapes to shrivel, yield is cut from about five tons an acre to about four tons an acre, according to Tabor Hill Vice President Tim Cody. (Staff photo) unpicked for a while longer just to see the effect of the Grey rot. According to Harvey Belter, Berrien extension horticulturist, Botrytis is similar to Black rot, the fungus disease that most commonly attacks Concord grapes. Botrytis occasionally attacks Concord grapes, said Belter.

Low Apple Storage Figure Casts Doubt On USDA Estimate

Cold storage holdings as of Nov. 1 indicate that the USDA apple crop estimate for Michigan was too high, according to Fred Hasler, secretary of the Michigan Apple Committee.

Hasler said that Michigan apples in storage on Nov. 1 totaled 8.2 million bushels, a drop of three per cent from holdings a year earlier.

USDA pegged the Michigan crop at 17.1 million bushels, which if correct means that nine million bushels of apples were used from harvest time to Nov. 1, Hasler said.

That many apples couldn't have been used, despite the 30 per cent increase in fresh market shipments over last year, Hasler said.

His chief reason for saying that nine million bushels of apples couldn't have been used between harvest and Nov. 1 is that processors didn't begin using apples in earnest until the second week in October, when processing prices were set.

However, another explanation for the problem is that growers did not pick all of their apples. The Michigan Apple Growers, bargaining agent for the state's growers, was advising growers in August to leave "drops" on the ground due to low juice prices.

Hasler concludes that the 1975 Michigan apple crop was 16 to 18.5 million bushels, close to the size of the 15.9 million bushel 1974 crop.

The apple committee's figures show that of the 8.2 million bushels in storage on Nov. 1, 3.3 million were in long-term controlled atmosphere storage. Although only slightly larger than last year's CA figure, it is the largest ever, he said.

There were 4.2 million bushels of apples in cold storage and 388,000 bushels in common storage (in the barn, or orchard) this Nov. 1.

On Nov. 1 of 1974, there were 3.1 million bushels in CA, 4.2 million bushels in cold storage and 1.1 million bushels in common storage, according to the apple committee. Last year's Nov. 1 total was 8.4 million bushels.

By variety, total McIntosh in storage this year, 831,000 bushels, is one-half million bushels fewer than last year. This figure shows that the fresh market is strengthening, Hasler noted. The figure for Jonathan, 2.4 million bushels, is close to last year's holdings.

Tour Of Four Cattle Feeder Farms Nov. 19

Dr. Danny Fox, Michigan State university beef specialist, and Allegan Extension Agent Marvin Heft, will lead farmers on a four-farm tour of Allegan county cattle feeder operations Nov. 19.

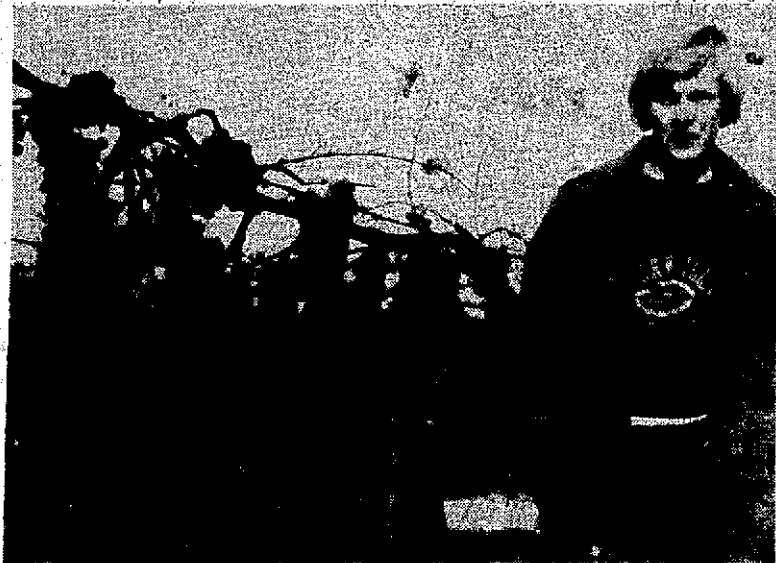

First stop will be at 10:30 a.m. at the Phil Surprenant farm on 62nd street, south of 116th, southwest of Pennville. He has room for about 600 head of cattle.

At 1:15 p.m. the group will visit the Dalwyn Lohman farm on 136th avenue, a mile and a half west of Hamilton, and see Virginia calves.

At 2:15 Clinton Nyhuis will welcome visitors to his farm, where he feeds Holstein steers from deacon calves to market. His farm is northeast of Hamilton on 45th street, just north of 136th avenue.

At 3:15 the Robert Immink farm, on 46th street, south of 142nd avenue, east of Overhuel, will be visited.

Buyers Nix Brownie Mix In Return To Ways Of Stix

"During the past 12 months, consumers have markedly changed their purchase patterns," said Clarence Adams, president of the National Association of Food Chains. "Shoppers are buying fewer boxed brownie mixes and other highly-processed foods. Instead, sales are up for the raw products to make baked goods at home."

Speaking recently at Michigan State university, Adams said its too soon to predict whether the marked changes in consumer buying patterns during the past year will be permanent fundamental trends.

"But it's critical for the farm industry to join the food distribution system in closely observing and analyzing consumer purchase patterns," he said.

Most business failures — both farm and non-farm — are due in part to an inability to predict change, explains John W. Allen, MSU agricultural economist. "In order to foresee broad forces that could affect management decisions, farmers must include outside viewpoints such as Adams' when they assess the future," Allen said.

Purchases of highly-processed and specialized foods are down 15 per cent, Adams says. At the same time, raw product sales are up 11 to 13 per cent. The overall sales volume in supermarket products is down slightly, he adds.

As prices have increased for highly-processed foods such as instant potatoes and toaster pastries, retail sales of those products have gone down, he said.

With price increases of carbonated beverages and other products sweetened with rising-priced sugar, marked changes in sales figures show that consumers are turning from soda pop to lower-priced powdered soft drinks.

"As prices of margarine and butter changed between early 1974 and early 1975, so too did consumer purchases of those products."

Since changes in what shoppers buy naturally change the mix that retailers buy from farmers, it's important for both groups to closely observe changing purchase patterns, Adams concluded.

Honey Production Up 34 Per Cent

Commercial apiaries with 300 or more colonies in Michigan expect to produce 3.6 million pounds of honey this year, 34 per cent more than last year but 21 per cent less than in 1973, the Michigan Crop Reporting Service states. Yield per colony is expected to average 65 pounds up from the 1974 yield of 47 pounds per colony but under the 85 pounds per colony produced in 1973. The commercial apiaries now have 56,000 colonies, 2,000 less than a year ago.

Extension Office Moved

The move into the hundred-year-old, recently remodeled building was completed by the end of this week, Earl said.

Man Accused In Van Buren Slaying Escapes

KALAMAZOO — A man charged with the March 6 murder of a Kalamazoo woman near Lawton escaped last night from the Kalamazoo state hospital where he was undergoing psychiatric testing, according to state police at Paw Paw. Troopers said Carle Cordell Vaughn, 20, Kalamazoo, was last seen running from a tunnel at the hospital about 6 p.m.

CARLE C. VAUGHN
Accused murderer escapes

He is believed to be armed with a knife smuggled to him by a visitor, hospital officials said. Vaughn has been charged in Van Buren county with murder in the slaying of Sarah Towne, 27, of Kalamazoo, whose knife-punctured body was found in an open field in rural Porter township March 7.

He had been committed to the hospital on July 16 following a finding by the Center of Forensic Psychiatry in Ypsilanti that he was incompetent to stand trial, according to Van Buren Prosecutor Frank Willis.

Willis said he received notice from the Kalamazoo State hospital Nov. 5 that Vaughn was now competent to stand trial and that he was being held there pending a competency hearing.

Vaughn was described as black, 5 foot 4, 127 pounds, with a gold earring in his right ear. At the time of escape, he was wearing dark pants, a denim jacket and black hat, police said.

Lawrence School Budget $933,130

LAWRENCE — The Lawrence school board last night adopted a budget for the 1975-76 school year of $933,130.

Supt. Wesley Harding said that with anticipated revenues set at $933,813, the budget provides for a surplus of $683.

He noted that the property tax millage rate to help finance the new budget will be down slightly from last year's figure of 24.6. The 1975-76 budget calls for a total levy of 23.83 mills of which 23.58 mills will be used for school operations and .25 mills will go for debt retirement.

The total anticipated revenue for the present school year was estimated at eight-tenths of a per cent less than last year. Harding said the district could lose another $9,081 if Gov. William Milliken's proposal to cut $47.5 million in state aid to education is approved by the legislature.

The budget passed last night calls for the following expenditures: $588,866 for teacher's salaries and school supplies;

$46,610 for administration; $57,481 for transportation; $112,350 for plant maintenance and operations; $75,000 for insurance; $23,890 for capital outlay; and $8,634 for community services.

The budget anticipates the collection of $246,100 in local property taxes, receipt of $605,000 in state aid, and the remainder of projected income from a variety of local and federal sources.

In other areas, the board approved a policy which requires any purchases made by the band boosters clubs exceeding $250 to be approved by the board before the purchase.

The board accepted the lowest of four bids for a new school bus from Neil's Automotive Service, Kalamazoo, which bid $6,132.

The board passed a resolution calling for all debt retirement funds to be lumped into a common fund to simplify bookkeeping.

Harding reported that football ticket sales resulted in a net profit this year of $3,253.

'Minutemen' Will Buy B. Springs School

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A bid of $15,000 from the "Minutemen" organization was accepted by the Berrien Springs school board last night for purchase of the old junior high school and property on Cass street. No other bids were received.

Lee Auble, president of the Minutemen and retired Berrien Springs school superintendent, told the board, "The purpose of the purchase was to keep the property in public ownership, if possible." The Minutemen group is a non-profit corporation, organized recently in the Berrien Springs area.

Auble said the organization's financing came from 43 voluntary pledges of $500 each, permuting the purchase. The Minutemen plan to see that the old junior high school is demolished and the land kept in public ownership for inclusion in the courthouse square project.

Auble said the Minutemen sought purchase of the building, because the Berrien Springs village council did not have time to act on purchasing the old structure. The village council has requested that federal community development funds it has applied for be diverted for purchase and demolition of the building. The request had not been officially granted as yet.

If the village's plans fail, according to Auble, the Minutemen are prepared to sell the land at some future time for private residential use only.

In other areas, the board instructed Stanley Macklin, school business administrator, to pursue replacement of a propane gas line at the high school, which serves the Bunsen burners in the school's science laboratories. Apparently, there has been a break in the line somewhere, and no gas is available to the burners, Schuster said. A considerable amount of flooring will have to be torn up to find the break and the cost is expected to run over $2,000. Schuster said the line is buried in concrete and represents no danger to students.

The board approved permitting the Gideon society to distribute copies of the New Testament at Sylvester elementary school. The practice was not allowed last year, after a parent complained such a practice was in violation of the first amendment. The practice was approved after a legal opinion on the matter was sought and an alternative plan to insure parental agreement was developed.

of the Palestinians.

"I saw fire and heard a loud bang," said Lola Numborg, 53, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who suffered a minor leg injury in Thursday's blast. "I fell down and someone was trying to pick me up because I COULDN'T WALK. I was sitting on the ground with blood all around me."

The only other foreigner known to be among the victims, Gerhard Van Drent, 47, of Rotterdam, Holland, said he was knocked against a car and suffered cuts on his leg.

"I saw a dead man close to me and people were trying to pick me up," he said. "I told them, 'I'm all right, I'm not injured,' but they helped me and put me in an ambulance."

Yoram Jabot, 13, was walking to a store when he was hit. "I found myself lying in blood and around me people were groaning and trying to get up," he said.

An hour before, police dismissed an 11-pound bomb in the crowded Mahane Yehuda market, scene of several previous terrorist blasts.

The bombing occurred after a week of riots and demonstrations by Palestinian students in the occupied West Bank. They were protesting Defense Minister Shimon Peres' proposal to give the West Bank self-rule but to bar the PLO from the area.

Teenage Pair Face Stolen Stereo Charge

Two Berrien Springs teenagers were charged with possession of stolen property Thursday in connection with the theft of $500 worth of stereo equipment from the Snowlake motel, Lincoln township, Berrien Metro Crime detectives said.

Demanding examinations in Berrien Fifth District court on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 were Sanford A. Spear, 17, and Pauline A. Flerer, 18, both of 105 Midway drive, apartment 1. Following arraignment before District Judge Hugh Black, the man and woman were jailed under bonds of $3,000 and $1,000, respectively.

Metro officers reportedly obtained a search warrant and, with the aid of Berrien Springs-Oronoko township police, searched the Midway drive apartment and found stereo equipment allegedly stolen from the room of Donald Finchem in the motel on Nov. 9.

State Payroll Growing Despite Hiring Freeze

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Despite a budget cut and hiring freeze, more people are working for the state government than ever before, payroll records show.

Even in the governor's office the number of classified workers has increased from 41 to 48 since Milliken last Feb. 14 ordered a hiring freeze.

Under the governor's order, new state workers cannot be hired except "where certified personally by department heads as essential to deliver services."

Legislative leaders announced this fall that only key vacancies would be filled. But the legislature has increased its payroll from $51 last February to 1,910 in October. The figure included the staffs of elected members, the fiscal agency and service bureau, and part-time employees.

The state House increased its staff by 48 to 473 full and part-time persons. The Senate staff rose from 214 to 240.

The number of judges and personnel in the Supreme Court, Court of Appeals and Appellate Defender Office rose from 354 to 368.

State government employs about 98,000 persons, or about 3.3

per cent more than last year, records show.

Overall state government employment was up over last year but the rate of increase dropped after Milliken's Valentine's Day order.

New fulltime employees hired from July to September totaled 624, compared to 1,898 in the same period a year ago, records show. Promotions also declined, from 950 last year to 460 this year.

Only five of the state's 19 principle departments actually have shown reduced payrolls since Milliken's — Licensing and Regulation, Civil Rights, Mental Health, Treasury and Education.

Meeting the demands of the recession has meant beefing up staffs in Social Services and the Labor Department's Employment Security Commission. A good share of those salaries are paid with federal money.

Highway and Natural Resources payroll totals still reflect some of the temporary summer workers and are expected to show reductions by the end of the month, state officials said.

Waterliet Fire Pumper Approved

WATERLIET — The Watervliet fire board last night voted to buy a new fire truck from the Pierce Manufacturing company for $51,488 on condition the board receives a federal grant or other financing to help pay for it.

The Appleton, Wis., firm's bid was the second lowest of four received on the 1,000-gallon pumper.

Late last year, the purchase of a similar truck from the same firm and through the same Michigan dealer, McCaleb Fire Equipment company, was rejected in a controversy over the way the truck was ordered.

The truck then carried a $40,719 price tag, in 1972, the cost had been $29,000.

Board action came on recommendation of its fire truck committee. The fire board is composed of representatives of Watervliet city and township governments.

The low bid from PESCO Fire and Safety Equipment company, Niles, was passed over, according to the fire truck committee, because it felt the Pierce equipment was better.

Fire board members were informed that two discounts are available to them from the Pierce Manufacturing firm, a one per cent discount for paying cash when the pumper is delivered, within 12 to 15 months, and a three per cent discount on the chassis price if the cost for the chassis is paid at the time of delivery to Pierce, at Appleton, Wis.

The savings to the fire board, applied toward the original bid, lowers the price of the Pierce truck from $51,488 to $50,378, resulting in a difference between the low bid and Pierce's bid of $678.

Fire Chief Paul Muth said no word has been received yet regarding the application for $22,500 federal grant through the Farmer's Home administration for the new truck, but that a decision was expected by early December.

Muth said he would call for a special meeting of the fire board once word is received on the application.

Board members generally agreed if the grant application is not approved, representatives from both Watervliet city and township should contact their respective boards to learn if the purchase of the pumper should continue with each municipality absorbing the additional costs.

Besides the federal grant, the truck would be paid for by an $18,500 allocation from Watervliet township; a $12,800 allocation from Watervliet city; and an advance payment of $8,000 from Bainbridge township, for future fire runs answered by the Watervliet fire department in Bainbridge township.

cover officers. Detectives and FBI agents were circulating copies of the sketches, officials said.

Bank officials refused to discuss the case or to confirm the amount of ransom. However, the $100,000 amount was used in police radio broadcasts.

A similar extortion of a Manufacturers National Bank branch manager occurred Oct. 27.

In that incident, the Detroit home of bank manager Richard Bachman was invaded by two gunmen who demanded $200,000 for the safety of Bachman's wife, his daughter, a niece and a nephew.

The family was not harmed and the gunmen left after Bachman took about $86,000 from the bank in suburban Taylor and dropped it off in an alley in Hamtramck, another Detroit-area community.

Five men and a woman have been arrested in that case and face federal charges. The FBI said it has recovered more than $50,000 of the ransom money.

Supt. Wesley Harding said that with anticipated revenues set at $933,813, the budget provides for a surplus of $683.

$46,610 for administration; $57,491 for transportation; $112,350 for plant maintenance and operations; $75,000 for insurance; $23,850 for capital outlay; and $8,634 for community services.

The budget anticipates the collection of $246,100 in local property taxes, receipt of $605,000 in state aid, and the remainder of projected income from a variety of local and federal sources.

In other areas, the board approved a policy which requires any purchases made by the band boosters clubs exceeding $250 to be approved by the board before the purchase.

The board accepted the lowest of four bids for a new school bus from Neil's Automotive Service, Kalamazoo, which bid $6,132.

The board passed a resolution calling for all debt retirement funds to be lumped into a common fund to simplify bookkeeping.

Harding reported that football ticket sales resulted in a net profit this year of $3,253.

up a state control board to supervise the city's budget and combine bank loans and a state appropriation to help the city avert default on $16.8 million in debts due today.

The HFA, which finances dozens of construction projects in the state, faces default on $130 million today without Carey's proposal to meet the obligations through private construction-union pension fund loans and an $80 million, 30-day loan from the state.

The other parts of Carey's plan are designed to refinance $6 billion of New York City's $13 billion debt, and balance the state's $12 billion budget.

The legislature today may also take up a part of the $6 billion refinancing plan, a "debt moratorium" proposal to force individual New York City noteholders to trade in some $1.6 billion in notes in return for longer-term Municipal Assistance Corp. securities. If they refuse, they will face delay on repayment of the notes.

The rest of the refinancing plan involves bank purchases of $1.5 billion worth of city securities backed by the federal government, bank rollovers of $1 billion in obligations coming due and city employee pension fund purchases of $1.87 billion in city notes.

Because of the city's fiscal crisis, the state has been unable to borrow money this fall, and must obtain about $5 billion to advance local aid payments next year. The state's major banks have reportedly agreed to handle the borrowing needs only if the state budget is fully balanced by 1977.

The one-cent increase in the statewide sales tax would cost the average family of four about $120 a year. The governor's proposed boost in the income tax surcharge from the current 2 1/2 per cent to 5 per cent would cost that family about $20.

The governor also proposed that the state gasoline tax be boosted from the current eight cents a gallon to 10 cents; that the cigarette tax go from 15 cents a pack to 17 cents; that liquor taxes be increased from the current $3.25 a gallon to $4; and that wine taxes go from the current 10 cents a gallon to 12 cents.

Carey is also asking the state legislature to force pension contributions from New York City's 250,000 employees, effectively cutting their pay by $85 million.

'Minutemen' Will Buy B. Springs School

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A bid of $15,000 from the "Minutemen" organization was accepted by the Berrien Springs school board last night for purchase of the old junior high school and property on Cass street. No other bids were received.

Lee Auble, president of the Minutemen and retired Berrien Springs school superintendent, told the board, "The purpose of the purchase was to keep the property in public ownership, if possible." The Minutemen group is a non-profit corporation, organized recently in the Berrien Springs area.

Auble said the organization's financing came from 43 voluntary pledges of $500 each, permitting the purchase.

The Minutemen plan to see that the old junior high school is demolished and the land kept in public ownership for inclusion in the courthouse square project.

Auble said the Minutemen sought purchase of the building, because the Berrien Springs village council did not have time to act on purchasing the old structure. The village council has requested that federal community development funds it has applied for be diverted for purchase and demolition of the building. The request had not been officially granted as yet.

If the village's plans fail, according to Auble, the Minutemen are prepared to sell the land at some future time for private residential use only.

In other areas, the board instructed Stanley Macklin, school business administrator, to pursue replacement of a propane gas line at the high school, which serves the Bunsen burners in the school's science laboratories. Apparently, there has been a break in the line somewhere, and no gas is available to the burners, Schuster said. A considerable amount of flooring will have to be torn up to find the break and the cost is expected to run over $2,000. Schuster said the line is buried in concrete and represents no danger to students.

The board approved permitting the Gideon society to distribute copies of the New Testament at Sylvester elementary school. The practice was not allowed last year, after a parent complained such a practice was in violation of the first amendment. The practice was approved after a legal opinion on the matter was sought and an alternative plan to insure parental agreement was developed.

"I saw fire and heard a loud bang," said Lola Nunberg, 53, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who suffered a minor leg injury in Thursday's blast. "I fell down and someone was trying to pick me up because I COULDN'T WALK. I was sitting on the ground with blood all around me."

The only other foreigner known to be among the victims, Gerhard Van Drent, 47, of Rotterdam, Holland, said he was knocked against a car and suffered cuts on his leg.

"I saw a dead man close to me and people were trying to pick me up," he said. "I told them, 'I'm all right, I'm not injured,' but they helped me and put me in an ambulance."

An hour before, police disarmed an 11-pound bomb in the crowded Mahane Yehuda market, scene of several previous terrorist blasts.

The bombing occurred after a week of riots and demonstrations by Palestinian students in the occupied West Bank. They were protesting Defense Minister Shimon Peres' proposal to give the West Bank self-rule but to bar the PLO from the area.

Teenage Pair Face Stolen Stereo Charge

Two Berrien Springs teenagers were charged with possession of stolen property Thursday in connection with the theft of $500 worth of stereo equipment from the Snowflake motel, Lincoln township, Berrien Metro Crime detectives said.

Demanding examinations in Berrien Fifth District court on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued over $100 were Sanford A. Spear, 17, and Pauline A. Flener, 19, both of 105 Midway drive, apartment 1.

Following arraignment before District Judge Hugh Black, the man and woman were jailed under bonds of $3,000 and $1,000, respectively.

Metro officers reportedly obtained a search warrant and, with the aid of Berrien Springs-Oronoko township police, searched the Midway drive apartment and found stereo equipment allegedly stolen from the room of Donald Finehout in the motel on Nov. 9.

State Payroll Growing Despite Hiring Freeze

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Despite a budget cut and hiring freeze, more people are working for the state government than ever before, payroll records show.

Even in the governor's office the number of classified workers has increased from 41 to 49 since Milliken last Feb. 14 ordered a hiring freeze.

Under the governor's order, new state workers cannot be hired except "where certified personally by department heads as essential to deliver services."

Legislative leaders announced this fall that only key vacancies would be filled. But the legislature has increased its payroll from 951 last February to 1,010 in October. The figure included the staffs of elected members, the fiscal agency and service bureau, and parttime employees.

The state House increased its staff by 48 to 473 full and part-time persons. The Senate staff rose from 214 to 240.

The number of judges and personnel in the Supreme Court, Court of Appeals and Appellate Defender Office rose from 354 to 368.

State government employs about 58,600 persons, or about 3.5

per cent more than last year, records show.

Overall state government employment was up over last year but the rate of increase dropped after Milliken's Valentine's Day order.

New fulltime employees hired from July to September totaled 624, compared to 1,898 in the same period a year ago, records show. Promotions also declined, from 950 last year to 460 this year.

Only five of the state's 19 principle departments actually have shown reduced payrolls since Milliken's — Licensing and Regulation, Civil Rights, Mental Health, Treasury and Education.

Meeting the demands of the recession has meant beefing up staffs in Social Services and the Labor Department's Employment Security Commission. A good share of those salaries are paid with federal money.

Highway and Natural Resources payroll totals still reflect some of the temporary summer workers and are expected to show reductions by the end of the month, state officials said.

Watervliet Fire Pumper Approved

WATERVLIET — The Watervliet fire board last night voted to buy a new fire truck from the Pierce Manufacturing company for $51,469 on condition the board receives a federal grant or other financing to help pay for it.

The Appleton, Wis., firm's bid was the second lowest of four received on the 1,000-gallon pumper.

Late last year, the purchase of a similar truck from the same firm and through the same Muskegon dealer, McCaleb Fire Equipment company, was rejected in a controversy over the way the truck was ordered.

The truck then carried a $40,719 price tag. In 1972, the cost had been $29,000.

Board action came on recommendation of its fire truck committee. The fire board is composed of representatives of Watervliet city and township governments.

The low bid from Fessco Fire and Safety Equipment company, Niles, was passed over, according to the fire truck committee, because it felt the Pierce equipment was better. Fessco handles John Bean equipment.

Fire board members were informed that two discounts are available to them from the Pierce Manufacturing firm, a one per cent discount for paying cash when the pumper is delivered, within 12 to 15 months, and a three per cent discount on the chassis price if the cost for the chassis is paid at the time of delivery to Pierce, at Appleton, Wis.

The savings to the fire board, applied toward the original bid, lowers the price of the Pierce truck from $51,469 to $50,578 resulting in a difference between the low bid and Pierce's bid of $676.

Fire Chief Paul Muth said no word has been received yet regarding the application for $22,500 federal grant through the Farmer's Home administration for the new truck, but that a decision was expected by early December.

Muth said he would call for a special meeting of the fire board once word is received on the application.

Board members generally agreed if the grant application is not approved, representatives from both Watervliet city and township should contact their respective boards to learn if the purchase of the pumper should continue with each municipality absorbing the additional costs.

Besides the federal grant, the truck would be paid for by an $18,500 allocation from Watervliet township; a $12,800 allocation from Watervliet city; and an advance payment of $8,000 from Bainbridge township for future fire runs answered by the Watervliet fire department in Bainbridge township.

cover officers. Detectives and FBI agents were circulating copies of the sketches, officials said.

Bank officials refused to discuss the case or to confirm the amount of ransom. However, the $100,000 amount was used in police radio broadcasts.

A similar extortion of a Manufacturers National Bank branch manager occurred Oct. 27.

In that incident, the Detroit home of bank manager Richard Bachman was invaded by two gunmen who demanded $200,000 for the safety of Bachman's wife, his daughter, a niece and a nephew.

The family was not harmed and the gunmen left after Bachman took about $66,000 from the bank in suburban Taylor and dropped it off in an alley in Hamtramck, another Detroit-area community.

Five men and a woman have been arrested in that case and face federal charges. The FBI said it has recovered more than $50,000 of the ransom money.

Michigan Hones Knife For Medicaid Cutback

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan probably will have to reduce or eliminate payments for some optional medical programs because Medicaid is running $38 million over budget, officials say.

Programs likely to be cut early next year include visual services for persons over 21, chiropractic and podiatry services, and payments for non-prescription drugs, said Paul M. Allen, chief deputy director of the state Department of Social Services.

In addition, allowable nursing home profits on Medicaid patients may be shaved, Allen said Thursday.

The cutbacks are tied to an effort to wipe out a potential $300 million state deficit, Allen said. State spending will be ordered curtailed in nearly all areas.

Allen said chiseling by doctors and hospitals on some state-paid options is part of the reason the Medicaid program is being pushed $38 million over its $336.6 million budget.

"That is five to 10 per cent of our problem," he said.

"We've had cases where a dentist or an optometrist has gone into nursing homes and done what we call a 'gang visit.' Fortunately, the medical providers that do this are few and after awhile, they become obvious," Allen said.

Drying out one alcoholic took three hospital admissions over a six month period that resulted in a $38,000 bill for Michigan's Medicaid program, he said. And at a nursing home, an optometrist examined the eyes of every Medicaid patient and charged the state $1,500, Allen said.

Inflation that runs from eight to 18 per cent is the main reason the Medicaid program is over budget, Allen said. Physicians' fees average about eight per cent inflation, while hospital costs are rising at a rate of between 15 to 18 per cent, he said.

Because hospitals are guaranteed Medicaid payment — half state, half federal — for patients, hospitals tend to keep such patients longer, Allen said.

"The credit card approach encourages a higher usage of hospitals by patients and doctors," he said. Patients also frequently are willing to stay longer since they don't have to pay, he said.

As a result, Allen said Michigan has proposed to the federal government that the state be allowed to charge Medicaid recipients a nominal daily fee to discourage overuse of hospitals.

Allen said Michigan has been generous when it comes to Medicaid. "So now comes a fiscal crisis. Our logic says if state revenues won't support our anticipated expenditures in our public assistance and medical assistance programs, then we had better retrench."

So, he said, some of the options Michigan undertook to add to the federal minimums may have to go.

Mount Clemens Explosion Kills Worker, Injures Five

REMOVE VICTIM'S BODY: Rescue workers secure the body of Ulysses Hayes, a workman, killed in an explosion that ripped through a tunnel under construction beneath Mount Clemens Thursday, as they are hoisted from the tunnel. Five other workmen were injured in the blast and hospitalized. (AP Wirephoto)

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — One construction worker was killed and five others injured Thursday in an explosion in an underground sewer tunnel. The director of the Michigan Department of Labor ordered an investigation to determine if safety standards were violated.

Officials at the labor department and the state public health department said methane gas was detected in the tunnel after the explosion. Exact cause of the blast was not officially pinpointed although it was theorized a spark from machinery may have touched off the gas.

Killed in the blast, which tore down the tunnel, was Ulysses Hayes, 41, of Detroit. All but one of the five injured were listed in temporarily serious condition. The most seriously hurt, Edward Levy, 28, of Detroit, was taken to the University of Michigan burn center in Ann Arbor.

A rescue worker, Robert Bartley, said he saw Hayes stretched across some equipment in the tunnel.

"The first time I went in there the smoke was too thick and we had to come back out," he said.

The contractor on the $10 million, 1.5-mile-long sewer project is Greenfield Construction Co. of Livonia.

Greenfield was one of four firms comprising Greenfield and Associates which was fined $18,000 for violating safety standards in the Dec. 11, 1971 water tunnel blast in Port Huron that killed 22 workmen.

Aides to Angelo DiPoma, the firm's president, ordered reporters to leave a company trailer at the site and refused to discuss the blast.

"I have some reservations about Greenfield," said state Labor Director Keith Molin. "This is the second major explosion involving that firm in that same area." Mount Clemens is about 40 miles from Port Huron.

Molin, who emphasized he does not yet know whether safety standards were violated, said he is ordering "a complete review" of the explosion.

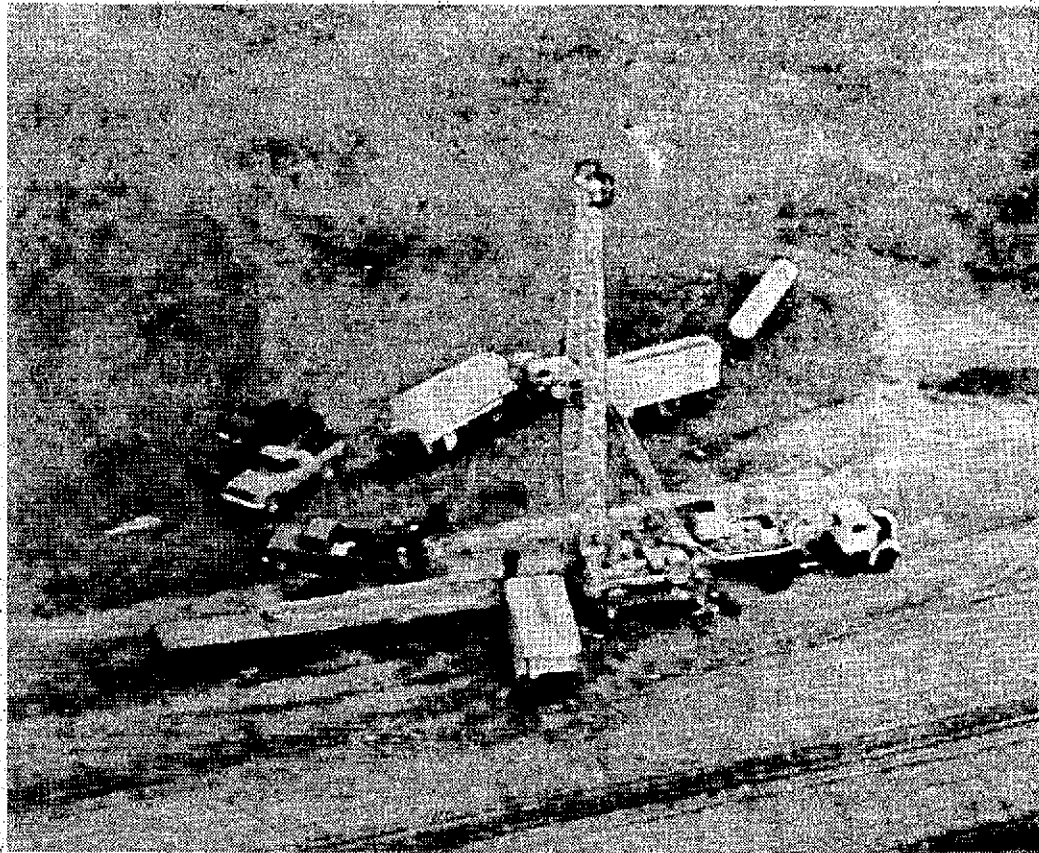

State Rep. David Bonior, D-Mount Clemens, chairman of a special House committee which is investigating the Port Huron explosion, said he hopes the committee will broaden its probe to include the latest incident.

Mount Clemens City Manager Edwin E. Whedon recalled early today the low bidder in the competition to build the tunnel "withdrew his bid... he said he would lose money on the job and backed out. That left Greenfield."

Whedon said there were several other contractors who bid on the job but were higher than Greenfield. Whedon said he could not recall who the original low bidder was.

Suffering from burns are George Tillman, 29, of Highland Park; Roosevelt Baldwin, 22, of Detroit; and John Levy, 28, of Detroit, Edward Levy's brother. Ollie Sanders, 32, of Toledo, Ohio, who was not in the tunnel when the blast occurred, was treated for gas inhalation and released after helping rescuers.

WATER, BUT NO OIL: Niles-based drilling rig spent most of October in search of oil south of Coloma in Bainbridge township but moved off site earlier this week after finding only water. Rig from M & R Drilling of Niles was hired by Tom Martin, owner of Martin Properties, Inc., Bridgman firm specializing in oil and gas exploration. Martin said shaft was drilled to 900 feet without finding oil that his previous geological surveys indicated might be present. Site is located between Park and Friday roads, about two miles south of Coloma on land owned by Reuben Kniebes. Martin said he has interests in other drilling operations in western part of country. ## WINOGRAD: IT'S POSSIBLE

Michigan 'Going Wallace'?

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Democratic Party Chairman Morley Winograd says George Wallace could repeat his 1972 performance and collect 51 per cent of the state's Democratic primary election vote.

"It certainly is possible,"

STRICKEN: Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard, 72, was listed in stable condition in a Detroit hospital after lapsing into shock during treatment for a urinary tract infection. He suffered a major stroke last year. (AP Wirephoto)

Winograd said Thursday, when asked whether Wallace could do as well in 1976 as he did in 1972. "It would depend upon a number of factors."

The Alabama governor announced Wednesday he would seek the Democratic Party nomination for the presidency next year. Douglas Fraser, United Auto Workers union vice president in charge of political action, already has said he would quit the Democratic Party if Wallace got the nomination.

Winograd said it is party policy for him to remain publicly neutral about the party's primary election candidates.

But he said, "It would depend upon the candidates against him (Wallace). He, will, I think, enter most of the primaries so he and his campaign will have more exposure prior to coming to Michigan than last time. His campaign also will be better organized than four years ago."

"It is certainly possible" for Wallace to win Michigan's Democratic primary election next May by at least the 51 per cent he got in 1972, Winograd said.

Asked what kind of informal reading he gets of state Democratic Party sentiment, Winograd said, "Obviously people in the Wallace movement love to see him active. A great number of other people will barely tolerate his presence. Emotions run a wide range and there aren't too many neutrals on the subject."

Winograd said he hopes bus-ing of school children for desegregation is not an issue next year — but that it might be.

"A busing order will be implemented by that time which will affect only Detroit, not the whole metropolitan area. In that sense, busing should be less an issue and I certainly hope so. But it depends on the community reaction," he said.

Three years ago, the possibility of forced cross-district busing was the key issue and suburban blue-collar workers strongly supported Wallace's antibusing stand.

In the 1972 primary, Michigan

Democrats opposed the candidacy of Wallace, who ran in the Democratic primary but still was head of the conservative American Independent Party (AIP). While state Democrats hosted a splashy dinner for candidates George McGovern, Hubert Humphrey, and Edmund Muskie in Detroit's Cobo Hall, Wallace attracted a large crowd at a pass-the-hat bean feed at the fairgrounds.

Wallace backers have predicted a 1976 Michigan victory for the 56 year-old veteran of four presidential campaigns.

Wallace, who is confined in a wheelchair since an assassination attempt during the 1972 campaign, announced his new presidential bid Wednesday in Montgomery, Ala.

Sub Teacher Bills On Way

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation to help substitute school teachers keep their jobs or receive unemployment compensation has cleared the House Labor Committee and has gone to the full House. One bill, passed 11-1 by the committee Thursday, would for the first time give a substitute teacher who works in one job for more than 60 days the same privileges given full-time teachers. Sponsored by Sen. David Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, the measure also would require a qualified substitute teacher who works 120 days during a school year and is reassigned the next year be offered a full-time contract by the school district. The labor committee also passed 9-2 a bill designed to encourage school districts to employ substitutes for periods enabling them to qualify for unemployment compensation. Both bills have passed the Senate.

BRIDGMAN — Weldun Tool and Engineering, Inc., of Bridgman Thursday announced construction of an 18,000 square foot plant building just south of its main plant at 9950 Red Arrow highway.

The new building will house the company's mold division and is expected to be completed about April 1, according to Merlin Hanson, president of the firm.

The firm currently employs about 28 people at its present 40,000 square foot plant. With the new facility, Hanson said, the work force is expected to increase to about 75.

The project is to cost about $500,000, according to a firm spokesman.

The firm's president added that the division will not only continue to produce small and medium sized molds and dies, but will be producing large die cast dies and for the injection and compression markets. Ground breaking ceremonies were held Monday.

Along with the construction announcement, Hanson also announced two company appointments.

He said Gene Stemm of St. Joseph has been named general manager of the new facility and William Knuth of Berrien Springs as manager of sales and engineering of the new mold facility.

Stemm has experience in the molding industry dating back to 1955 and has been with Weldun since 1966, Hanson said.

Knuth has worked for Weldun since 1971.

NEW WELDUN PLANT: This is artist's drawing of new Weldun plant announced today by Weldun Tool and Engineering of Bridgman. Ground breaking was held earlier this week and construction is expected to be completed by April, company officials said. New 18,000 square foot building will house firm's mold division, officials said. It will be located just south of firm's main plant on Red Arrow highway.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — One construction worker was killed and five others injured Thursday in an explosion in an underground sewer tunnel. The director of the Michigan Department of Labor ordered an investigation to determine if safety standards were violated.

Officials at the labor department and the state public health department said methane gas was detected in the tunnel after the explosion. Exact cause of the blast was not officially pinpointed although it was theorized a spark from machinery may have touched off the gas.

Killed in the blast, which tore down the tunnel, was Ulysses Hayes, 41, of Detroit. All but one of the five injured were listed in temporarily serious condition. The most seriously hurt, Edward Levy, 28, of Detroit, was taken to the University of Michigan burn center in Ann Arbor.

A rescue worker, Robert Bartley, said he saw Hayes stretched across some equipment in the tunnel.

"The first time I went in there the smoke was too thick and we had to come back out," he said.

The contractor on the $10 million, 1.5-mile-long sewer project is Greenfield Construction Co. of Livonia.

Greenfield was one of four firms comprising Greenfield and Associates which was fined $16,000 for violating safety standards in the Dec. 11, 1971 water tunnel blast in Port Huron that killed 22 workmen.

Aides to Angelo DiPonio, the firm's president, ordered reporters to leave a company trailer at the site and refused to discuss the blast.

"I have some reservations about Greenfield," said state Labor Director Keith Molin. "This is the second major explosion involving that firm in that same area." Mount Clemens is about 40 miles from Port Huron.

Molin, who emphasized he does not yet know whether safety standards were violated, said he is ordering "a complete review" of the explosion.

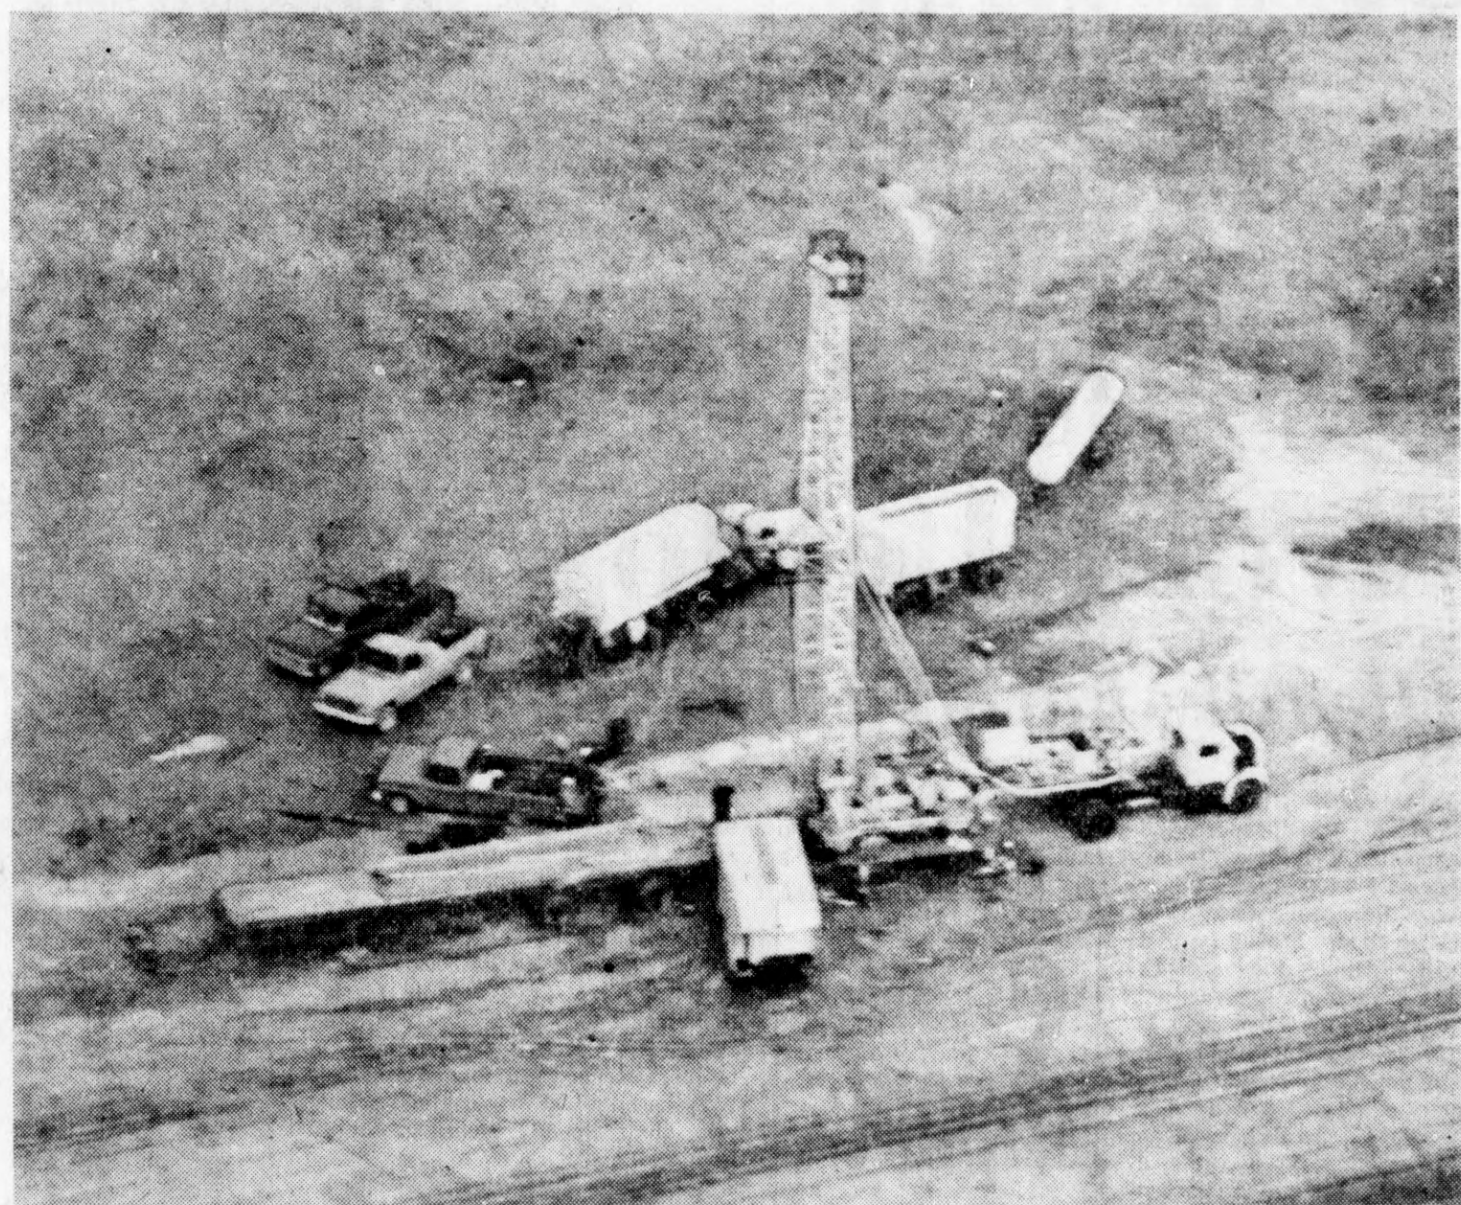

State Rep. David Bonior, D-Mount Clemens, chairman of a special House committee which is investigating the Port Huron explosion, said he hopes the committee will broaden its probe to include the latest incident.

Mount Clemens City Manager Edwin E. Whedon recalled early today the low bidder in the competition to build the tunnel "withdrew his bid ... he said he would lose money on the job and backed out. That left Greenfield."

Whedon said there were several other contractors who bid on the job but were higher than Greenfield. Whedon said he could not recall who the original low bidder was.

Suffering from burns are George Tillmon, 29, of Highland Park; Roosevelt Baldwin, 22, of Detroit; and John Levy, 28, of Detroit, Edward Levy's brother. Ollie Sanders, 32, of Toledo, Ohio, who was not in the tunnel when the blast occurred, was treated for gas inhalation and released after helping rescuers.

WATER, BUT NO OIL: Niles-based drilling rig spent most of October in search of oil south of Coloma in Bainbridge township but moved off site earlier this week after finding only water. Rig from M & R Drilling of Niles was hired by Tom Martin, owner of Martin Properties, Inc., Bridgman firm specializing in oil and gas exploration. Martin said shaft was drilled to 900 feet without finding oil that his previous geological surveys indicated might be present. Site is located between Park and Friday roads, about two miles south of Coloma on land owned by Reuben Kniebes. Martin said he has interests in other drilling operations in western part of country. ## WINOGRAD: IT'S POSSIBLE

Michigan 'Going Wallace'?

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Democratic Party Chairman Morley Winograd says George Wallace could repeat his 1972 performance and collect 51 per cent of the state's Democratic primary election vote.

"It certainly is possible,"

STRICKEN: Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard, 72, was listed in stable condition in a Detroit hospital after lapsing into shock during treatment for a urinary tract infection. He suffered a major stroke last year. (AP Wirephoto)

Winograd said Thursday, when asked whether Wallace could do as well in 1976 as he did in 1972. "It would depend upon a number of factors."

The Alabama governor announced Wednesday he would seek the Democratic Party nomination for the presidency next year. Douglas Fraser, United Auto Workers union vice president in charge of political action, already has said he would quit the Democratic Party if Wallace got the nomination.

Winograd said it is party policy for him to remain publicly neutral about the party's primary election candidates.

But he said, "It would depend upon the candidates against him (Wallace). He will, I think, enter most of the primaries so he and his campaign will have more exposure prior to coming to Michigan than last time. His campaign also will be better organized than four years ago."

"It is certainly possible" for Wallace to win Michigan's Democratic primary election next May by at least the 51 per cent he got in 1972, Winograd said.

Asked what kind of informal reading he gets of state Democratic Party sentiment, Winograd said, "Obviously people in the Wallace movement love to see him active. A great number of other people will barely tolerate his presence. Emotions run a wide range and there aren't too many neutrals on the subject."

Winograd said he hopes busing of school children for desegregation is not an issue next year — but that it might be.

"A busing order will be implemented by that time which will affect only Detroit, not the whole metropolitan area. In that sense, busing should be less an issue and I certainly hope so. But it depends on the community reaction," he said.

Three years ago, the possibility of forced cross-district busing was the key issue and suburban blue-collar workers strongly supported Wallace's antibusing stand.

In the 1972 primary, Michigan

Democrats opposed the candidacy of Wallace, who ran in the Democratic primary but still was head of the conservative American Independent Party (AIP). While state Democrats hosted a splashy dinner for candidates George McGovern, Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie in Detroit's Cobo Hall, Wallace attracted a large crowd at a pass-the-hat bean feed at the fairgrounds.

Wallace backers have predicted a 1976 Michigan victory for the 56-year-old veteran of four presidential campaigns.

Wallace, who is confined to a wheelchair since an assassination attempt during the 1972 campaign, announced his new presidential bid Wednesday in Montgomery, Ala.

Sub Teacher Bills On Way

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation to help substitute school teachers keep their jobs or receive unemployment compensation has cleared the House Labor Committee and has gone to the full House. One bill, passed 11-1 by the committee Thursday, would for the first time give a substitute teacher who works in one job for more than 60 days the same privileges given full-time teachers. Sponsored by Sen. David Plawewski, D-Dearborn Heights, the measure also would require a qualified substitute teacher who works 120 days during a school year and is reassigned the next year be offered a full-time contract by the school district. The labor committee also passed 9-2 a bill designed to encourage school districts to employ substitutes for periods enabling them to qualify for unemployment compensation. Both bills have passed the Senate.

WILLIAM KNUTH
Heads Sales, Engineering

BRIDGMAN — Weldun Tool and Engineering, Inc., of Bridgman Thursday announced construction of an 18,000 square foot plant building just south of its main plant at 9850 Red Arrow highway.

The new building will house the company's mold division and is expected to be completed about April 1, according to Merlin Hanson, president of the firm.

The firm currently employs about 28 people at its present 40,000 square foot plant. With the new facility, Hanson said, the work force is expected to increase to about 75.

The project is to cost about $500,000, according to a firm spokesman.

The firm's president added that the division will not only continue to produce small and medium sized molds and dies, but will be producing large die cast dies and for the injection and compression markets. Ground breaking ceremonies were held Monday.

Along with the construction announcement, Hanson also announced two company appointments.

He said Gene Stemm of St. Joseph has been named general manager of the new facility and William Knuth of Berrien Springs as manager of sales and engineering of the new mold facility.

Stemm has experience in the molding industry dating back to 1955 and has been with Weldun since 1966, Hanson said.

Knuth has worked for Weldun since 1971.

NEW WELDUN PLANT: This is artist's drawing of new Weldun plant announced today by Weldun Tool and Engineering of Bridgman. Ground breaking was held earlier this week and construction is expected to be completed by April, company officials said. New 18,000 square foot building will house firm's mold division, officials said. It will be located just south of firm's main plant on Red Arrow highway.

Old Man Upset Has Big Bowl Committees Near Tears

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whoops!
It's like that classic old movie scene where the Ming vase sits on the pedestal in the parlor. After weathering thousands of years of Chinese history and the raucous comings and goings of the neighborhood kids, it finally gets toppled by the proud owner himself as he's trying to swat a fly.

As far as the college football picture is concerned, the clumsy out was Old Man Upset, the fly was a team like Kansas, and the vase was really a bowl — in fact a bunch of bowls. Last weekend's upsets of Oklahoma, Penn State, Southern California and Florida have got the various bowl committees near tears. Who to invite?
Ohio State's top-rated Buckeyes seek their 10th consecutive victim this Saturday in Minnesota, en route to a hopefully profitable encounter Nov. 22 with Michigan and then a Rose Bowl invitation.

The Buckeyes, 9-0, have worked overtime against the pass in practice this week. They hope to remain tied with Michigan for the Big Ten lead and strengthen their chances of battling the Pacific-8 king — probably California, UCLA, or Stanford — for the Roses.

Minnesota, 5-4-0, led by quarterback Tom Dungey, has an upset on its collective mind, however, after a 31-7 triumph over Iowa, a 33-9 win over Northwestern and a 26-21 loss to Michigan. But first it'll have to halt Ohio State's backfield, headed by Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin. Griffin already has passed the 5,000-yard career mark and will be looking to extend his national record of 31 games of more than 100 yards rushing.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Oklahoma, still tussling with Nebraska for Big Eight honors and an Orange Bowl bid, is bracing itself for another unique experience — bouncing back after a defeat. The Sooners, who had their 28-game winning streak snuffed last week by Kansas, are scheduled to visit

No. 18 Missouri this weekend. If Oklahoma expects to make it to Miami, they first will have to end the costly turnover troubles they had with the Jayhawks last week.
The only other relatively sure bowl bet is that the Southwest Conference winner — Texas, Texas A&M or Arkansas, will host the Cotton Bowl.
No. 17 Kansas, the proud conquerors of Oklahoma, will clash with 10th-ranked Colorado Saturday. They enter the battle with a 6-3 record over-all and 3-2 in league play while the Buffs are 7-2 and 3-2.

In other weekend action involving ranked teams, second-ranked Nebraska tackles Iowa; No. 3 Texas A&M visits Rice; No. 4 Michigan squares off against Illinois, and fifth-ranked Alabama hosts Southern Mississippi.

Also: Texas Christian at No. 7 Texas; Pacific at No. 8 Arizona St.; No. 9 Notre Dame at Pitt; No. 11 Penn State at Colorado; No. 12 Arizona at Colorado St.; No. 13 Southern California at Air Force; No. 16 Miami, O. at Kent St.; Oregon State at No. 19 UCLA, and Auburn at 20th-ranked Georgia.

Michigan Must Avoid Letdown Heavily Favored Over Illini

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Michigan's fourth-ranked and undefeated Wolverines, trying to avoid a letdown before their big battle against Ohio State next week, are heavily favored to make Illinois their seventh Big Ten victim Saturday.
A crowd of more than 35,000 is expected to see if Illinois can stop the most potent rushing attack in the conference.
Led by Gordon Bell, Michigan is averaging 355.8 yards a game. Bell has all but clinched the individual conference rushing title with an average of 133 yards a game.

Illinois, victimized by top-ranked Ohio State 46-3 last Saturday, will be at full strength for the Wolverines. Last week, among others, quarterback Kurt Steger and defensive tackle John DiFeliciano did not play.
DiFeliciano will start and Steger, if not a starter, will be available for the game.
Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler is concerned that his Wolverines might be looking past the 20-point underdog Illini.
"I always worry about that," said Schembechler. "We keep the players informed about Illinois' potential. We show them films and tell them that Illinois is a fine team and could beat us."
The closest Michigan has come to a loss in the Big Ten this season was a 28-21 victory over Minnesota two weeks ago.
In addition to the running of Bell and Rob Lytle, Michigan unfolded a new wrinkle in a 28-0 victory over Purdue last Saturday with Rick Leach completing six passes for 218 yards.
"He has been coming along well lately," said Schembechler of his freshman quarterback. "We felt he could throw if need be. In the games we didn't need to pass, we didn't pass."
Schembechler says Illini tailbacks Lonnie Perini and Jim Phillips are "as good as any two around."
Coach Bob Schembechler knows the task facing his Illini and said, "There is really not that much difference between the offensive styles of Ohio State and Michigan."

NMU Still Hopes For Playoff Spot

From Associated Press
Still hopeful of a post-season playoff bid, Northern Michigan closes out its 1975 collegiate football season Saturday at Western Illinois.
"There's no doubt we have to be under consideration for a playoff bid from the NCAA," says Wildcat Coach Gil Krueger. "If we can finish the season 10-1 by beating Western, then we have to be a strong contender for one of the eight playoff spots."
The National Collegiate Athletic Association will extend Division II playoff invitations to the top team in each of four districts. It will then pick four other teams at-large to complete the field. North Dakota is currently atop the Midwest District, to which NMU belongs.
"A team like us that's beaten two teams from the Mid-American Conference Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan has to be considered if we can get through the season with only one loss," Krueger said.

Western Illinois, which is in Macomb, Ill., has a 5-3-1 record. The Leathernecks have lost their last two home games to strong teams: nationally ranked Division II squad Massachusetts, 16-13, and Central Michigan, 24-7.
CMU closes its 75th season by hosting Northern Illinois in a MAC game. Winless Western Michigan, meanwhile, entertains Eastern Michigan in a non-league game. EMU is an MAC member but isn't eligible for the championship until next season.
Hillsdale is at Saginaw Valley State in the only Great Lakes Conference game. GLIAC member Wayne State hosts non-league Evansville.
Except for the Big Ten teams, all other Michigan colleges have completed their season. Michigan is at Illinois, while Northwestern is at Michigan State.

NBA Commissioner Says No Chance For Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no chance of a merger of the National Basketball Association and American Basketball Association in the near future, according to NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien.
"I don't see how you can even talk about merger when there is such a clear-cut injunction against it," O'Brien said Thursday.
The NBA commissioner referred to a permanent injunction against a merger issued in 1970 by Judge Robert Carter in the Southern U.S. District Court. The case is pending and is not expected to be heard until May 1976, at the earliest.
O'Brien replied to rumors of a possible merger which were recently renewed when all ABA clubs made application for membership in the NBA for the 1976-77 season.

"Merger isn't in the offing," said O'Brien. "No action is contemplated in the foreseeable future. If you are enjoined from talking about it — never mind selling upon it — I don't see how you can do anything about it."
O'Brien shrugged off speculation that the death this week of the ABA's San Diego Sails was a move to facilitate a merger between the leagues.
"That's not true," O'Brien noted.
San Diego owner Frank Goldenberg had indicated that the Sails were dissolved because they were not included in the ABA's proposed merger plans.

"In July, we had an agreement on merger or consolidation — if one goes, we all go," Goldenberg said. "When I asked the owners to reaffirm this pledge, they began to stall. They asked for time to reflect and analyze the situation."
This amounted to exclusion, Goldenberg said.
But O'Brien persists in knocking down any merger possibilities.
"I have met with ABA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere on several occasions and plan to meet with him again shortly," O'Brien said. "But under the court injunction we are not allowed to talk about merger."

Stars Fade At Boston

Red Wings Clip Scouts; Hawks Register Tie

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Minnesota North Stars are the Minnesota No-Stars in Boston Garden.
They've never won a game in Boston and continued their bitter Garden frustration by dropping a 6-0 National Hockey League decision to the Bruins Thursday night.
As usual, the North Stars couldn't do anything right up there while the Bruins were doing everything they pleased — including three shorthanded goals, two by Brian Forbes.
"I don't think we extended ourselves hard tonight," said Boston Coach Don Cherry. "We'll have a better test in Atlanta Saturday night. It's on the road and they're a pretty good club."
Cherry was impressed with Forbes' work. Not only did he score the two goals, but was a valuable asset to the Bruins as a penalty-killer. And there were plenty of penalties to kill.
"This could be the making of Forbes as a penalty killer," Cherry said. "The goals were just gravy. He played with a lot of confidence. When he killed penalties before, he didn't seem to have a lot of confidence."
In other NHL games, the Detroit Red Wings beat the Kansas City Scouts 4-3; the Montreal Canadiens trimmed the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-4; the Philadelphia Flyers and Chicago Black Hawks played to a 5-5 tie and the Los Angeles Kings nipped the New York Islanders 4-3.
Bobby Orr joined in the Boston scoring parade, collecting his first goal of the season. Like Forbes' goals, it was also shorthanded. Gregg Sheppard scored the other two Boston goals against the North Stars, who have lost five in a row — the last three by shutouts.
Rookie Dennis Polonich scored the first two goals of his NHL career in the first period and Detroit went on to beat Kansas City. The victory was the second in a row for the Red Wings, their first back-to-back victories since Feb. 22 last season, when they defeated Atlanta 4-3 to rack up three straight triumphs, a season post.

Yvon Cournoyer scored the last three goals of the game, carrying Montreal over Pittsburgh. Cournoyer, who had played sparingly in the first period, brought Montreal into a 3-3 tie and later a 4-4 tie with second-period goals, then scored the winner at 4:07 of the final period.
Dave Schultz's goal early in the third period capped a Philadelphia comeback from a 4-0 deficit and enabled the Flyers to salvage a tie with Chicago.

Newcomers Spark Bright Cage Outlook Speedy Wolverines To Run

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Johnny Orr hopes his run, run, run Michigan basketball team will be good enough to stop Indiana from running away with the Big Ten championship this season.
The Wolverine coach presented a strong case Thursday for his feelings at a news luncheon. "So much of our season depends on our first five conference games," Orr said. "If we can come out of there 5-0, I'll guarantee we'll win the championship."

Michigan, which has a tough nonconference schedule starting at home Dec. 2 against Vanderbilt, opens the Big Ten season Jan. 3 at Northwestern. On Jan. 5 it hosts Minnesota. At Wisconsin on Jan. 8, entertains Indiana Jan. 10 and hosts Ohio State two days later.
"Our weakness is the fact we're counting on new players at key positions to help us, particularly at center," he said. "And we lack a really big man. On the plus side, this is the fastest team, the quickest team, I've ever had. We'll put more pressure on other teams than ever before and we'll substitute more players."
"Our schedule is very demanding. But we think we can compete with anyone in the country."
A key to Michigan's fast-break offense will be newcomer Ricky Green, a two-time All-American at Vincennes, Ind. Junior College. He was Player of the Year in Chicago in 1973 as he and fellow Wolverine John Robinson led Hirsch High School to the Illinois state championship.

He'll replace graduated Joe Johnson at guard. The other backcourt spot is filled by third-year starter Steve Grote, a junior.
"He's going to be one of the most exciting players ever at Michigan," Orr said of Green. "He's the fastest I've ever coached and he can shoot."
Orr likely will put freshman Phil Hubbard of Canton, Ohio, at center in place of graduated C. J. Kupec. Hubbard, a 6-foot-7, 195-pounder, was named Ohio Player of the Year after averaging 26.7 points and 17 rebounds a game and shooting 59 per cent from the floor.
"He's our best rebounder and jumper," Orr said. "He's a strong inside player. He's a different pivotman than we've had. He's got excellent quickness around the basket. When the season gets going he'll hold his own against most players he's against."
Coaches usually speak in rosy terms in the pre-season. But the calibre of U-M's newcomers can't be denied. Others are Tom Bergen, 6-9 center who played two years ago with National Invitational Tourney finalist Utah; Tom Staton, All-Stater who averaged 11 points and 15 rebounds at Forndale, Mich.; High School forward Alan Hardy, 6-6 All-Stater from Detroit Northwestern who was a Scholastic Magazine All-American; and Bobby Jones, 6-6 center who led his Gulfport, Miss., team to a perfect season and state championship as an All-Stater.

Besides Robinson and Grote, the other veteran starter is captain Wayman Britt at forward. Other veterans back are Joel Thompson, Don Johnston and Leni Lillard at forward, plus Dave Baxter and Lloyd Shinnier at guard.

Racers Stretch Unbeaten String

KALAMAZOO — Benton Harbor's Racers hockey club stretched its unbeaten streak to four games Thursday by claiming a 3-3 tie with the Kalamazoo Sabres at Wings Stadium here.
The Racers, now 3-0-1, were victimized by 11 penalties in the game. It was a power-play goal by the Sabres early in the third period which tied the game at 3-3.
Frank Grumbir scored two goals and Steve Chinick added one for the winners.
The Racers face Century Buick of Kalamazoo next Thursday at Wings Stadium.

Michigan Must Avoid Letdown Heavily Favored Over Illini

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Michigan's fourth-ranked and undefeated Wolverines, trying to avoid a letdown before their big battle against Ohio State next week, are heavily favored to make Illinois their seventh Big Ten victim Saturday.

"He has been coming along well lately," said Schembechler of his freshman quarterback. "We felt he could throw if need be. In the games we didn't need to pass, we didn't pass."

Schembechler says Illini tailbacks Lonnie Perrin and Jim Phillips are "as good as any two around." Coach Bob Blackman knows the task facing his Illini and said, "There is really not that much difference between the offensive styles of Ohio State and Michigan."

get through the season with only one loss," Krueger said.

Western Illinois, which is in Macomb, Ill., has a 5-3-1 record. The Leathernecks have lost their last two home games to strong teams: nationally ranked Division II squad Massachusetts, 16-13, and Central Michigan, 24-7.

CMU closes its 75th season by hosting Northern Illinois in a MAC game. Winless Western Michigan, meanwhile, entertains Eastern Michigan in a non-league game. EMU is an MAC member but isn't eligible for the championship until next season.

Hillsdale is at Saginaw Valley State in the only Great Lakes Conference game. GLIAC member Wayne State hosts non-league Evansville.

Except for the Big Ten teams, all other Michigan colleges have completed their season. Michigan is at Illinois, while Northwestern is at Michigan State.

NMU Still Hopes For Playoff Spot

From Associated Press

Still hopeful of a post-season playoff bid, Northern Michigan closes out its 1975 collegiate football season Saturday at Western Illinois.

"There's no doubt we have to be under consideration for a playoff bid from the NCAA," says Wildcat Coach Gil Krueger. "If we can finish the season 10-1 by beating Western, then we have to be a strong contender for one of the eight playoff spots."

The National Collegiate Athletic Association will extend Division II playoff invitations to the top team in each of four districts. It will then pick four other teams at-large to complete the field. North Dakota is currently atop the Midwest District, to which NMU belongs.

"A team like us that's beaten two teams from the Mid-American Conference Central Michigan and Eastern Michigan has to be considered if we can

NBA Commissioner Says No Chance For Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no chance of a merger of the National Basketball Association and American Basketball Association in the near future, according to NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien.

"I don't see how you can even talk about merger when there is such a clear-cut injunction against," O'Brien said Thursday.

The NBA commissioner referred to a permanent injunction against a merger issued in 1970 by Judge Robert Carter in the Southern U.S. District Court. The case is pending and is not expected to be heard until May 1976, at the earliest.

O'Brien replied to rumors of a possible merger which were recently renewed when all ABA clubs made application for membership in the NBA for the 1976-77 season.

"Merger isn't in the offing," said O'Brien. "No action is contemplated in the foreseeable future. If you are enjoined from talking about it — never mind acting upon it — I don't see how you can do anything about it."

O'Brien shrugged off speculation that the death this week of the ABA's San Diego Sails was a move to facilitate a merger between the leagues.

"That's not true," O'Brien noted.

San Diego owner Frank Goldenberg had indicated that the Sails were dissolved because they were not included in the ABA's proposed merger plans.

"In July, we had an agreement on merger or consolidation — if one goes, we all go," Goldberg said. "When I asked the owners to reaffirm this pledge, they began to stall. They asked for time to reflect and analyze the situation."

This amounted to exclusion, Goldberg said. But O'Brien persists in knocking down any merger possibilities.

"I have met with ABA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere on several occasions and plan to meet with him again shortly," O'Brien said. "But under the court injunction we are not allowed to talk about merger."

Stars Fade At Boston

Red Wings Clip Scouts; Hawks Register Tie

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Minnesota North Stars are the Minnesota No-Stars in Boston Garden.

They've never won a game in Boston and continued their bitter Garden frustration by dropping a 6-0 National Hockey League decision to the Bruins Thursday night.

As usual, the North Stars couldn't do anything right up there while the Bruins were doing everything they pleased — including three shorthanded goals, two by Bran Forbes.

"I don't think we extended ourselves hard tonight," said Boston Coach Don Cherry. "We'll have a better test in Atlanta Saturday night. It's on the road and they're a pretty good club."

Cherry was impressed with Forbes' work. Not only did he score the two goals, but was a valuable asset to the Bruins as a penalty-killer. And there were plenty of penalties to kill.

"This could be the making of Forbes as a penalty killer," Cherry said. "The goals were just gravy. He played with a lot of confidence. When he killed penalties before, he didn't seem to have a lot of confidence."

In other NHL games, the Detroit Red Wings beat the Kansas City Scouts 6-3; the Montreal Canadiens trimmed the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-4; the Philadelphia Flyers and Chicago Black Hawks played to a 5-5 tie and the Los Angeles Kings nipped the New York Islanders 4-3.

Bobby Orr joined in the Boston scoring parade, collecting his first goal of the season. Like Forbes' goals, it was also shorthanded. Gregg Sheppard scored the other two Boston goals against the North Stars, who have lost five in a row — the last three by shutouts.

Rookie Dennis Polonich scored the first two goals of his NHL career in the first period and Detroit went on to beat Kansas City. The victory was the second in a row for the Red Wings, their first back-to-back victories since Feb. 22 last season, when they defeated Atlanta 4-3 to rack up three straight triumphs, a season peak.

Yven Cornoyer scored the last three goals of the game, carrying Montreal over Pittsburgh. Cornoyer, who had played sparingly in the first period, brought Montreal into a 3-3 tie and later a 4-4 tie with second-period goals, then scored the winner at 4:07 of the final period.

Dave Schultz's goal early in the third period capped a Philadelphia comeback from a 4-0 deficit and enabled the Flyers to salvage a tie with Chicago.

Newcomers Spark Bright Cage Outlook

Speedy Wolverines To Run

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Johnny Orr hopes his run, run, run Michigan basketball team will be good enough to stop Indiana from running away with the Big Ten championship this season.

The Wolverine coach presented a strong case Thursday for his feelings at a news luncheon. "So much of our season

Michigan, which has a tough nonconference schedule starting at home Dec. 2 against Vanderbilt, opens the Big Ten season Jan. 3 at Northwestern. On Jan. 5 it hosts Minnesota, is at Wisconsin on Jan. 8, entertains Indiana Jan. 10 and hosts Ohio State two days later.

"Our weakness is the fact we're counting on new players at key positions to help us, particularly at center," he said. "And we lack a really big man. On the plus side, this is the fastest team, the quickest team, I've ever had. We'll put more pressure on other teams than ever before and we'll substitute more players."

"Our schedule is very demanding. But we think we can compete with anyone in the country."

A key to Michigan's fast-break offense will be newcomer Ricky Green, a two-time All-American at Vincennes, Ind. Junior College. He was Player of the Year in Chicago in 1973 as he and fellow Wolverine John Robinson led Hirsch High School to the Illinois state championship.

He'll replace graduated Joe Johnson at guard. The other backcourt spot is filled by third-year starter Steve Grote, a junior.

"He's going to be one of the most exciting players ever at Michigan," Orr said of Green. "He's the fastest I've ever coached and he can shoot."

Orr likely will put freshman Phil Hubbard of Canton, Ohio, at center in place of graduated C. J. Kupec. Hubbard, a 6-foot-7, 195-pounder, was named Ohio Player of the Year after averaging 26.7 points and 17 rebounds a game and shooting 59 per cent from the floor.

"He's our best rebounder and jumper," Orr said. "He's a strong inside player. He's a different pivotman than we've had. He's got excellent quickness around the basket. When the season gets going he'll hold his own against most players he's against."

Coaches usually speak in rosy terms in the pre-season. But the calibre of U-M's newcomers can't be denied. Others are Tom Bergen, 6-9 center who played two years ago with National Invitational Tourney finalist Utah; Tom Staton, All-Stater who averaged 11 points and 15 rebounds at Ferndale, Mich., High School; forward Alan Hardy, 6-6 All-Stater from Detroit Northwestern who was a Scholastic Magazine All-American; and Bobby Jones, 6-6 center who led his Gulfport, Miss., team to a perfect season and state championship as an All-Stater.

Besides Robinson and Grote, the other veteran starter is captain Wayman Britt at forward. Other veterans back are Joel Thompson, Don Johnson and Len Lillard at forward, plus Dave Baxter and Lloyd Shinnier at guard.

Racers Stretch Unbeaten String

KALAMAZOO — Benton Harbor's Racers hockey club stretched its unbeaten streak to four games Thursday by claiming a 3-3 tie with the Kalamazoo Sabres at Wings Stadium here.

The Racers, now 3-0-1, were victimized by 11 penalties in the game. It was a power-play game for the Sabres early in the third period which tied the game at 3-3.

State Playoffs Start Saturday

Hudson 'Hungry' For Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Coach Tom Saylor insists his Hudson football players "are really hungry" for a victory Saturday over Kalamazoo Hackett in the first high school football playoffs in modern Michigan history.

The first question might be, have the Tigers ever not been hungry for a victory?

They already have equalled the national record of 71 consecutive triumphs. Should they beat tough Hackett in the Class C semifinal at Grand Rapids they'll own the record alone. Jefferson City, Mo., set the 71-game mark from 1938-66. "We are really fired," said Saylor, whose teams have compiled an 85-4-1 record in his 10 years as Hudson's head coach. "Our kids want to win it. We want to prove it hasn't been a fluke."

Apparently there are those who believe the top-ranked Tigers haven't had tough enough schedules. Among them are Coach Dick Soisson of fifth-ranked Hackett.

"All I've said is that Hudson would never have won 71 in a row if it had played our schedule the last eight years," Soisson said. "I feel it's a great honor, a great challenge, to play Hudson."

"Win or lose we'll be famous. If we lose we'll be like the guy who threw Roger Maris his 61st home run pitch."

Saylor doesn't appreciate any jabs at the Tigers schedule.

"All I know is that our schedule is as tough for us as Hackett's is for them," he said. "Hackett gets to draw players from all over Kalamazoo (population about 85,500) and we only have a small town (about 2,500) to draw from."

Although the Michigan High School Athletic Association briefly prevented Hackett from practicing on artificial turf this week, it changed its decision after learning that Hudson was practicing on it.

"When he found out Hudson was arranged to practice on the turf, we allowed Hackett to go ahead with his plans to do so," said MHSAA Director Allen Bush. "Astroturf is a lot different from playing on grass and we didn't want one team to have an edge."

Although most attention is on the Hackett-Hudson tussle, all eight semifinals should provide similarly tough competition.

Second-ranked Traverse City (9-0) and fourth-ranked Kalamazoo Central (9-0) langle in a Class A semi at Memorial Field in Lansing. The other "A" game will match third-ranked Detroit Southwestern (8-0) and unrated Livonia Franklin (8-1) at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium.

Trenton (9-0), which finished first in the final Associated Press poll, didn't qualify for the playoffs under the MHSAA point system.

In Class B, top-rated Dearborn Divine Child (9-0) takes on No. 2 Sturgis (9-0) at Post Field in Battle Creek. The other "B" game pits sixth-ranked Saginaw MacArthur (8-1) against Flint Ainsworth (7-2) at Midland Stadium.

Portland (9-0), ranked sixth, faces No. 8 Ishpeming (8-1) in the other Class C game, at Memorial Stadium in Mount Pleasant.

The top "D" matchup puts No. 1-ranked North Adams (9-0) against No. 2 Flint Holy Rosary (7-1) at Waverly Field in Lansing. No. 4 Crystal Falls Forest Park (8-1) battles sixth-ranked Posen (8-1) in the other "D" game at Thirby Field in Traverse City.

Duluth New NIC School

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Presidents and faculty athletic representatives of the seven schools in the Northern Intercollegiate Conference (NIC) have voted unanimously to admit the University of Minnesota-Duluth as the league's eighth school.

Duluth was admitted at the NIC's annual fall conference Thursday, and will begin competition in all 10 NIC sports next fall.

Other NIC members are Minnesota-Morris, Moorhead State, Bemidji State, Winona State, St. Cloud State and Southwest State in Minnesota, and Michigan Tech.

Duluth was one of six charter members of the NIC in 1932, but entered the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference in 1940.

Duluth will continue its membership in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, as hockey is not a league sport in the NIC.

St. Joe Girls Back On Winning Trail

In this case, a loss seems to be the best medicine for the St. Joseph girls basketball team.

After suffering their first defeat Tuesday, the Bears got back on the winning trail with a 52-42 victory over Big Seven Joe Holland on their home court Thursday night.

In other action, Benton Harbor ended the regular season by losing to Battle Creek Central 49-40. Berrien Springs downed Gallen 76-16. Martin squashed Bloomingdale 55-18. Gobles trounced Lawton 18-16. Comstock beat Paw Paw 55-29 and Marcellus dumped Decatur 48-44.

St. Joe ends its league season as champs with an 11-1 record. The Bears take their 18-1 regular season mark to Lakeshore Monday night and then meet Benton Harbor in the first game of the Class A districts at St. Joe Thursday night.

Holland ends its season at 7-5. "The kids had a good attitude," said Bears' coach Marty Scherr. "They went into this game like they should have; more worried about the other team."

St. Joe had a chance to take a dive as the Dutch outscored the Bears 23-12 in the second quarter to lead 26-25 at the half. But St. Joe came back in the second half to lead 35-30 at the end of the third quarter. "The team didn't get flustered in the second quarter," remarked Scherr. "In the second half they played with real good hustle and determination."

Kay Stickney led the Bears with 18 points while Andy Gast added 13 and Ann Ryan 10. Sue Griswold pulled King down 10 rebounds, Sue had nine and Gast eight caroms.

The Bears' junior varsity upped its record to 15-4 with a 47-25 win. Liz Sheffler led the team with 11 points.

Benton Harbor tried a few new combinations in its game with Battle Creek, Carmella Hull led the Tigers, who close the season at 12-7 with 15 points.

Debra Jones had 10 and Denise Boyd added six more. Barbara Cusick had 17 points for the Bears and Karen Ware added nine.

The Tigers will have their work cut out next Thursday. St. Joe has beaten Benton Harbor twice this season, 45-24 on the Tigers' court and 47-39 at St. Joseph.

Berrien Springs finished up its season at 14-3 with its win over Gallen. Jill Quiriconi led the Shamrocks with 18 points while Tori Moore and Diane Unfress added 12 points apiece. Janet Wright had 11 for the Gobles. The Shamrock junior varsity ended their third straight undefeated season with a 54-10 win.

Martin brought its record to 15-2 with its win over Bloomingdale. Diane Hildebrand had 19 points for the Clippers and Kathy Oetman added eight.

Comstock got a 20-point performance from Natalie Ewles against Paw Paw. Deb Siler was the leading Redskins' scorer with 13.

Marcellus ended its SAC play with a win over Decatur. Denise Brown led the Wildcats with 19 points and Karen Ringle added 12. Sue Marcinik had 12 points for the Raiders. Marcellus is now 16-3 and 12-0 in the league.

Gobles put four girls in double figures in its win over Lawton. Kelly Smith led the Tigers with 23 points while Sue Robarg had 23. Pam Markus 18 and Pam Westcott 10. The Blue Devils had Carol Clair with four points.

Bench No Place For 'The Pearl'

Barry's 38-Point Effort Defeats Bulls

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Earl Monroe has a good point: you can't score from the bench.

"I only played five minutes," Monroe said, explaining why he only took two shots from the field and scored three points in the opening half of Thursday night's National Basketball Association game with the Houston Rockets.

"The Pearl" saw quite a bit more action in the final two periods, winding up with 23 points while leading the Knicks to a 108-102 victory, their first after-five straight losses.

In other NBA games Thursday, Washington clipped Boston 110-107, Phoenix nipped Seattle 106-103 and Golden State defeated Chicago 88-87.

In the only American Basketball Association game played, San Antonio crushed Virginia 124-100.

"I got three quick fouls in the first period, so I figured I would sit out the rest of the first half," Monroe said. "But in the third period, I could go out and play my game."

Monroe, guarded mostly by Houston's Calvin Murphy, took the 5-foot-10 guard deep inside time and again, scoring on a variety of spinning jump shots.

New York had a balanced attack with Bill Bradley scoring 17 points, Spencer Haywood 16, Walt Frazier 14 and John Gianelli 13. Houston's Mike Newlin took scoring honors with 26 points, while Murphy added 22 and Joe Meriweather and Rudy Tomjanovich had 21 each.

Washington's Wes Unseld and Elvin Hayes sunk free throws in the final 12 seconds to give the Bullets a narrow victory over Boston. The Celtics rallied in the final period, pulling from an 89-75 deficit going into the quarter to just one point down, 108-107, with 19 seconds remaining before Unseld and Hayes successfully hit from the free throw line. Phil Chenier, who scored 10 points in the final quarter, paced Washington with 24 points and Dave Bing added 22, while Boston's Charlie Scott led all scorers with 20.

With Phoenix leading 104-103, the Suns' Paul Westphal blocked a Slick Watts shot and Phoenix recovered. Keith Erickson was then fouled intentionally, but he sank both free throws to ice the Suns' victory over Seattle. Dick Van Arsdale led Phoenix with 21 points while Bruce Seals and Leonard Gray scored 21 and 23 points, respectively, for the SuperSonics.

Held scoreless in the first period, Rick Barry exploded for 38 points to lead Golden State past Chicago. It was the Warriors' five straight victory and their seventh against two losses.

Scoring 12 straight points late in the first period, San Antonio broke open the game and never trailed in handing Virginia its sixth consecutive defeat and 11th loss in its last 12 games. Billy Paulitz led the Spurs with 21 points while James Silas and George Gervin added 20 each as San Antonio posted its fourth win in a row.

Gates Brown Is Honored By Michigan Legislature

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Newly retired Detroit Tiger pinch-hitter Gates Brown was called to the state House of Representatives podium Thursday for a tribute to his baseball career.

A special committee of legislators escorted Brown and his wife, son and father to the front of the House chamber for a reading of a resolution congratulating Brown for 12 years of keeping his "booming bat on call."

Brown is "one of the most popular Tigers and the greatest pinch hitter in the history of the American League," said House Speaker Bobby Crim, reading from the resolution.

The tribute relates how "Gater" hit a home run his first time at bat as a Tiger June 19, 1963. Brown holds two league records, one for his 107 pinch hits and the other for 16 pinch hit home runs.

Brown now is a Tiger scout.

Hoople To Stay, Despite Record

By MAJ. AMOS B. HOOPLE
Football Firing Forecaster

Egad, buffs of the world's greatest game, it's that time of year when losing football coaches hope they don't find a pink slip in their pay check.

Let me say right now I predict the first coach to hit the turf will be Lefty (Loser) Lemon, who has a career record at New Miss of 1-99-1.

Loser recently outdid himself this season when he told his kicker to try a 90-yard field goal with one second left in the game and his team trailing by a touchdown. Awkt! Awkt!

But then Loser isn't known for recruiting the smartest of players. His punter, when told to go to the coffin corner, went to Joe's Funeral Home at the corner of Main and Madison.

But I can't rest assured that my contract as the nation's No. 1 football guru will be renewed for the 50th straight year. My friends in the Mafia said so.

But I might hold out for a fatter contract this year. I'd like 10 Cadillac, the state of Florida and a million dollars in life insurance just like John McKay. But I'd settle for hot dog profits from the Michigan-Ole State game.

Speaking of hot dogs, on with the forecast!

Hudson 'Hungry' For Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Coach Tom Saylor insists his Hudson football players "are really hungry" for a victory Saturday over Kalamazoo Hackett in the first high school football playoffs in modern Michigan history.

The first question might be, have the Tigers ever not been hungry for a victory?

They already have equalled the national record of 71 consecutive triumphs. Should they beat tough Hackett in the Class C semifinal at Grand Rapids they'll own the record alone. Jefferson City, Mo., set the 71-game mark from 1958-66. "We are really fired," said Saylor, whose teams have compiled an 85-4-1 record in his 10 years as Hudson's head coach. "Our kids want to win it. We want to prove it hasn't been a fluke."

Apparently there are those who believe the top-ranked Tigers haven't had tough enough schedules. Among them are Coach Dick Soisson of fifth-ranked Hackett.

"All I've said is that Hudson would never have won 71 in a

"Win or lose we'll be famous. If we lose we'll be like the guy who threw Roger Maris his 61st home run pitch."

Saylor doesn't appreciate any jabs at the Tigers schedule. "All I know is that our schedule is as tough for us as Hackett's is for them," he said. "Hackett gets to draw players from all over Kalamazoo (population about 85,500) and we only have a small town (about 2,500) to draw from."

Although the Michigan High School Athletic Association briefly prevented Hackett from practicing on artificial turf this week, it changed its decision after learning that Hudson was practicing on it.

"When he found out Hudson was arranged to practice on the turf, we allowed Hackett to go ahead with his plans to do so," said MHSAA Director Allen Bush. "Astroturf is a lot different from playing on grass and we didn't want one team to have an edge."

Although most attention is on the Hackett-Hudson tussle, all eight semifinals should provide similarly tough competition.

Second-ranked Traverse City (9-0) and fourth-ranked Kalamazoo Central (9-0) tangle in a Class A semi at Memorial Field in Lansing. The other "A" game will match third-ranked Detroit Southwestern (8-0) and unrated Livonia Franklin (8-1) at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium.

Trenton (9-0), which finished first in the final Associated Press poll, didn't qualify for the playoffs under the MHSAA point system.

In Class B, top-rated Dearborn Divine Child (9-0) takes on No. 2 Sturgis (9-0) at Post Field in Battle Creek. The other "B" game pits sixth-ranked Saginaw MacArthur (8-1) against Flint Ainsworth (7-2) at Midland Stadium in Midland.

Portland (9-0) and ranked sixth, faces No. 8 Ishpeming (8-1) in the other Class C game, at Memorial Stadium in Mount Pleasant.

The top "D" matchup puts No. 1-ranked North Adams (9-0) against No. 2 Flint Holy Rosary (7-1) at Waverly Field in Lansing. No. 4 Crystal Falls Forest Park (8-1) battles sixth-ranked Posen (8-1) in the other "D" game at Thirby Field in Traverse City.

Duluth New NIC School

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Presidents and faculty athletic representatives of the seven schools in the Northern Intercollegiate Conference (NIC) have voted unanimously to admit the University of Minnesota-Duluth as the league's eighth school.

Duluth was admitted at the NIC's annual fall conference Thursday, and will begin competition in all 10 NIC sports next fall.

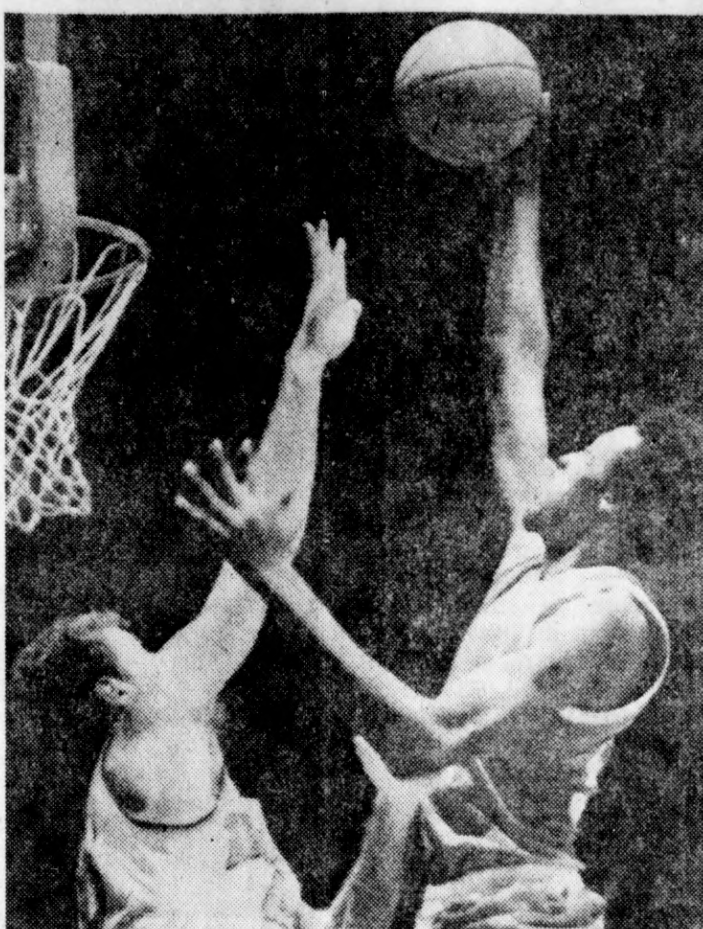

Other NIC members are Minnesota-Morris, Moorhead State, Bemidji State, Winona State, St. Cloud State and Southwest State in Minnesota, and Michigan State.

Duluth was one of six charter members of the NIC in 1932, but entered the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference in 1949.

Duluth will continue its membership in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, as hockey is not a league sport in the NIC.

St. Joe Girls Back On Winning Trail

In this case, a loss seems to be the best medicine for the St. Joseph girls basketball team.

After suffering their first defeat Tuesday, the Bears got back on the winning trail with a 52-42 victory over Big Seven foe Holland on their home court Thursday night.

In other action, Benton Harbor ended the regular season by losing to Battle Creek Central 49-40. Berrien Springs downed Galien 76-16. Martin squashed Bloomingdale 55-16. Gobles trounced Lawton 58-16. Comstock beat Paw Paw 59-29 and Marcellus dumped Decatur 48-44.

St. Joe ends its league season as champs with an 11-1 record. The Bears take their 18-1 regular season mark to Lakeshore Monday night and then meet Benton Harbor in the first game of the Class A districts at St. Joe Thursday night. Holland ends its season at 7-5.

"The kids had a good attitude," said Bears' coach Marty Scherr. "They went into this game like they should have; more worried about the other team."

St. Joe had a chance to take a dive as the Dutch outscored the Bears 23-12 in the second quarter to lead 26-25 at the half. But St. Joe came back in the second half to lead 35-30 at the end of the third quarter. "The team didn't get flustered in the second quarter," remarked Scherr. "In the second half they played with real good hustle and determination."

Kay Stickney led the Bears with 18 points while Andy Gast added 13 and Ann Ryan 10. Sue Griswold pulled King down 10 rebounds. Sue had nine and Gast eight caroms.

The Bears' junior varsity upped its record to 15-4 with a 47-25 win. Liz Sheffer led the team with 11 points.

Benton Harbor tried a few new combinations in its game with Battle Creek. Carmella Hull led the Tigers, who close the season at 12-7 with 15 points. Debra Jones had 10 and Denise Boyd added six more. Barbara Cusic had 17 points for the Bearcats and Karen Ware added nine.

The Tigers will have their work cut out next Thursday. St. Joe has beaten Benton Harbor twice this season, 45-24 on the Tigers' court and 47-39 at St. Joseph.

Berrien Springs finished up its season at 14-3 with its win over Galien. Jill Quiriconi led the Shamrocks with 18 points, while Teri Moore and Diane Unfress added 12 points apiece. Janet Wright had 11 for the Gaels. The Shamrock junior varsity ended their third straight undefeated season with a 54-10 win.

Martin brought its record to 15-2 with its win over Bloomingdale. Diane Hilbrand had 19 points for the Clippers and Kathy Oetman added eight.

Comstock got a 20-point performance from Natalie Ewles against Paw Paw. Deb Sitar was the leading Redskins' scorer with 13.

Marcellus ended its SAC play with a win over Decatur. Denise Brown led the Wildcats with 19 points and Karen Ringle added 12. Sue Marcinck had 12 points for the Raiders. Marcellus is now 16-3 and 12-0 in the league.

Gobles put four girls in double figures in its win over Lawton. Kelly Smith led the Tigers with 25 points while Sue Robarg had 23, Pam Markus 18 and Pam Westcott 10. The Blue Devils had Carol Clair with four points.

Bench No Place For 'The Pearl'

Barry's 38-Point Effort Defeats Bulls

From Associated Press
Earl Monroe has a good point: you can't score from the bench. "I only played five minutes," Monroe said, explaining why he only took two shots from the field and scored three points in the opening half of Thursday night's National Basketball Association game with the Houston Rockets.

"The Pearl" saw quite a bit more action in the final two periods, winding up with 23 points while leading the Knicks to a 108-102 victory, their first after five straight losses.

In other NBA games Thursday, Washington clipped Boston 110-107, Phoenix nipped Seattle 106-103 and Golden State defeated Chicago 98-87.

In the only American Basketball Association game played, San Antonio crushed Virginia 124-100.

"I got three quick fouls in the first period, so I figured I would sit out the rest of the first half," Monroe said. "But in the third period, I could go out and play my game."

Monroe, guarded mostly by Houston's Calvin Murphy, took the 5-foot-10 guard deep inside time and again, scoring on a variety of spinning jump shots.

New York had a balanced attack with Bill Bradley scoring 17 points, Spencer Haywood 16, Walt Frazier 14 and John Gianelli 13. Houston's Mike Newlin took scoring honors with 26 points, while Murphy added 22 and Joe Meriweather and Rudy Tomjanovich had 21 each.

Washington's Wes Unseld and Elvin Hayes sank free throws in the final 12 seconds to give the Bullets a narrow victory over Boston. The Celtics rallied in the final period, pulling from an 89-75 deficit going into the quarter to just one point down, 108-107, with 19 seconds remaining before Unseld and Hayes successfully hit from the free throw line. Phil Chenier, who scored 10 points in the final quarter, paced Washington with 24 points and Dave Bing added 22, while Boston's Charlie Scott led all scorers with 29.

With Phoenix leading 104-103, the Suns' Paul Westphal blocked a Slick Watts shot and Phoenix recovered. Keith Erickson was then fouled intentionally, but he sank both free throws to ice the Suns' victory over Seattle. Dick Van Arsdale led Phoenix with 20 points while Bruce Seals and Leonard Gray scored 24 and 23 points, respectively, for the SuperSonics.

Held scoreless in the first period, Rick Barry exploded for 38 points to lead Golden State past Chicago. It was the Warriors' five straight victory and their seventh against two losses.

Scoring 12 straight points late in the first period, San Antonio broke open the game and never trailed in handing Virginia its sixth consecutive defeat and 11th loss in its last 12 games. Billy Paulitz led the Spurs with 21 points while James Silas and George Gervin added 20 each as San Antonio posted its fourth win in a row.

Gates Brown Is Honored By Michigan Legislature

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Newly retired Detroit Tiger pinch-hitter Gates Brown was called to the state House of Representatives podium Thursday for a tribute to his baseball career.

A special committee of legislators escorted Brown and his wife, son and father to the front of the House chamber for a reading of a resolution congratulating Brown for 12 years of keeping his "booming bat on call."

Brown is "one of the most popular Tigers and the greatest pinch hitter in the history of the American League," said House Speaker Bobby Crim, reading from the resolution.

The tribute relates how "Gater" hit a home run his first time at bat as a Tiger June 19, 1963. Brown holds two league records, one for his 107 pinch hits and the other for 16 pinch hit home runs.

Brown now is a Tiger scout.

Pool Squad Making Big Bowling Splash Owns Area's Top Team Series

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

The Glamour Pool Place team is fast establishing itself as the No. 1 squad in southwestern Michigan.

The five of Jerry Briney, Karl Gersonde, Bud Mummaw, George Richter and Don Geresy currently own the top series (3023) in the area and are averaging a hefty 958 a game.

All own 189 averages or better with Gersonde tops at 198, second in the Twin City Classic league behind Harv Pallas' 199. Mummaw is at 192, Geresy 191, Richter 190 and Briney 189.

Glamour's team game average of 958 is believed the highest in the area and 31 pins better than Classic league runnerup Lambrecht's Sports with 927.

The team, which captured the Classic league point crown last year and is leading again this season, had the high series in the area two years ago and the fourth best last season.

"I'd say right now we're the best team around," offers Briney. "Maybe we don't have the five best bowlers but we're very compatible. We're starting to get confidence in each other. When one of us has a bad game the others pick him up. And when we have a bad team game we usually come back with some good ones."

The five have been bowling four years together as a team, three years under Glamour Pool and one year as Cubie's Pizza Pit.

"I think it takes about three years for the bowlers on a team to really know each other," notes Gersonde. "I think we're just starting to jell as a team now. Everyone gets along real good...nobody gets on somebody else if they bowl poorly."

"And the guys also hang around together outside of bowling. I think that makes for good unity on a team."

Glamour, whose average is boosted by sub Bob Kolberg's 200 average, gets an added incentive from its sponsor who kicks $25 into the pot for all 3000 series and $50 for all 3100 series.

The squad will be aiming to finally score big on the national scene next April when it goes down to Oklahoma City for the ABC national tournament.

"We've gone as a team the last two-three years," says Gersonde. "Briney has shot pretty good down there but we can't seem to do much as a team. We usually get some money back but not much."

In a major change in the standings this week, Rod Dekema took over third spot (tie) in the high games listings with a 274 in the Friday 9 O'clock Mixed Doubles league at Wil-O-Paw Lanes.

There were a total of 11 women's 500 series in the Tuesday Twilights league at Blossom Lanes this week.

The $100,000 Brunswick World Open tournament will start Sunday at Brunswick Northern Bowl in Glendale Heights near Chicago.

The top PBA keggers will take part along with 20 overseas players. Johnny Petraglia is defending champion. The finals will be telecast nationally by CBS on Saturday, Nov. 22, from 4:30 to 6 p.m.

Winners of the Family Twosome tournament sponsored by the Fruit Belt junior bowling association have been announced. Jim Gaytan and his dad Al took the bantam title with 1287 handicap; Robby Sliter and Ken Davis the junior crown with 1348; and Rodney Tyler and Walt Schultz the senior championship with 1295.

Split conversions this week included the 6-7 by Jane Berry, Bonnie Stover, Charlie Borrelli and Jim DeLand; the 4-7-10 by Bev Zinkl, Nancy Hauelsen and Deanna Cooper; the 6-7-10 by Helen Conrad, Steve Kidman, W. Wirth, Alma Moore, Larry Loikits, Marguerite Smith, Dory Johnson, Carol Bickers, Marge Astopenia and Mary Jape Fredricks; the 4-10 by Barbara Dorgelo, Cindy Hallman, Myrt Kaeding, Virginia Moore, Lisa Thomas and Jim Martin; the 4-7-9-10 by Hank Rushing and J. Kolberg; the 4-6-7 by Almetta Leonard; the 7-9-10 by Jack Tidey; the 7-9 by Sandy Isabelland the 4-6-10 by Mary Justice.

Laura Hagenbarth converted the 5-10 and 3-7-10 in one night and Margo Ryno the 4-7-10 and 3-5-10 in one night.

Boy Brings Controversy To Girls Volleyball Team

By JOHN SHURR
Associated Press Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — When Brian Goralski asked for a chance to try out for his high school volleyball team, the coach tried to talk him out of it.

It wasn't that Brian, a 6-foot-2 junior at South Bend Clay, didn't have talent, but rather that volleyball in Indiana traditionally is a girls' sport.

"Last year he wanted to play, too," said Joan Mitchell, volleyball coach. "But I talked him out of it because I knew what would happen."

But so did Brian. After playing on the United States' Junior Olympic team this summer, he had made up his mind.

"It may seem kind of funny and everything," Brian said. "But I really like the sport. Volleyball is a little behind in the Midwest and the players aren't as good as they are on the West Coast, where they play all the way through high school and college."

Despite objections from his coach and some razzing from his friends, Brian tried out for Clay's volleyball team and made it. Suddenly the razzing turned into nasty heckling.

"I got a lot of harassment early in the season, but now it's not bothering me," he said. "Sometimes people at the games still yell, 'What are you doing out there, girl?' or, 'Look at those hairy legs!'"

"But the people I go to school with are all for me. They want the team to win the state tournament. We've never won the state trophy."

Had it not been for a suit filed in 1971 against the Indiana High School Athletic Association, Brian might not have been allowed to play volleyball this year.

It was filed by an 18-year-old South Bend Riley student, Jonell Haas, who wanted the chance to play on the boys' golf team. She won the battle and the Indiana Supreme Court ordered all Indiana schools to give girls the opportunity to qualify for male high school teams in non-contact sports.

"The Supreme Court said girls could go out for boys teams in non-contact sports if schools don't offer the same sport for both," said IHSAA Commissioner Phil Eskew. "So it stands to reason that the vice versa is true, too."

"Schools can only support so many sports and they're already taxed financially," Eskew said. "We had a number of complaints about boys playing early in the season, but things have quieted down."

Both Eskew and Mrs. Mitchell believe that boys playing on girls' volleyball teams will hurt the sport for girls.

"I don't think it's fair for the boys to play against the girls," Mrs. Mitchell said. "There might be some way it could be done, but the rules will have to be changed." While seeing the obvious problems in playing in the predominantly girls' sport, Mrs. Mitchell admits she understands Brian's viewpoint. "His purpose in coming out for the team was to try to bring attention to the fact that boys need a boys' volleyball team," she said.

Eight Goals Not Enough For Spurs Nedomansky's Five Goals Sparks Toronto Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Denver Spurs haven't been scoring much of late and as a result, haven't been winning.

They finally started scoring Thursday night — but still aren't winning.

The Spurs whacked in eight goals, but their defense was deplorable and that cost them an 11-8 decision to the Toronto Toros in a wide-open World Hockey Association game.

"It was a defenseman's nightmare and a goaltender's nightmare," noted Toronto Coach Bobby Braun.

Vaclav Nedomansky led the shelling on Denver's beleaguered goalmouth, knocking in five shots.

"I just play every game the same way," said Nedomansky, shrugging off his superman performance. "I try to skate, shoot good and pass good. Sometimes it's just a good day for me."

After finally getting an explosive scoring game out of his team and still losing, Denver Coach Jean Guy Talbot was slightly shellshocked.

"We keep losing 3-2, 3-2, 3-2 and now tonight we get eight goals and lose the game," he said.

In the WHA games, the Winnipeg Jets stopped the Calgary Cowboys 4-2 and the San Diego Mariners whipped the Cleveland Crusaders 3-1.

The Toros battered Denver goalies BOB Johnson and Nick Stanza for their 11 goals on only 27 shots. Nedomansky's performance, which tied a WHA record, also made him the league' leading goal scorer with 15 goals in 13 games.

The 19 goals scored by the two teams also established a league mark.

Mike Ford scored a goal and assisted on two others to lead Winnipeg over Calgary. Ford triggered a two goal burst in the first period with a score at the 8:12 mark then assisted on third-period goals by Bill Lesuk and Veli-Pekka Ketola to lock up Winnipeg's victory.

Center Andre Lacroix and right wing Norm Ferguson connected on third-period goals to give San Diego its triumph over Cleveland. Lacroix scored what proved to be the game-winner, breaking a 1-1 tie, a 7:02 of the third period. Ferguson added an insurance goal at 13:34 to put the game away for the Mariners.

U.S. Boxers Face Russia

NEW YORK (AP) — The top-ranked heavyweight amateur boxer in the world is a Russian named Igor Vysotsky. But, oddly enough, the No. 1 heavyweight boxer in Russia is named Evgeny Gorstkov.

Gorstkov, from the small town of Orsk in the Ural mountains, has met Vysotsky once and stopped him on cuts.

"We think Gorstkov is our best heavyweight," said Russian boxing Coach Ouri Radoniak, a 1960 Olympic gold medalist himself.

Creston Coach McGee Resigns

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Joe McGee resigned Wednesday after 15 years as head football coach at Grand Rapids Creston High School.

McGee compiled a 79-53-7 record, including five city titles and an undefeated season in 1965. He said he was leaving coaching to devote more time to "family priorities."

His son, Tim, is head football coach at nearby Forest Hills Northern High School.

GM Executive's Son Has Little Data On Captors

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — After spending more than two days blindfolded in the trunk of a car, the 13-year-old son of a General Motors Corp. executive was unable to give authorities much useful information about his abductors.

Officials said Thursday they have few clues in the abduction of Timothy Stempel, who was released unharmed Wednesday after a $150,000 ransom was paid.

State Police Capt. Walter Anderson said the available description of the youth's captors was "highly skeptical." He said several people were involved, but the exact number was not known.

Officers were checking numerous tips Thursday night, Bloomfield Township police said.

Young Stempel, an athletic 6-foot, 100-pounder, stood silent beside his parents Thursday with only the trace of a smile on his face as he took a break from a police interview to meet with reporters.

His father, Chevrolet engineering director Robert C. Stempel, said Tim was forced into a car Monday night by several men. He said his son pushed away a gun which was pointed at him and scuffled briefly with the men before being taken away.

Tim, a Bloomfield Hills Junior High School student, was released in good health after Stempel, 42, dropped off the ransom at a still-undisclosed site in western Wayne County.

It was the second time in five weeks that the family of a General Motors executive was the subject of an abduction.

But Stempel and Anderson passed this off as an apparent coincidence.

Stempel said the abductors apparently would have taken any child playing alone in the exclusive suburb. He said all the abductors knew about the Stempels came from questions they asked Tim.

"It was strictly random," Stempel said. "I think it was whoever was there. This is a reasonably nice neighborhood — there are several doctors in

Consumers N-Plant Delay Strains Ties With Dow

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. says it is "re-looking at our whole energy plan" because of delays in construction for Consumers Power Company's Midland nuclear plant.

Joseph G. Temple, Jr., general manager of Dow's Midland Division, said, "All of the delays and fantastic cost increases have changed our view of what processed steam from the nuclear plant will do for our division."

Company spokesmen said Dow is not trying to break its contract to purchase power from the new Consumers plant. But they acknowledged Dow's relationship with the Jackson-based utility is strained.

Consumers officials had no comment on Temple's statements, made during a speech Wednesday to the Saginaw Press Club.

"Dow management once thought processed steam from the plant would give Dow an economic advantage at Midland over other Dow locations," Temple said. "Until the most recent two-year delay of the nuclear plant start-up to 1982 and the last increase in the estimated cost of the plant of over $450 million — to $1.4 billion — our plans were still being formulated on this basis.

"Today, however, we don't feel confident this will give us an edge," he said.

New Moms Can't Be Kept Home

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Contracts may not require teachers to stay home from work after having a baby, nor may school boards agree to such contracts, the state Court of Appeals has ruled.

"A union cannot burden a member's highly personal freedom of personal choice in marriage and family matters by signing a collective bargaining agreement," the court said Thursday.

Contracts in over half the state's 530 school districts require teachers to stay home and recuperate after having a child, said David McMahon, president of the Michigan Education Association. This "special treatment" of pregnancy as apart from normal illnesses contradicts recent federal court rulings against required maternity leaves, he said.

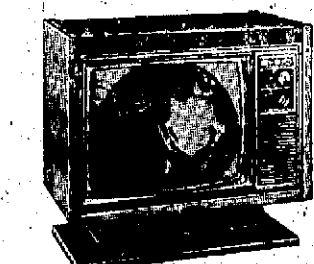

The appeals court said the Wayne County Circuit Court was right to award $5,249 in damages to Melvindale-Alton Park teacher Shirla Kewin, who was told she could not return to work two months after she had a baby.

The district's board of education cited a clause in its contract with the Melvindale Federation of Teachers which set maternity leaves at four months.

The appeals court said a school board can neither agree to such a contract, nor "unilaterally impose a maternity leave provision that . . . presumes a teacher is unfit to work until the expiration of a four-month period."

GM Executive's Son Has Little Data On Captors

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — After spending more than two days blindfolded in the trunk of a car, the 13-year-old son of a General Motors Corp. executive was unable to give authorities much useful information about his abductors.

Officials said Thursday they have few clues in the abduction of Timothy Stempel, who was released unharmed Wednesday after a $150,000 ransom was paid.

State Police Capt. Walter Anderson said the available description of the youth's captors was "highly skeptical." He said several people were involved, but the exact number was not known.

Officers were checking numerous tips Thursday night, Bloomfield Township police said.

His father, Chevrolet engineering director Robert C. Stempel, said Tim was forced into a car Monday night by several men. He said his son pushed away a gun which was pointed at him and scuffled briefly with the men before being taken away.

Tim, a Bloomfield Hills Junior High School student, was released in good health after Stempel, 42, dropped off the ransom at a still-undisclosed site in western Wayne County.

It was the second time in five weeks that the family of a General Motors executive was the subject of an abduction.

But Stempel and Anderson passed this off as an apparent coincidence.

Stempel said the abductors apparently would have taken any child playing alone in the exclusive suburb. He said all the abductors knew about the Stempels came from questions they asked Tim.

"It was strictly random," Stempel said. "I think it was whoever was there. This is a reasonably nice neighborhood — there are several doctors in

Consumers N-Plant Delay Strains Ties With Dow

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. says it is "re-looking at our whole energy plan" because of delays in construction for Consumers Power Company's Midland nuclear plant.

Company spokesmen said Dow is not trying to break its contract to purchase power from the new Consumers plant. But they acknowledged Dow's relationship with the Jackson-based utility is strained.

Consumers officials had no comment on Temple's statements, made during a speech Wednesday to the Saginaw Press Club.

"Dow management once thought processed steam from the plant would give Dow an economic advantage at Midland over other Dow locations," Temple said. "Until the most recent two-year delay of the nuclear plant start-up to 1982 and the last increase in the estimated cost of the plant of over $450 million — to $1.4 billion — our plans were still being formulated on this basis.

"Today, however, we don't feel confident this will give us an edge," he said.

New Moms Can't Be Kept Home

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Contracts may not require teachers to stay home from work after having a baby, nor may school boards agree to such contracts, the state Court of Appeals has ruled.

"A union cannot burden a member's highly personal freedom of personal choice in marriage and family matters by signing a collective bargaining agreement," the court said Thursday.

Contracts in over half the state's 530 school districts require teachers to stay home and recuperate after having a child, said David McMahon, president of the Michigan Education Association. This "special treatment" of pregnancy as apart from normal illnesses contradicts recent federal court rulings against required maternity leaves, he said.

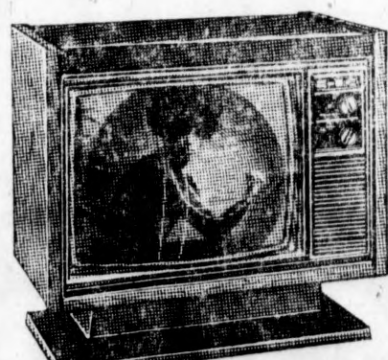

The appeals court said the Wayne County Circuit Court was right to award $5,249 in damages to Melvindale-Allen Park teacher Shirla Kewin, who was told she could not return to work two months after she had a baby.

The district's board of education cited a clause in its contract with the Melvindale Federation of Teachers which set maternity leaves at four months.

Indians Staged Own Revolution

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer
ARCADIA, R.I. (AP) — A century before the colonists began the Revolutionary War, another group of Americans fought to drive the British from these shores. The Indians of southern New England waged the year-long King Philip's War and lost.

That war, which began in 1675, was the first major armed resistance by American Indians to the encroachment of English settlers.

And the Indians' crushing defeat a year later foreshadowed the final defeat of the Indians in their struggle to stop white settlement of America.

Yet despite its historical importance, the King Philip's War has been largely forgotten in the Bicentennial celebration.

But Princess Red Wing, a 77-year-old Indian who runs an Indian trading post here and claims to be a direct descendant of King Philip, has not forgotten.

"King Philip's War was a revolutionary war to save his home, his tribe and his family," she said in an interview. "King Philip figured the Indians would all be pushed into the sea or all be killed, and if they didn't rise up then and protect their homes and families, they'd be annihilated. He was right in what he thought."

King Philip, a Wampanoag

chieftain, was the son of Massasoit, who welcomed the Pilgrims to Plymouth in 1620 and who helped the early settlers survive their first difficult years. As a mark of respect for the settlers, Massasoit gave his sons English names.

But 50 years later, the English settlers were no longer weak and clinging to precarious beachheads. They had established themselves in towns and had begun to press inland, ever hungry for Indian land.

Believing his people were being degraded and robbed of their homes, Philip launched a war to drive the English back into the sea.

In the summer of 1675, the Indians scored early victories against frontier Massachusetts towns, some of which were destroyed by fire and others abandoned by frightened settlers.

But the colonial forces grew in strength and skill, and by the late fall, they were ready to begin their first major campaign — against the Narragansett Indians who until then had remained neutral.

Troops from Massachusetts, Plymouth, Connecticut and Rhode Island marched against the Narragansett winter encampment in the Great Swamp in South Kingstown on Dec. 19, 1675.

The resulting battle, known as the Great Swamp Fight, may have been the first great massacre of Indians in the English colonies. Hundreds and possibly thousands of Narragansetts perished.

Princess Red Wing describes the attack:

"Those four armies went in there to burn that fort on a very cold, cold night, and Canonicet, the young (Indian) officer, didn't even have a sentinel out because the Narragansetts were there to be neutral, out of King Philip's War."

He recorded, "It does not please me to shed one drop of English blood," so he gathered the people into Great Swamp ... "And these Indians were all fast asleep when those four armies crept in there and set the village on fire and burned up thousands of men, women, children, old folks and babies."

History books, based on accounts of the attackers, say that 1,000 or more Indians were killed at Great Swamp, mostly by fire.

By the next summer, the English colonists held sway in the forests where the Indians earlier had been a dreaded force. The colonial armies rounded up hundreds of demoralized warriors.

King Philip, whose wife and children had been captured and sold into slavery, was relentlessly pursued. Then on Aug. 12, 1676, near his original home at Mount Hope in Bristol, Philip was trapped in an ambush and killed. His hiding place had been revealed to the colonists by a drunken halfbreed named Alderman, who later charged admission to see the picked hand he cut from King Philip's corpse.

"What kind of man was King Philip," Princess Red Wing reflects. "This is the kind of man he was. When his wife and child were taken and sold into slavery, he said, 'I have nothing more for which to fight.'"

"He fought for land, for home, for his family, his loved ones, as people fight today," she said. Although Princess Red Wing says she does not like to dwell on the wars, she began organizing memorial ceremonies 35 years ago for the Indians who fought and died in the King Philip's War.

Every fall, she takes people to a marker which stands in South Kingstown at the site of the Great Swamp Fight. She says they form a circle of brotherhood.

"I say be sure to keep it a memorial service. Don't make it a powwow, don't make it a carnival, don't make it a militant thing, but pay tribute to our unsung heroes of the past," she said.

In talks she gives at schools, Princess Red Wing says she emphasizes the contributions Indians made to this country.

Two of those contributions, she says, were democracy and fighting tactics.

"Do you think they would ever have won the Revolutionary War if the Indians hadn't taught them how to fight in this wilderness. And Benjamin Franklin recorded, 'It seems strange we must go to the natives for our form of government.'"

A Word Edgewise

When President Ford in Boston, offhandedly announced he was going to run in all 30 primary elections, he made it sound as though he was going out to Burning Tree for 18 holes of golf. My reaction, based on more campaign experience than I want to remember, was, "Who's going to mind the store?" If the President was just going to do a few television tapes, that would be one thing. But it is already clear he is a compulsive campaigner — the roar of the crowd starts his adrenalin pumping. He informed the good people of the Bay State he's back for our primary.

I suppose the main reason I never went after a serious elective office is that I could never take campaigning seriously.

But there is more to it than simple personal prejudice. When Lyndon Johnson set out on a marathon one bright fall day in 1964 and made speeches from Maine to San Diego, it didn't just take one working day out of his life — took about three. First, he had to approve the arrangements, make sure the right local pols got their moment in the lights, check out the speeches, bawl out the Secret Service for being too cautious, and OK the passenger list on Air Force One.

Now it so happens that the fall of 1964 was the time when the balloon was going up in South Vietnam. It was precisely the time frame in which a number of serious options confronted the President and his national security advisors. As the "Pentagon Papers" indicated, the bureaucracy was busy preparing position papers on every aspect of Southeast Asian involvement. What the documents fail to show — and this is their great weakness as a source — is the President's reaction. The reason for this is simple: he thought the Tonkin Gulf Resolution would put the fear of God into the North Vietnamese and stuck the whole mess on the backburner. At a top level meeting on Sept. 7, 1964, Johnson did ask, "Can we really strengthen the GVN (Government of Vietnam)?" He did not follow it up.

Further, on Nov. 1, two days before the election, Communist sappers at Bien Hoa airfield killed four Americans and destroyed or disabled 13 B-57 bombers. The Joint Chiefs came up with an elaborate contingency plan, but — at a White House meeting on the same day — the President refused to focus on it. Another meeting was scheduled for Nov. 2, but the President was in Houston making his final campaign speech. During the same period the Multilateral Nuclear Force was awaiting decent burial, but the President did not send for the undertaker until after election.

Against this background, we now have to anticipate direct presidential participation in 30 primaries. If we assume that he allows four working days for each, the government of the United States will be in limbo for about five months: from February to June. Moreover, to indicate his break with the Nixon tradition, it is doubtful if the President — even when he realizes what he has let himself in for — will turn to surrogates.

One can understand how a non-elected President might wish to validate himself with the people, but this election is in 1976, not 1948. Television tapes would not only eliminate the idiosyncrasy of the nation like a pea in a brass drum, but also unquestionably reach a wider audience. Also, such an approach would radically diminish the chances of some accurate crackpot putting a bullet into the only President we have. And, finally, it would provide Mr. Ford with the time to earn his salary as Chief Executive.

First, he had to approve the arrangements, make sure the right local pols got their moment in the lights, check out the speeches, bawl out the Secret Service for being too cautious, and OK the passenger list on Air Force One.

Now it so happens that the fall of 1964 was the time when the balloon was going up in South Vietnam. It was precisely the time frame in which a number of serious options confronted the President and his national security advisors. As the "Pentagon Papers" indicated, the bureaucracy was busy preparing position papers on every aspect of Southeast Asian involvement. What the documents fail to show — and this is their great weakness as a source — is the President's reaction. The reason for this is simple: he thought the Tonkin Gulf Resolution would put the fear of God into the North Vietnamese and stuck the whole mess on the backburner. At a top level meeting on Sept. 7, 1964, Johnson did ask, "Can we really strengthen the GVN (Government of Vietnam)?" He did not follow it up.

Further, on Nov. 1, two days before the election, Communist sappers at Bien Hoa airfield killed four Americans and destroyed or disabled 13 B-57 bombers. The Joint Chiefs came up with an elaborate contingency plan, but — at a White House meeting on the same day — the President refused to focus on it. Another meeting was scheduled for Nov. 2, but the President was in Houston making his final campaign speech. During the same period the Multilateral Nuclear Force was awaiting decent burial, but the President did not send for

Against this background, we now have to anticipate direct presidential participation in 30 primaries. If we assume that he allows four working days for each, the government of the United States will be in limbo for about five months; from February to June. Moreover, to indicate his break with the Nixon tradition, it is doubtful if the President — even when he realizes what he has let himself in for — will turn to surrogates.

One can understand how a non-elected President might wish to validate himself with the people, but this election is in 1976, not 1948. Television tapes would not only eliminate the idiosyncrasy of the nation like a pea in a brass drum, but also unquestionably reach a wider audience. Also, such an approach would radically diminish the chances of some accurate crackpot putting a bullet into the only President we have. And, finally, it would provide Mr. Ford with the time to earn his salary as Chief Executive.

"Nobody runs our credit union but us."

Whenever you think of a financial institution, you probably think of some ultra-conservative type in a pinstriped suit who has to stare at you for a minute before he remembers your name.

We think that's why you'll like the credit union. Because you're more than a customer. You're part of the family.

When you join a credit union, you have a voice in the management of a responsible financial institution. You own it. You help run it. You share in the profits. Through a good return on your savings and a fair interest rate when you borrow.

management straightened out." Charges of gross mismanagement have bombarded City Hall for years.

Politicians and citizen groups have said New York City government is disorganized, wasteful, unproductive and lacking in worker morale.

A voluntary business community group called the Economic Development Council of New York City has studied the management of the city's courts, the Human Resources Administration, which handles welfare and other social services, the Board of Education and other agencies.

George Champion, former Chase Manhattan Bank chairman who heads the council, says better management in all city agencies could save taxpayers about 5 per cent out of the city's $12.2 billion budget, "and it could be much higher."

A study of the Human Resources Administration two years ago proposed a reorganization plan that Champion said would save $300 million each year, or 10.7 per cent of the money spent on social services.

He found that worker productivity in the HRA was at "35 per cent to 50 per cent of potential." But he said the current HRA administrator "wasn't interested in implementing our proposals."

A productivity study of the HRA conducted by the Citizens Budget Commission in 1974 showed that computerization of the agency's services would cut back on the fraudulent welfare claims that are milking the city of millions annually and the agency itself would save another $58 million in salaries.

If the welfare budget holds first place as far as waste and mismanagement are concerned, studies seem to point to the city's education system as a close second.

Champion's group claimed to have found ways to shave the city's $2.1 billion education budget by more than 10 per cent, partly by increasing teachers' classroom hours. In two productivity studies by the Citizens Budget Commission, the group found that "a detailed study of a sample of 12 New York City secondary schools indicates that a substantial amount of teachers' time now spent on noninstructional activities could be freed for classroom time" at a saving of $30 million.

The commission's study of the City University system has shown that with the open admissions policy begun in 1970, the budget has gone up 135 per cent, the staff has increased 64 per cent, but student enrollment has increased only 45 per cent in the five-year period.

The study showed that full-time faculty members spent an average of 8.7 hours of student contact each week, while at the average four-year American college, 72 per cent of teachers spend more than that with students.

The commission estimates that "with changes to increase workload, savings of $26 million or whatever. This is the irresistible force. "But then you have an immovable object: you need a balanced budget under the law. Something has to happen to crawl under this dilemma and so the city hopes against hope that tomorrow will be better, that the economy will recover, or that the state or federal government will help," Briloff says. "What does President Ford do when he sees compelling needs? He increases budgets, raids Social Security funds. We don't call that mismanagement, though," he says. Briloff agrees that management problems arise in the city government and all governments when politics intrudes. Politics, he says, means "not creating a professional morale among the employees. It means I will give to Caesar only what I think he expects." Appointments to the commissioner level in the city are "politically oriented rather than selecting from the very best. "But who can you select from the private ranks of management when the commissioner is offered only limited tenure, and when good management decisions are vetoed by labor unions, politics, forces beyond your control?" he asks.

BRIG. GEN. Richard Montgomery's comments on his troops of the Canadian campaign of December, 1776, reveal just how low the fever of patriotism had fallen in Canada's freezing winds. New Englanders in his command were, "the worst stuff imaginable for soldiers." He could find among them "no zealous attachment to the Cause." As for New Yorkers, they were the "sweepings in the York (city) streets." Their morals were "infamous," and they had no more spirit than the New Englanders. "Never again," would be "hazard my reputation at the head of such ragamuffins." The World Almanac notes.

The Management Advisory Board created in August and led by Richard Shinn, president of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., is looking into other ways to help the city cut $724 million from its expense budget in the next three years. Shinn and other businessmen on the board so far have declined comment on their findings and activities. While few challenge the idea that the city's management could be improved, and is at least partly to blame for New York City's crisis, the much tougher problem is why mismanagement exists; who is to blame, and why the problems seem to resist ready solution. "Every government is mismanaged, including the federal government," said Richard R. Aurelio, a close advisor to former Mayor John V. Lindsay. The real problem he and others cite is that "government management tends to be shaped by politics. The problems come from the fact that the city has too few resources and too many desires." Abraham Briloff, a leading New York City accountant who has advised several city administrations, says: "A community is confronted with major demands, whether they be political, economic, humanitarian,

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

BRIG. GEN. Richard Montgomery's comments on his troops of the Canadian campaign of December, 1775, reveal just how low the fever of patriotism had fallen in Canada's freezing winds. New Englanders in his command were, "the worst stuff imaginable for soldiers." He could find among them "no zealous attachment to the Cause." As for New Yorkers, they were the "sweepings to the York (city) streets." Their morals were "infamous", and they had no more spirit than the New Englanders. "Never again," would be "hazard my reputation at the head of such ragamuffins." The World Almanac notes.

Market Begins To Slip

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower in the face of an apparent negative signal for the interest rate outlook.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction, and declining issues took a 3-2 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said investors were still watching closely for developments in the effort to come up with an answer to New York City's money problems.

But in the meantime they noted some negative reaction to the news from the Federal Reserve late Thursday of a big jump in the nation's money supply for the latest reporting week.

The bulge in the money supply, it was feared, would deter the Fed from continuing its recent credit-easing moves which have contributed to a downturn in interest rates.

The Fed has vowed to hold the growth of the money supply to a moderate pace in order to avoid setting off a new surge of inflation.

Today's early prices included Gulf Oil, unchanged at 20 1/2; Potlatch, down 1/2 at 48; Barrington, off 1/2 at 80 1/4; and Allied Stores, up 1/4 at 46 1/2.

The Thursday's mixed market the Dow Jones industrial average was off 1.02 at 851.23.

But gainers managed to outpace losers by about a 5-4 margin in the NYSE, while volume climbed to another four-month high of 25.07 million shares.

The NYSE's composite index slipped .02 to 48.20.

'No Progress' On Deficit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Democratic leaders and advisors for Gov. William Milliken reportedly made no progress Thursday as they discussed how to avert a deficit the governor says could hit $500 million. Legislative leaders said after the meeting the two sides are still some $40 million apart on how they see the upcoming deficit. Democrats insist Milliken overestimated a welfare caseload and should regard some money owed the state by the federal government as an asset rather than a liability, reducing the projected deficit by about $40 million.

Car Hit By Train In Berrien

BRIDGMAN — A new leased car which stalled on the railroad tracks at Brownstown road south of here early today was hit by a southbound freight train, state police from the New Buffalo post reported.

Police said the driver was at a nearby house seeking help when the car was struck by the Chesapeake and Ohio train. No one was hurt.

According to police George D. Rhew, 22, Church street, Bridgman, told them the car stalled as he attempted to drive across the tracks.

Police said the car was hit by a 71-car train.

According to the officers, the car had been leased from Don Letlow Chevrolet.

GRiffin PLUGGED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Hugh Scott, wrote President Ford Thursday asking that Michigan Sen. Robert Griffin be among those considered for the vacancy on the Supreme Court. Griffin, however, was not Scott's first choice.

New Buffalo Township Opposes Police Cutback

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo township board last night went on record as opposing a plan to close the New Buffalo state police post during the nighttime hours.

The part-time closing is being considered by state police officials as one way to cut expenses if Gov. William Milliken's proposal to cut $300 million from state expenditures is adopted by the legislature.

The board passed a resolution calling on Milliken and the state police director to exclude the New Buffalo post from any cuts in services.

The Three Oaks village board and Chikaming township board have also passed similar resolutions.

All three governments cited the need for a 24-hour state police post because calls for volunteer fire departments and ambulance service are routed through the post 24 hours a day; the Berrien county sheriff's department in St. Joseph is more than 20 miles away and sheriff's officers are not always immediately available; and local police protection in the area is not adequate.

In other business, the board voted final approval for the Gallen river sanitary sewer contract.

Under the agreement, the township would be linked with the city of New Buffalo and Chikaming township in a common sanitary sewer district.

According to the contract, the total cost of the project will be $20,197,950 and the township's share of the cost will be $1,500,000. State and federal grants will total $11,707,950.

The township portion of the

He said township residents unable to pay the initial $1,800 lap-on fee immediately will be charged interest at a rate two per cent higher than that which the bonds were sold for.

Township Supervisor Joseph Sevela said the first area of the township to receive the sanitary sewers would be the Union Pier area which was cited for pollution violations by the federal government in 1967.

The board passed a resolution commending Norman Lubke for serving 20 years on the volunteer fire department. Lubke is retiring as chief on Dec. 11.

Study Used Car License For Garage

The Benton township planning commission last night sent to committee a request for a used car license at 1378 Territorial road.

The request was made by James L. Remington who currently operates an automotive repair garage at that address. Remington said he wanted to sell some used cars along with his auto repair business.

The commission recommended approval of a request for an annual license to sell used furniture and clothing at 1283 Pipestone street, Mrs. Rodney Nolen requested the license on behalf of the Church of God of Prophecy which currently operates the "Sunny Bazaar" rummage sale with a monthly permit.

The township planning commission's next meeting will be Dec. 11. The regularly scheduled meeting, which falls on Thanksgiving, will not be held.

Physician Demands Court Examination

PAW PAW — A Paw Paw physician was arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court on four counts of prescribing drugs without a license.

Dr. Timothy McManus, 43, route 2, Red Arrow highway, demanded a preliminary examination on the charges and was released on his own recognizance pending a Nov. 25 hearing.

He was arrested Wednesday by state police from the Paw Paw post. A warrant for his arrest was issued after a complaint was filed by agents for the state's Department of Licensing and Regulation.

A spokesman for the Board of Pharmacy, a division of the licensing and regulation department, said Dr. McManus has not renewed his license to prescribe drugs for two years.

Van Buren Prosecutor Frank Willis said the license involved is one required in addition to the regular medical license. It covers prescriptions of controlled substances (drugs).

IRS Charges Diggs Owes U.S. $36,223

DETROIT (AP) — Federal officials have charged Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., in U.S. Tax Court with failure to pay $36,223 in taxes for 1968, the Detroit News reported today.

The Detroit congressman denied through his attorneys that he owes any money in the case, which involves the estate of his father, Charles C. Diggs.

The Internal Revenue Service first told Diggs on Aug. 30, 1974, that he owed the money, plus interest, on his father's estate, the News said. The congressman questioned the finding and moved to take the matter to the U.S. Tax Court, the paper said.

The tax court assigned the case to Judge Theodore Tannenwald Jr., who traveled from Washington to Detroit on Oct. 6, to hear the matter, the paper said.

The News said Tannenwald was irritated when attorneys for both the IRS and Diggs asked for an extension of time on grounds that "Diggs is a busy congressman and chairman of a committee and has not been available for consultation on a regular basis to assist his counsel."

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Begins To Slip

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower in the face of an apparent negative signal for the interest rate outlook.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction, and declining issues took a 3-2 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said investors were still watching closely for developments in the effort to come up with an answer to New York City's money problems.

But in the meantime they noted some negative reaction to the news from the Federal Reserve late Thursday of a big jump in the nation's money supply for the latest reporting week.

The bulge in the money supply, it was feared, would deter the Fed from continuing its recent credit-easing moves which have contributed to a downturn in interest rates.

The Fed has vowed to hold the growth of the money supply to a moderate pace in order to avoid setting off a new surge of inflation.

Today's early prices included Gulf Oil, unchanged at 20 1/2; Potlatch, down 1/2 at 49; Burroughs, off 1/4 at 80 1/4; and Allied Stores, up 1/4 at 46 1/4.

In Thursday's mixed market the Dow Jones industrial average was off 1.02 at 851.23.

But gainers managed to outpace losers by about a 5-4 margin on the NYSE, while volume climbed to another four-month high of 25.07 million shares.

The NYSE's composite index slipped .02 to 48.20.

'No Progress' On Deficit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Democratic leaders and advisors for Gov. William Milliken reportedly made no progress Thursday as they discussed how to avert a deficit the governor says could hit $300 million. Legislative leaders said after the meeting the two sides are still some $40 million apart on how they see the upcoming deficit. Democrats insist Milliken overestimated a welfare caseload and should regard some money owed the state by the federal government as an asset rather than a liability, reducing the projected deficit by about $40 million.

volunteer fire departments and ambulance service are routed through the post 24 hours a day; the Berrien county sheriff's department in St. Joseph is more than 20 miles away and sheriff's officers are not always immediately available; and local police protection in the area is not adequate.

In other business, the board voted final approval for the Galien river sanitary sewer contract.

Under the agreement, the township would be linked with the city of New Buffalo and Chikaming township in a common sanitary sewer district.

According to the contract, the total cost of the project will be $20,197,950 and the township's share of the cost will be $1,560,000. State and federal grants will total $11,707,950.

The township portion of the

He said township residents unable to pay the initial $1,800 tap-on fee immediately will be charged interest at a rate two per cent higher than that which the bonds were sold for.

Township Supervisor Joseph Sveha said the first area of the township to receive the sanitary sewers would be the Union Pier area which was cited for pollution violations by the federal government in 1967.

The board passed a resolution commending Norman Lubke for serving 20 years on the volunteer fire department. Lubke is retiring as chief on Dec. 11.

Study Used Car License For Garage

The Benton township planning commission last night sent to committee a request for a used car license at 1378 Territorial road.

The request was made by James L. Remington who currently operates an automotive repair garage at that address. Remington said he wanted to sell some used cars along with his auto repair business.

The commission recommended approval of a request for an annual license to sell used furniture and clothing at 1283 Pipestone street. Mrs. Rodney Nolen requested the license on behalf of the Church of God of Prophecy which currently operates the "Sunny Bizarre" rummage sale with a monthly permit.

The township planning commission's next meeting will be Dec. 11. The regularly scheduled meeting, which falls on Thanksgiving, will not be held.

Physician Demands Court Examination

PAW PAW — A Paw Paw physician was arraigned yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court on four counts of prescribing drugs without a license.

Dr. Timothy McManus, 43, route 2, Red Arrow highway, demanded a preliminary examination on the charges and was released on his own recognizance pending a Nov. 25 hearing.

He was arrested Wednesday by state police from the Paw Paw post. A warrant for his arrest was issued after a complaint was filed by agents for the state's Department of Licensing and Regulation.

A spokesman for the Board of Pharmacy, a division of the licensing and regulation department, said Dr. McManus has not renewed his license to prescribe drugs for two years.

Van Buren Prosecutor Frank Willis said the license involved is one required in addition to the regular medical license. It covers prescriptions of controlled substances (drugs).

IRS Charges Diggs Owes U.S. $36,223

DETROIT (AP) — Federal officials have charged Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., in U.S. Tax Court with failure to pay $36,223 in taxes for 1968, the Detroit News reported today.

The Detroit congressman denied through his attorneys that he owes any money in the case, which involves the estate of his father, Charles C. Diggs Sr., who died in April 1967, the News said in a copyrighted story.

Diggs said Thursday that the case was "too sensitive" for him to comment, the paper reported.

The Internal Revenue Service first told Diggs on Aug. 30, 1974, that he owed the money, plus interest, on his father's estate, the News said. The congressman questioned the finding and moved to take the matter to the U.S. Tax Court, the paper said.

The tax court assigned the case to Judge Theodore Tannwald Jr., who traveled from Washington to Detroit on Oct. 6, to hear the matter, the paper said.

The News said Tannwald was irritated when attorneys for both the IRS and Diggs asked for an extension of time on grounds that "Diggs is a busy congressman and chairman of a committee and has not been available for consultation on a regular basis to assist his counsel."

WANTS DISCLOSURE ON SJ BUS TRIPS

Editor,
This looks like the year of "Let George Do It." After 40 years of deficit spending to give us what we couldn't afford we finally come to a point where we know this type spending and taking must end.

We can see the folly of our ways on all sides of us. We can see city after city on the verge of bankruptcy. We can see our Social Security System that the elderly supported for 40 years, trying to expand their benefits to a point that is apt to bankrupt this worthy system. We can see our postal system raising rates and running in the red. We can see our welfare and A.D.C. rolls expanding at alarming rates. We can see our schools' all clamoring for more and more money. We can see less and less man-hour production and less and less jobs, and many many corporations with excessive profits, and unwarranted tax relief without being made responsible for furnishing new jobs in warrant same.

I note in the Nov. 11, edition of this news paper the report on the St. Joseph school board hearing. Board president Ray Dumke ask us to write our legislators against cuts in state aid to education. I would advise that we alert our legislators and Gov. Milliken that we back these cuts wholeheartedly and let them know that we expect cuts across the board, including our schools.

Mr. Dumke also announced tentative budget reductions of $40,000. Now this is a start but I wouldn't say $40,000 is much of a cut out of a $5,300,000 budget would you? This could be achieved by eliminating any two people in the administrative branch of our school system.

We have also heard a lot of pros and cons about busing a few students living within a mile of the school and having to walk busy roads. I believe these students could be bused from cluster groups without prohibitive expense and without any special mileage. Many of us are aware of the hundreds of bus trips made by the school to Sarret Nature Center, to Kalamazoo, to many other places and these trips could be curtailed and this money could be used to finance home to school trips. I would challenge the school officials to make a public disclosure of the total number of bus trips and mileage and cost of all bus trips other than trips made to transport students from home to school. If this information was published I am sure it would add a new perspective in the solving of our busing problem.

So let's quit kidding ourselves and do what's really needed by cutting our budgets across the board and not wait for "George To Do It."

COMMISSIONER BROWN COMMENTS ON RECORD

Editor,
I would like to take this opportunity to extend my appreciation to those citizens and campaign workers who labored, unselfishly, in behalf of myself and the "Common Sense Candidates" during the November 4, 1975 general election. The manner in which the campaign was conducted by these individuals and organizations will remain a source of pride for many years to come. Although the results of your efforts failed to produce, in full the desired results, the methods employed reflect your sense of fair-play and dedication and is a lasting tribute to your moral character.

My personal service to our community extends well beyond the four years I was privileged to represent you as a member of a city commission. My record of accomplishments is available to all who wish to assess my effectiveness as a legislator during my tenure in office. Such an evaluation will reveal to even the most critical of my opposition, that my actions, while often controversial, were always in the best interest of this community and its citizens. I will not attempt to present to you an itemized account of my contributions toward making Benton Harbor a better city. I will simply point out that the most recent inter-government battles are identical to the issues raised by myself and commissioner Yarbrough almost three years ago, for which we received little or no support and a great deal of criticism. If we were wrong then, why is it now so suddenly timely? Unified action at that time would have made the present reaction to crisis situations unnecessary and victory a certainty.

To the members of the opposing slate — "Clean Slate" — I offer my congratulations. I am sure it is your intent to provide the City of Benton Harbor imaginative and enthusiastic leadership.

There are, however, some matters that need to be resolved. I am referring to the letters sent out by the heretofore unknown "United Homeowners of Benton Harbor" under whose little vicious sneer leaflets against me and other Common Sense candidates were sent to residents just before the election.

This leaflet contained no names of the people responsible for it just "United Homeowners of Benton Harbor."

The city commission by resolution has denounced this anonymously distributed leaflet as an "exercise in libelous and juvenile conduct" and has condemned such irresponsibility. There is a moral to be found in this tragic episode. One, I am sure, that will thrust suddenly forward with dramatic impact. In these times when it is of crucial importance that we come together as one, we find ourselves being driven further apart. The personal affront upon me is of little consequence for I feel secure in the knowledge that I have given far more to this community than I have received. In truth compensation was never anticipated. The attack upon my mother, however, cannot and will not be ignored. It is the kind of debt that demands satisfaction. I am anxiously awaiting the moment of reprisal.

I had purposely delayed the issuing of any statement to allow ample time for the appropriate parties to denounce these improprieties. Their failure to do so leaves me no alternative other than to conclude this act was accomplished not only with their knowledge but their sanction.

Let me close by again thanking those who worked so diligently and honorably in behalf of the Common Sense Candidates. Because of you I can state with genuine conviction: It is far better to suffer defeat with dignity than gain victory without it.

Benton Harbor.

ENGINEERS' SPEAKER: Pro's, Unions 'Don't Mix'

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Organizing members of various professions into one politically powerful group would ward off unionization, a Lansing executive told Twin Cities area engineers last night.

"Unionism and professionalism are not compatible," declared Hugh W. Brenneman, executive vice president of the Michigan Association of the Professions.

Brenneman addressed members of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chapter of the

The Michigan Association of the Professions, organized in 1958, is to professional groups what chambers of commerce are to businesses, Brenneman explained. Eligible for membership are accountants, school administrators, dentists, teachers, optometrists, architects, engineers, doctors, pharmacists, veterinarians and lawyers.

The same organization is needed at the local level, Brenneman said. He cited two areas where combined, cooperative action is needed—politics and economics.

In the political field, he said, the legislature, divided the professions, giving each a pet plum, then snatched them with an unfair share of taxes through the single business tax. Had the professions been organized such divide and conquer efforts would not have succeeded, he said.

In economics, he said, the response of professionals who think they are underpaid has been to consider unionizing. But, Brenneman said, it is not necessary to strike to get greater income.

Brenneman used the Michigan Education Association as an example. He said the MEA fell into the trap of becoming a labor union. It was a shogun wedding, he said.

He continued: "As a result the MEA has sanctioned strikes to increase teacher salaries, but its main contribution to higher teacher salaries was made by its influence with the legislature and that has been done as an association and is not based on strikes."

"In fact the strikes have been a negative factor in their negotiations with the legislature. Strikes have cost the teachers their professional standing."

"Professions get their economic strength from their unique ability to serve," he said. "Unions (get theirs) from their privilege to strike."

"Political power arises in both instances from the ability to deliver votes and this is not affected by whether they are organized as an association or a union."

Brenneman (right), executive vice president of Michigan Association of the Professions, cites need for professional groups to organize for economic and political strength. ## Woman Is Injured In I-94 Crash

An Ann Arbor woman received minor injuries Thursday as the result of a three-vehicle accident on I-94 near Pipestone road, Benton Township, state police of the Benton Harbor post said.

Treated and released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was Annina M. Mitchell, 24, identified as one of the drivers. Troopers said her car apparently went out of control due to slippery conditions and struck another car then slid into a semi-truck. Neither of the other drivers were hurt, troopers indicated. She was cited for violation of the basic speed law, speed too fast for conditions, troopers reported, in the 2:45 p.m. accident.

Benton township police said one driver received minor injuries Thursday in a two-car collision about 9 a.m. at the intersection of Napier and Ogden avenues, Fairplain.

Police said Bonnie Hope Kinchen, 27, of 2285 Lawrence drive, Benton Heights, sought her own treatment for minor injuries. Driver of the other car, identified as Kim Alan Wilder, 18, of 1302 Ogden, Fairplain, was unhurt and police cited him for failure to yield the right of way.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Michael Allen Brock, 18, of 708 Forest Park road. Troopers said a $300 rifle was confiscated. It was among several guns and other household goods, valued at about $1,300, that were reported stolen from the home of Nick Peet, 290 Shore lane, Watervliet township, last weekend.

A 16-year-old Benton township boy was taken into custody by Benton Harbor police Thursday on a charge of breaking and entering a home at 344 Colby street.

Police said the occupant of the home, Cynthia Johnson, saw a young man carrying end tables believed from her home while she was visiting a neighbor shortly before 9 a.m. She and her friend apprehended the youth after a short foot chase, police said.

The boy was turned over to the custody of his parents pending petitioning to juvenile court, police indicated.

Thefts reported to Benton township police Thursday were:

—A wallet containing $220 in cash from the home of Vanessa Davis, 1316 Superior street.

—A citizens' band radio, valued at $230, from the pickup truck of William D. Penner, Angling road, Coloma, parked in the 1400 block of Milton street.

WANTS DISCLOSURE ON SJ BUS TRIPS

Editor,

This looks like the year of "Let George Do It." After 40 years of deficit spending to give us what we couldn't afford we finally come to a point where we know this type spending and taxing must end.

We can see the folly of our ways on all sides of us. We can see city after city on the verge of bankruptcy. We can see our Social Security System that the elderly supported for 40 years, trying to expand their benefits to a point that is apt to bankrupt this worthy system. We can see our postal system raising rates and running in the red. We can see our welfare and A.D.C. rolls expanding at alarming rates. We can see our schools all clamoring for more and more money. We can see less and less man-hour production and less and less jobs and many many corporations with excessive profits, and unwarranted tax relief without being made responsible for furnishing new jobs to warrant same.

I note in the Nov. 11, edition of this news paper the report on the St. Joseph school board hearing. Board president Ray Dumke ask us to write our legislators against cuts in state aid to education. I would advise that we alert our legislators and Gov. Milliken that we back these cuts wholeheartedly and let them know that we expect cuts across the board, including our schools.

Mr. Dumke also announced tentative budget reductions of $40,000. Now this is a start but I wouldn't say $40,000 is much of a cut out of a $5,300,000 budget would you? This could be achieved by eliminating any two people in the administrative branch of our school system.

We have also heard a lot of pros and cons about busing a few students living within a mile of the school and having to walk busy roads. I believe these students could be bused from cluster groups without prohibitive expense and without any special mileage. Many of us are aware of the hundreds of bus trips made by the school to Sarret Nature Center, to Kalamazoo, to many other places and these trips could be curtailed and this money could be used to finance home to school trips. I would challenge the school officials to make a public disclosure of the total number of bus trips and mileage and cost of all bus trips other than trips made to transport students from home to school. If this information was published I am sure it would add a new perspective in the solving of our busing problem.

So let's quit kidding ourselves and do what's really needed by cutting our budgets across the board and not wait for "George To Do It."

COMMISSIONER BROWN COMMENTS ON RECORD

Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to extend my appreciation to those citizens and campaign workers who labored, unselfishly, in behalf of myself and the "Common Sense Candidates" during the November 4, 1975 general election. The manner in which the campaign was conducted by these individuals and organizations will remain a source of pride for many years to come. Although the results of your efforts failed to produce, in full the desired results, the methods employed reflect your sense of fair play and dedication and is a lasting tribute to your moral character.

My personal service to our community extends well beyond the four years I was privileged to represent you as a member of a city commission. My record of accomplishments is available to all who wish to assess my effectiveness as a legislator during my tenure in office. Such an evaluation will reveal to even the most critical of my opposition, that my actions, while often controversial, were always in the best interest of this community and its citizens. I will not attempt to present to you an itemized account of my contributions toward making Benton Harbor a better city. I will simply point out that the most recent inter-government battles are identical to the issues raised by myself and commissioner Yarbrough almost three years ago, for which we received little or no support and a great deal of criticism. If we were wrong then, why is it now so suddenly timely? Unified action at that time would have made the present reaction to crisis situations unnecessary and victory a certainty.

To the members of the opposing slate — "Clean Slate" — I offer my congratulations. I am sure it is your intent to provide the City of Benton Harbor imaginative and enthusiastic leadership.

There are, however, some matters that need to be resolved. I am referring to the letters sent out by the heretofore unknown "United Homeowners of Benton Harbor" under whose title vicious smear leaflets against me and other Common Sense candidates were sent to residents just before the election.

This leaflet contained no names of the people responsible for it just "United Homeowners of Benton Harbor."

The city commission by resolution has denounced this anonymously distributed leaflet as an "exercise in libelous and juvenile conduct" and has condemned such irresponsibility.

There is a moral to be found in this tragic episode. One, I am sure, that will thrust suddenly forward with dramatic impact. In these times when it is of crucial importance that we come together as one, we find ourselves being driven further apart. The personal affront upon me is of little consequence for I feel secure in the knowledge that I have given far more to this community than I have received. In truth compensation was never anticipated. The attack upon my mother, however, cannot and will not be ignored. It is the kind of debt that demands satisfaction. I am anxiously awaiting the moment of reprisal.

I had purposely delayed the issuing of any statement to allow ample time for the appropriate parties to denounce these improprieties. Their failure to do so leaves me no alternative other than to conclude this act was accomplished not only with their knowledge but their sanction.

Let me close by again thanking those who worked so diligently and honorably in behalf of the Common Sense Candidates. Because of you I can state with genuine conviction: It is far better to suffer defeat with dignity than gain victory without it.

Benton Harbor.

ENGINEERS' SPEAKER: Pro's, Unions 'Don't Mix'

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Organizing members of various professions into one politically powerful group would ward off unionization, a Lansing executive told Twin Cities area engineers last night.

"Unionism and professionalism are not compatible," declared Hugh W. Brenneman, executive vice president of the Michigan Association of the Professions.

Brenneman addressed members of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers and representatives of other professional groups at Win Schuler's restaurant in Stevensville.

The Michigan Association of the Professions, organized in 1958, is to professional groups what chambers of commerce are to businesses, Brenneman explained. Eligible for membership are accountants, school administrators, dentists, teachers, optometrists, architects, engineers, doctors, pharmacists, veterinarians and lawyers.

The same organization is needed at the local level, Brenneman said. He cited two areas where combined, cooperative action is needed—politics and economics.

In the political field, he said, the legislature divided the professions, giving each a pet plum, then soaked them with an unfair share of taxes through the single business tax. Had the professions been organized such divide and conquer efforts would not have succeeded, he said.

In economics, he said, the response of professionals who think they are underpaid has been to consider unionizing. But, Brenneman said, it is not necessary to strike to get greater income.

Brenneman used the Michigan Education association as an example. He said the MEA fell into the trap of becoming a labor union. It was a shogun wedding, he said.

He continued: "As a result the MEA has sanctioned strikes to increase teacher salaries...but its main contribution to higher teacher salaries was made by its influence with the legislature and that has been done as an association and is not based on strikes."

"In fact the strikes have been a negative factor in their negotiations with the legislature. Strikes have cost the teachers their professional standing."

"Professions get their economic strength from their unique ability to serve," he said. "Unions (get theirs) from their privilege to strike."

DISCUSS PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATION: Hugh W. Brenneman (right), executive vice president of Michigan Association of the Professions, cites need for professional groups to organize for economic and political strength. From left are Clair Aiken, Midland, president of Michigan Society of Professional Engineers; Harry Ball, St. Joseph, secretary of MAP and a member of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chapter of the engineers; and Clarence Clarke, Evansville, president-elect of Indiana Society of Professional Engineers. ## Woman Is Arrested In Shooting Incident

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Annie Louise Knox, 22, of 581 Pipestone street.

Police said the shooting occurred at 581 Pipestone about

Benton Harbor police arrested today a Chicago couple Thursday on charges of drunk and disorderly and child neglect after police reported finding the woman's 13-month-old boy in a car unattended.

Patrolmen Phil Harris and Robert Clemmons said they were called to the Ponderosa bar, 426 Territorial road about 10:50 p.m. where a couple was reportedly inside with a baby. Harris and Clemmons said the couple left when asked, but later returned to the bar after putting the boy in a car. The patrolmen said the child had very little clothing on and the temperature was in the 30s. The boy was turned over to a Benton Harbor woman, reportedly a friend of the couple.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Johnnie Lee Williams, 25, and Mona L. Prophet, 19, both of Chicago.

A young Benton township woman was arrested Thursday by township police on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a knife, allegedly against several persons including a township police sergeant.

Sgt. James Lester reported no one was injured in the incident shortly before 1 p.m. in the 1400 block of East Napier avenue.

Police Roundup

Lester said his glove was cut while trying to subdue the woman.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Wanda Sue Lively, 17, of 1444 East Napier.

Lester said the incident stemmed from an argument between a woman and a Benton Harbor couple.

A young Watervliet man was arrested by state police of the Benton Harbor post Thursday on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Michael Allen Brock, 18, of 709 Forest Park road. Troopers said a $300 rifle was confiscated. It was among several guns and other household goods, valued at about $1,300, that were reported stolen from the home of Nick Peet, 290 Shore lane, Watervliet township, last weekend.

A 16-year-old Benton township boy was taken into custody by Benton Harbor police Thursday on a charge of breaking and entering a home at 344 Colby street.

Police said the occupant of the home, Cynthia Johnson, saw a young man carrying end tables believed from her home while she was visiting a neighbor shortly before 9 a.m. She and her friend apprehended the a youth after a short foot chase, police said.

The boy was turned over to the custody of his parents pending petitioning to juvenile court, police indicated.

Thefts reported to Benton township police Thursday were:

—A wallet containing $220 in cash from the home of Vanessa Davis, 1316 Superior street.

—A citizens' band radio, valued at $239, from the pickup truck of William D. Penter, Angling road, Coloma, parked in the 1400 block of Milton street.

SHERIFF DIES

Woman Is Injured In I-94 Crash

An Ann Arbor woman received minor injuries Thursday as the result of a three-vehicle accident on I-94 near Pipestone road, Benton township, state police of the Benton Harbor post said.

Treated and released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was Annina M. Mitchell, 24, identified as one of the drivers. Troopers said her car apparently went out of control due to slippery conditions and struck another car then slid into a semi-truck. Neither of the other drivers were hurt, troopers indicated. She was cited for violation of the basic speed law, speed too fast for conditions, troopers reported, in the 2:45 p.m. accident.

Benton township police said one driver received minor injuries Thursday in a two-car collision about 9 a.m. at the intersection of Napier and Ogden avenues, Fairplain.

Police said Bonnie Hope Kinchen, 27, of 2295 Lawrence drive, Benton Heights, sought her own treatment for minor injuries. Driver of the other car, identified as Kim Alan Wilder, 18, of 1302 Ogden, Fairplain, was unhurt and police cited him for failure to yield the right of way.

And much later, Samuel F. Smith, devoted an entire stanza to God when he penned his poem entitled "America."

"Our fathers' God, to Thee, Author of liberty, To Thee we sing; Long may our land be bright with freedom's holy light; Protect us by thy Might, Great God, our King."

WANTS DISCLOSURE ON SJ BUS TRIPS

Editor,
This looks like the year of "Let George Do It." After 40 years of deficit spending to give us what we couldn't afford we finally come to a point where we know this type spending and taxing must end.

We can see the folly of our ways on all sides of us. We can see city after city on the verge of bankruptcy. We can see our Social Security System that the elderly supported for 40 years, trying to expand their benefits to a point that is apt to bankrupt this worthy system. We can see our postal system raising rates and running in the red. We can see our welfare and A.D.C. rolls expanding at alarming rates. We can see our schools all clamoring for more and more money. We can see less and less man-hour production and less and less jobs and many many corporations with excessive profits, and unwarranted tax relief without being made responsible for furnishing new jobs to warrant same.

I note in the Nov. 11, edition of this news paper the report on the St. Joseph school board hearing. Board president Ray Dumke ask us to write our legislators against cuts in state aid to education. I would advise that we alert our legislators and Gov. Milliken that we back these cuts wholeheartedly and let them know that we expect cuts across the board, including our schools.

Mr. Dumke also announced tentative budget reductions of $40,000. Now this is a start but I wouldn't say $40,000 is much of a cut out of a $5,300,000 budget would you? This could be achieved by eliminating any two people in the administrative branch of our school system.

We have also heard a lot of pros and cons about busing a few students living within a mile of the school and having to walk busy roads. I believe these students could be bused from cluster groups without prohibitive expense and without any special millage. Many of us are aware of the hundreds of bus trips made by the school to Sarret Nature Center, to Kalamazoo, to many other places and these trips could be curtailed and this money could be used to finance home to school trips. I would challenge the school officials to make a public disclosure of the total number of bus trips and mileage and cost of all bus trips other than trips made to transport students from home to school. If this information was published I am sure it would add a new perspective in the solving of our busing problem.

So let's quit kidding ourselves and do what's really needed by cutting our budgets across the board and not wait for "George To Do It."

COMMISSIONER BROWN COMMENTS ON RECORD

Editor,
I would like to take this opportunity to extend my appreciation to those citizens and campaign workers who labored, unselfishly, in behalf of myself and the "Common Sense Candidates" during the November 4, 1975 general election. The manner in which the campaign was conducted by these individuals and organizations will remain a source of pride for many years to come. Although the results of your efforts failed to produce, in full the desired results, the methods employed reflect your sense of fair play and dedication and is a lasting tribute to your moral character.

My personal service to our community extends well beyond the four years I was privileged to represent you as a member of a city commission. My record of accomplishments is available to all who wish to assess my effectiveness as a legislator during my tenure in office. Such an evaluation will reveal to even the most critical of my opposition that my actions, while often controversial, were always in the best interest of this community and its citizens. I will not attempt to present to you an itemized account of my contributions toward making Benton Harbor a better city. I will simply point out that the most recent inter-government battles are identical to the issues raised by myself and commissioner Yarbrough almost three years ago, for which we received little or no support and a great deal of criticism. If we were wrong then, why is it now so suddenly timely? Unified action at that time would have made the present reaction to crisis situations unnecessary and victory a certainty.

To the members of the opposing slate — "Clean Slate" — I offer my congratulations. I am sure it is your intent to provide the City of Benton Harbor imaginative and enthusiastic leadership.

There are, however, some matters that need to be resolved. I am referring to the letters sent out by the here-tofore unknown "United Homeowners of Benton Harbor" under whose title vicious smear leaflets against me and other Common Sense candidates were sent to residents just before the election.

This leaflet contained no names of the people responsible for it just "United Homeowners of Benton Harbor."

The city commission by resolution has denounced this anonymously distributed leaflet as an "exercise in libelous and juvenile conduct" and has condemned such irresponsibility. There is a moral to be found in this tragic episode. One, I am sure, that will thrust suddenly forward with dramatic impact. In these times when it is of crucial importance that we come together as one, we find ourselves being driven further apart. The personal affront upon me is of little consequence for I feel secure in the knowledge that I have given far more to this community than I have received. In truth compensation was never anticipated. The attack upon my mother, however, cannot and will not be ignored. It is the kind of debt that demands satisfaction. I am anxiously awaiting the moment of reprisal.

I had purposely delayed the issuing of any statement to allow ample time for the appropriate parties to denounce these improprieties. Their failure to do so leaves me no alternative other than to conclude this act was accomplished not only with their knowledge but their sanction.

Let me close by again thanking those who worked so diligently and honorably in behalf of the Common Sense Candidates. Because of you I can state with genuine conviction: It is far better to suffer defeat with dignity than gain victory without it.

ENGINEERS' SPEAKER: Pro's, Unions 'Don't Mix'

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Organizing members of various professions into one politically powerful group would ward off unionization, a Lansing executive told Twin Cities area engineers last night.

"Unionism and professionalism are not compatible," declared Hugh W. Brenneman, executive vice president of the Michigan Association of the Professions.

Brenneman addressed members of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chapter of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers and representatives of other professional groups at Win Schuler's restaurant in Stevensville.

The Michigan Association of the Professions, organized in 1958, is to professional groups what chambers of commerce are to businesses, Brenneman explained. Eligible for membership are accountants, school administrators, dentists, teachers, optometrists, architects, engineers, doctors, pharmacists, veterinarians and lawyers.

The same organization is needed at the local level, Brenneman said. He cited two areas where combined, cooperative action is needed—politics and economics.

In the political field, he said, the legislature divided the professions, giving each a pet plum, then soaked them with an unfair share of taxes through the single business tax. Had the professions been organized such divide and conquer efforts would not have succeeded, he said.

In economics, he said, the response of professionals who think they are underpaid has been to consider unionizing. But, Brenneman said, it is not necessary to strike to get greater income.

Brenneman used the Michigan Education association as an example. He said the MEA fell into the trap of becoming a labor union. It was a shogun wedding, he said.

He continued: "As a result the MEA has sanctioned strikes to increase teacher salaries...but its main contribution to higher teacher salaries was made by its influence with the legislature and that has been done as an association and is not based on strikes."

"In fact the strikes have been a negative factor in their negotiations with the legislature. Strikes have cost the teachers their professional standing."

"Professions get their economic strength from their unique ability to serve," he said. "Unions (get theirs) from their privilege to strike."

A Benton Harbor woman was arrested by city police on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon Thursday after a shooting incident in which a Benton Harbor man was seriously wounded.

Listed in "serious" condition today at Mercy hospital with bullet wounds in both legs was Lenell Crockett, 33, of 170 East Empire avenue.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Annie Louise Knox, 22, of 581 Pipestone street.

Police said the shooting occurred at 581 Pipestone about 10:20 p.m. A .22 caliber revolver was confiscated, police reported.

The incident apparently resulted from an argument, police said.

Benton Harbor police arrested a Chicago couple Thursday on charges of drunk and disorderly and child neglect after police reported finding the woman's 13-month-old boy in a car unattended.

Patrolmen Phil Harris and Robert Clemmons said they were called to the Ponderosa bar, 426 Territorial road about 10:50 p.m. where a couple was reportedly inside with a baby. Harris and Clemmons said the couple left when asked, but later returned to the bar after putting the boy in a car. The patrolmen said the child had very little clothing on and the temperature was in the 30s. The boy was turned over to a Benton Harbor woman, reportedly a friend of the couple.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Johnnie Lee Williams, 25, and Mona L. Prophet, 19, both of Chicago.

A young Benton township woman was arrested Thursday by township police on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a knife, allegedly against several persons including a township police sergeant.

Sgt. James Lester reported no one was injured in the incident shortly before 1 p.m. in the 1400 block of East Napier avenue.

Police Roundup

Lester said his glove was cut while trying to subdue the woman.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Wanda Sue Lively, 17, of 1444 East Napier.

Lester said the incident stemmed from an argument between a woman and a Benton Harbor couple.

A young Watervliet man was arrested by state police of the Benton Harbor post Thursday on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was Michael Allen Brock, 18, of 709 Forest Park road. Troopers said a $300 rifle was confiscated. It was among several guns and other household goods, valued at about $1,300, that were reported stolen from the home of Nick Peet, 290 Shore lane, Watervliet township, last weekend.

A 16-year-old Benton township boy was taken into custody by Benton Harbor police Thursday on a charge of breaking and entering a home at 344 Colby street.

Police said the occupant of the home, Cynthia Johnson, saw a young man carrying end tables believed from her home while she was visiting a neighbor shortly before 9 a.m. She and her friend apprehended the youth after a short foot chase, police said.

The boy was turned over to the custody of his parents pending petitioning to juvenile court, police indicated.

SHERIFF DIES

Woman Is Injured In I-94 Crash

An Ann Arbor woman received minor injuries Thursday as the result of a three-vehicle accident on I-94 near Pipestone road, Benton township, state police of the Benton Harbor post said.

Treated and released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, was Annina M. Mitchell, 24, identified as one of the drivers. Troopers said her car apparently went out of control due to slippery conditions and struck another car then slid into a semi-truck. Neither of the other drivers were hurt, troopers indicated. She was cited for violation of the basic speed law, speed too fast for conditions, troopers reported, in the 2:45 p.m. accident.

Benton township police said one driver received minor injuries Thursday in a two-car collision about 9 a.m. at the intersection of Napier and Ogden avenues, Fairplain.

Police said Bonnie Hope Kinchen, 27, of 2295 Lawrence drive, Benton Heights, sought her own treatment for minor injuries. Driver of the other car, identified as Kim Alan Wilder, 18, of 1302 Ogden, Fairplain, was unhurt and police cited him for failure to yield the right of way.

Flooded Farmer Claims Disaster Aid Is A Flop

MONTAGUE, Mich. (AP) — One of the Newaygo County farms hit hardest by flooding last August won't be eligible for any of that county's share of federal disaster funds, its owner says.

"When you're declared a disaster area, you automatically get the impression that you're eligible for some kind of relief. It turns out that simply is not true," said Ed Weesies.

He reported his Weesies Brothers Celery Farm lost one-third of its crop, worth $300,000, but isn't eligible for federal aid.

Weesies blamed legislation Congress enacted last July for eliminating his farm from any share of federal aid. The new law limits 5 per cent government loans to farmers who cannot borrow from other sources.

"It clearly penalizes the good businessman who has good credit," Weesies said.

But Victor Nienhuis, county supervisor for the Farmer's Home Administration which handles the disaster relief program, said he had few complaints about the new regulations. He conceded many farmers may not have sought aid because of them, though.

"People don't like to see millionaires getting help from the federal government. You've got to remember that it's costing our tax dollars to pay for these programs," Nienhuis said.

The Weesies took their problem to state Rep. Dennis Cawthorne, R-Manistee. The legislator's aide, Richard Gibson, said he will investigate, although "it appears there is nothing we can do."

That leaves the Weesies to seek loans from local banks, at interest rates 3 to 4 per cent higher than offered by the government.

Kissinger Hinting He May Resign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometimes with wit, sometimes in subtle comments, Henry A. Kissinger is beginning to send out signals that he may quit as secretary of state somewhere down the road.

Although President Ford might successfully try to dissuade him, a combination of circumstances could prompt Kissinger to step aside, especially if his foreign policy is undercut in the 1976 election campaign.

At this point, Ford appears to value Kissinger's expertise. But at lower White House levels Kissinger is the target of considerable back-biting that seems to be dampening his spirits.

Like the Shakespearean figure who protested too much, Kissinger insists the Cabinet shakeup, which cost him the job of national security adviser, has not diminished his influence with or access to Ford.

"I feel that there is too much concern with abstract bureaucratic structure," Kissinger told a dinner audience in Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Actually, Kissinger prized the hour he had every morning with Ford, and before him with President Richard M. Nixon.

Now Kissinger will have to give up his corner office in the White House and his seat on some half-dozen security panels.

So far, he still gets to see Ford every day, and there is no reason to imagine him not commanding an audience with the President in a crisis.

Early November Sales Cheer Auto Manufacturers

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Early November U.S. car sales rose 45 per cent over the recession-plagued levels of 1974, the four domestic auto makers said Thursday.

It was the sharpest year-to-year gain for a 10-day selling period since 1972, although the hike was more a reflection of poor sales a year ago rather than of current strength.

Each of the car producers posted strong gains over the first 10 days of November 1974, when the recession and record price increases on new models sent sales falling to their second lowest levels for the period in 15 years.

General Motors was up 36 per cent, Ford Motor Co. 22 per cent, Chrysler Corp. 47 per cent and American Motors Corp. 100 per cent.

Total domestic sales in the period were 198,948, compared with 136,921 in the year-ago period.

Meanwhile, the trade journal Automotive News said Thursday domestic auto production this week reached the highest levels of the year, as all U.S. car assembly plants were operating for the first time in five months.

However, three of the companies announced temporary production cutbacks for next week, most involving truck output, to keep mounting inventories in line.

Flooded Farmer Claims Disaster Aid Is A Flop

MONTAGUE, Mich. (AP) — One of the Newaygo County farms hit hardest by flooding last August won't be eligible for any of that county's share of federal disaster funds, its owner says.

"When you're declared a disaster area, you automatically get the impression that you're eligible for some kind of relief. It turns out that simply is not true," said Ed Weesies.

He reported his Weesies Brothers Celery Farm lost one-third of its crop, worth $300,000, but isn't eligible for federal aid.

Weesies blamed legislation Congress enacted last July for eliminating his farm from any share of federal aid. The new law limits 5 per cent government loans to farmers who cannot borrow from other sources.

"It clearly penalizes the good businessman who has good credit," Weesies said.

But Victor Nienhuis, county supervisor for the Farmer's Home Administration which handles the disaster relief program, said he had few complaints about the new regulations. He conceded many farmers may not have sought aid because of them, though.

"People don't like to see millionaires getting help from the federal government. You've got to remember that it's costing our tax dollars to pay for these programs," Nienhuis said.

The Weesies took their problem to state Rep. Dennis Cawthorne, R-Manistee. The legislator's aide, Richard Gibson, said he will investigate, although "it appears there is nothing we can do."

That leaves the Weesies to seek loans from local banks, at interest rates 3 to 4 per cent higher than offered by the government.

Kissinger Hinting He May Resign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometimes with wit, sometimes in subtle comments, Henry A. Kissinger is beginning to send out signals that he may quit as secretary of state somewhere down the road.

Although President Ford might successfully try to dissuade him, a combination of circumstances could prompt Kissinger to step aside, especially if his foreign policy is undercut in the 1976 election campaign.

At this point, Ford appears to value Kissinger's expertise. But at lower White House levels Kissinger is the target of considerable back-biting that seems to be dampening his spirits.

Like the Shakespearean figure who protested too much, Kissinger insists the Cabinet shakeup, which cost him the job of national security adviser, has not diminished his influence with or access to Ford.

"I feel that there is too much concern with abstract bureaucratic structure," Kissinger told a dinner audience in Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Actually, Kissinger prized the hour he had every morning with Ford, and before him with President Richard M. Nixon.

Now Kissinger will have to give up his corner office in the White House and his seat on some half-dozen security panels.

So far, he still gets to see Ford every day, and there is no reason to imagine him not commanding an audience with the President in a crisis.

Early November Sales Cheer Auto Manufacturers

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Early November U.S. car sales rose 45 per cent over the recession-plagued levels of 1974; the four domestic auto makers said Thursday.

It was the sharpest year-to-year gain for a 10-day selling period since 1972; although the hike was more a reflection of poor sales a year ago rather than of current strength.

Each of the car producers posted strong gains over the first 10 days of November 1974, when the recession and record price increases on new models sent sales falling to their second lowest levels for the period in 15 years.

General Motors was up 56 per cent, Ford Motor Co. 22 per cent, Chrysler Corp. 47 per cent and American Motors Corp. 100 per cent.

Total domestic sales in the period were 198,048, compared with 136,921 in the year-ago period.

Meanwhile, the trade journal Automotive News said Thursday domestic auto production

this week reached the highest levels of the year, as all U.S. car assembly plants were operating for the first time in five months.
